Dear Ed:

The American Mining Congress is strongly supporting the Administration's request for authorization of an $8.4-billion U.S. contribution to the International Monetary Fund.

As part of our effort, I have written today to all Members of the House and Senate, explaining our position and enclosing a statement that also calls for certain reforms in the policies and practices of the IMF and other international financial and development institutions.

It is encouraging to know that the Administration has expressed support for the basic concepts of these reforms.

I am taking the liberty of enclosing a sample copy of my correspondence with the Members of Congress and the AMC statement.

If there is any further action we ought to take to generate support for the Administration's goals in this matter, I would be pleased to hear from you.

With warmest personal regards, I am

Sincerely,

J. Allen Overton, Jr.

The American Mining Congress supports the authorization of an $8.4-billion U.S. contribution to the International Monetary Fund and respectfully urges you to support it.

We also believe, however, that this funding should be conditioned on strong U.S. advocacy of certain reforms in IMF policies and practices, and these same reforms should apply to the World Bank and other international development institutions.

We hope these reforms will also enjoy your support.

Last Friday, I sent to your office a statement that outlines the AMC position on the $8.4-billion authorization and the changes we advocate in international lending policies, but in the press of legislative business, it may not have come to your personal attention.

I am taking the liberty, therefore, of enclosing another copy of that statement and hope it will engage your thoughtful consideration.

With warmest personal regards, I am

President's Letter

Replenishing the International Monetary Fund: It needs more cash, but a few caveats as well

Debate has been raging here in Washington over President Reagan's request that Congress authorize an additional $8.4 billion as the U.S. contribution to a fresh infusion of money into the International Monetary Fund (IMF), which the President rightly calls "the linchpin of the international financial system."

Before discussing the merits of the case, it is important to understand the extent of America's participation in what amounts to a global rescue mission. The $8.4 billion would be about 20 percent of a $42-billion package of new resources for the IMF. Many industrialized nations favored an even greater infusion of new funds and were willing to increase their proportionate share, but the U.S. resisted this as unnecessary at this time.

Moreover, it's not a "bailout" for banks. As the President said last week, "IMF plans to assist financially troubled countries call for the banks to put up more new money than the IMF itself."

The failure of Congress to act positively on this matter would have ominous consequences, what Mr. Reagan calls "an economic nightmare that could plague generations to come." Before examining these, however, and the much brighter prospects that congressional action could produce, it might be useful to review some major causes of the present crisis.

- The enormous price increases in oil in the 1970s placed awesome financial burdens on the poor countries and, without outside assistance, could have wrecked their fragile economies.

- At the same time, the Persian Gulf oil exporters were piling up a huge surplus of money, more than they could use, and this had to be invested somewhere. A large portion was deposited in interest-bearing accounts in U.S. commercial banks, which had to recycle these petrodollars somewhere in the form of interest-bearing loans. The greatest demand (with a few exceptions such as Poland) was in Third World countries, which quickly began to take on mounting debts.

- Even underdeveloped nations that were fortunate enough to have oil (such as Mexico and Venezuela) embarked on ambitious programs of growth and undertook heavy external debts, counting on high oil prices to repay their loans.

- Then came the worldwide recession, and the poorer nations found their export markets shrinking, the flow of investment funds diminishing, and inflation ravaging their economies, while the heavy schedules of debt repayment remained and became more burdensome as their currencies were devalued.

- The oil glut led to somewhat lower prices, but they provided little relief, because oil prices are denominated in dollars, and the strengthening of the dollar depreciated the value of local currencies when it came to paying the fuel bill.

- Finally there came a time when outright defaults on debts became a real threat, and clearly something had to be done fast.

- The banks that had lent the money had an obligation to help, and most tried to do so by restructuring and rescheduling debts, but the situation became extraordinarily tricky for both parties.

- The borrowers had to make politically difficult economic adjustments and some required the advice and encouragement of the IMF to face up to the task.

Thus the role of the IMF has become crucial and its resources are stretched perilously thin.

Although economic recovery is now underway in much of the world, there are immediate problems for many nations to hurdle before they can share in it.

If this can't be done, not only will these lesser developed countries suffer, but so will the industrial nations, because their export markets will stagnate, and these markets are vital to many American industries and workers.

The first stated purpose of the IMF is "to give confidence to members by making the general resources of the Fund temporarily available to them under adequate safeguard, thus providing them with opportunity to correct maladjustments in their balance of trade payments without resorting to measures destructive of national or international prosperity."

In supporting the added U.S. contribution to the Fund, the American Mining Congress wishes to emphasize that IMF's aim is to render temporary relief to overcome specific maladjustments. It is not a development institution.

Yet, in determining whether to render help and how much, IMF often imposes a stringent "conditionality" that a recipient nation must comply with, and this can profoundly affect the plans and works of the World Bank and other international development agencies, sometimes producing conflicts.

This is why the American Mining Congress, in its Declaration of Policy adopted at its annual Mining Convention in San Francisco last month, strongly urges the maximal coordination and cooperation among the IMF, the World Bank and other international financial institutions.

We also advocate that the Secretary of the Treasury should instruct U.S. representatives to international development banks to use their voices and votes to encourage development projects that will help Third World nations to diversify their economies, but to discourage those projects that are not economically viable without government subsidy, or otherwise to prop up any imprudent policies of a recipient nation.

