THE WHITE HOUSE

SUBJECT: Letter to President Reagan from Officers of the U.S. Tibet Committee

The Committee asks the President to protest the invasion and occupation of Tibet by China and to urge the United Nations to send a fact finding mission to Tibet. It has been United States policy to avoid taking a position on the status of Tibet. Therefore, I recommend that no reply be made to the attached letter from officers of the U.S. Tibet Committee.

President Ronald Reagan
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President:

We, the officers of the U.S. Tibet Committee, a national Human Rights organization, are honored to write to you on behalf of the Tibetan people on this, the twenty-third anniversary of the Tibetan National Uprising.

Since the invasion of Tibet by the People's Republic of China in 1950, for more than thirty years, the people of Tibet have actively sought and sorely needed the help of the United Nations and the outside world. Today, on the anniversary of the Tibetan National Uprising, March 10, 1959, we have called on the United Nations, again, to witness the destruction of the Tibetan people, their culture and their land under the Chinese (PRC) regime. We urge you to consider and to support our appeal.

Each and every Article of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights has been and continues to be unspeakably violated by the Chinese in Tibet. The great wealth of the Tibetan-Buddhist heritage and the natural resources of Tibet have been looted and sold; everything not considered of value to the Chinese is being destroyed. The surviving population is used as slave labor. The exhausted Tibetan people still, however, strongly maintain their faith in their religion and continue to avow that they will never accept the alien rule of the Chinese.

To whom are they to turn?

Initially, China flooded the world with accounts of the happiness in Tibet "...under the Sunshine of Mao Tse-tung's Thought." This was followed, in 1979, by a spate of self-criticism describing the unfortunate results in Tibet of the excesses of the Gang of Four, and it became clear that conditions in Tibet were, as Tibetan refugees have long described them: disaster. Now, the People's Republic of China announces that past mistakes are being rectified and that, for example, the practice of religion is freely allowed and taxes are being exempted. It is undeniably clear, from recent Tibetan accounts, that the same taxes are being collected and that religious freedom is only being cosmetically applied where visible to the freely spending tourist. No reasoning person can any longer believe the claims of the People's Republic of China.

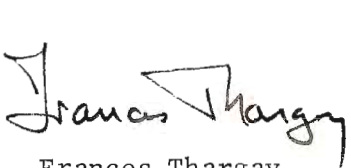

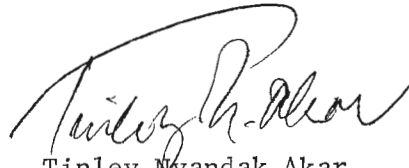

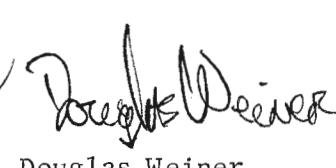

In our letter of March 10th, 1981, to the United Nations, we asked that body to take the step of sending an impartial, international fact-finding delegation into Tibet to see and to report to the world the actual situation of religion, health, education and the welfare of the people and the land.

The People's Republic of China, as a member of the United Nations and as a nation that has proudly proclaimed to the world the progress that has taken place in Tibet over the last thirty years as a result of its concerned efforts, can have no valid objection to such a mission.

We fervently renew this request. We urge the United Nations to restore the hope of the world, to provide a voice for the world's peoples who have no other voice, in a wise and strong council of nations capable of resolving international problems. We urge the United States, Mr. President, to support our appeal.

Dear Ms. Thargay and Mr. Nyandak:

The White House has requested that I respond to your letter of January 12 to the President regarding violations of human rights in Tibet.

Concern for the advancement and protection of human rights remains a firm element of U.S. policy. The United States Government has raised, and will continue to raise with the Chinese Government our concerns regarding reports of arrests, executions, and imprisonment on religious and political grounds. We will continue to express American concerns not only with regard to general problems but, as we did in response to the reports of arrests and executions in Tibet last October, with regard to specific cases.

Thank you for keeping in contact with us on the situation in Tibet.

Sincerely,

Elliott Abrams

Letter to President

The President
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

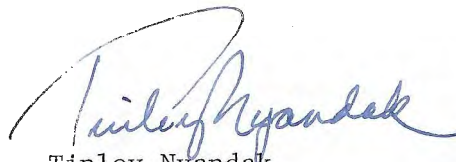

We hope that the visit of Premier Zhao Ziyang will be successful in the furtherance of understanding, good-will and exchange between the People's Republic of China and our country. At the same time, we believe that serious consideration should be given to China's continuing violations of human rights in Tibet.

We enclose a copy of our letter to Premier Zhao Ziyang and an update on the recent mass arrests and executions in Tibet. It is our understanding that the strong expressions of concern from the United States Congress, the American Ambassador in Peking and the American people have been instrumental in halting a number of public executions, for which we are profoundly grateful; but we are gravely concerned about the lives of those Tibetans who are still in forced labor camps and prisons. Although the Chinese claim that those arrested are all "hardened criminals," the fact is that most of them are religious and political activists.

We urge you to seek amnesty for these unfortunate people, many of whom were only released from years of prison and forced labor in 1979.

Respectfully,

Your Excellency:

We would like to take this opportunity, while you are visiting our country, to bring to your attention a matter that is of grave concern to many citizens of this country and members of Congress: that of the continuing human rights violations of the Tibetan people.

We recognize that the People's Republic of China is a huge and complex country with many political, economic and social concerns. However, we urge you to use your good office to investigate the recent mass arrests and the executions, both public and secret, of Tibetan people. In addition, we urge you to stop the violent persecution of religious workers and to release all religious and political prisoners.

Worldwide interest and respect for the Tibetan-Buddhist culture has increased rapidly in the last decade, specifically in our country; each year more and more conferences, seminars and exhibits are held by distinguished institutions and more books published on Tibet, its culture and history. As the American public becomes more informed, it becomes more concerned about the suppression of the