The purpose should be to assist them in strengthening their basic economies, to build the physical and social infrastructure needed for sound growth, to encourage industries that can create genuinely productive jobs that can gain export earnings through their capacity to compete fairly in the free marketplace of the world.

This type of development will also serve U.S. interests, because it will generate a growing demand for the goods and services that we excel in producing.

AMC's Declaration of Policy emphatically opposes assistance that fosters industries which, on their own, would not have the economic viability to compete in a free market.

In numerous instances, for example, such assistance creates the circumstances for increased production of minerals that are already in worldwide oversupply. These enterprises are often government-owned, controlled or subsidized. They are generally free from the antitrust and environmental constraints imposed on U.S. industries, and they generally maintain production at capacity levels in order to earn foreign exchange, provide jobs and curb social unrest.

The result is excessive production that forces prices down, causing great harm to U.S. producers of minerals and U.S. workers.

In the long run, it also harms the nations that engage in such practices, because it misdirects their scarce revenues and resources away from the more important task of diversifying their economies in the manufacturing and agricultural sectors, and it makes them vulnerable to overdependence on one or a few commodities that are extremely subject to volatile markets and prices.

It is very much to be hoped that the present crisis in international finance will focus attention on the urgent need for basic, long-range reform whereby the developed nations seek to help those less fortunate than themselves.

With the hope that such reform will be forthcoming, the American Mining Congress urges Congress and citizenry of the U.S. to support President Reagan's request for the $8.4 billion authorization for the International Monetary Fund.

I have a very important favor to ask of you.

Would you please call Craig Fuller and express the very strong concern of the Chamber, speaking for the business community, on the IMF. Our concern is that although the President positioned himself beautifully last week on the issue, it will not move in the House until there is a letter from the President to the Democrats who were maligned by Phil Gramm's political letter against them. See attached.

Don Regan has worked out language that protects the interests of both the Republicans and the President. At a meeting today of the IMF business coalition that we coordinate, great concern was expressed that the White House is not moving this. Since that letter is key and the issue is very much one that is high on business' priority list, any support that Craig can give to moving this out of the White House rapidly would be very much in our interest.

REAGAN-IMF
BY PAULINE JELLINEK

WASHINGTON (AP) -- TREASURY SECRETARY DONALD T. REAGAN SAID TODAY HE THINKS CONGRESS WILL APPROVE THE $8.4 BILLION INCREASE IN THE U.S. CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND, BUT PREDICTED THE VOTE "WILL BE A SQUEAKER."

REAGAN HINTED THAT DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSMEN WILL BE GIVEN "AN EXPLANATION" -- BUT NOT THE APOLOGY THEY HAVE SOUGHT -- FOR A CONTROVERSIAL LETTER ATTACKING THEM AFTER THEY SUPPORTED THE ADMINISTRATION POSITION ON THE BILL. HE SAID ONCE THAT ISSUE IS SETTLED AND A COMPROMISE IS REACHED ON DOMESTIC HOUSING, THE IMF BILL WILL BE APPROVED.

"IT WILL BE A SQUEAKER, BUT I DO THINK IT WILL GO THROUGH," HE SAID IN A BREAKFAST SPEECH TO THE U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

* THE REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE SENT LETTERS TO THE HOME DISTRICTS OF 20 CONGRESSMEN ACCUSING THEM OF "SUPPORTING COMMUNISM" AFTER THEY OPPOSED AN IMF BILL AMENDMENT PROHIBITING THE UNITED STATES FROM SUPPORTING IMF LOANS TO "COMMUNIST DICTATORSHIPS."

THE ADMINISTRATION OPPOSES MEASURES THAT WOULD POLITICIZE LOANS MADE BY THE IMF AND HAD ASKED FOR DEFEAT OF THE AMENDMENT.

DEMOCRATS, ANGERED THAT THE PRESS RELEASES WERE SENT AFTER THEY HAD SIDED WITH THE ADMINISTRATION ON THE ISSUE, HAVE SAID THEY WILL HOLD UP ACTION ON THE ADDITIONAL MONEY FOR THE INTERNATIONAL LENDING AGENCY UNTIL THEY RECEIVE A WRITTEN APOLOGY FROM PRESIDENT REAGAN.

"I DON'T THINK THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION SHOULD APOLOGIZE FOR ACTING OUTSIDE OF ITS CONTROL," REAGAN SAID TODAY. "NONETHELESS, I THINK AN EXPLANATION IS OWED."

HE SAID THE ONLY OTHER THING HOLDING UP THE BILL IS A RESOLUTION ON HOUSING AUTHORIZATION.

Dear Gary:

I want to express my strong appreciation for your efforts on behalf of the Administration's position to maintain the flexible character of the IMF in order to preserve the IMF's effectiveness in serving our national interest.

Enactment of any amendment that limits the use of IMF funds -- including the amendment regarding "communist dictatorships" referred to in letters from some of your colleagues, or any other such amendment -- would unnecessarily tie the hands of the IMF, thus diminishing its effectiveness and adversely affecting the interests of the United States. While I understand much rhetoric and controversy has surrounded this issue, it is my hope that differences on both sides of the aisle could be laid aside, thus allowing for early passage.

It is this bipartisan tradition, and the awareness of the significant role which the Fund has played in protecting the vital interest of the United States, which gives me confidence that we can maintain an effective consensus. Thank you again for your help.
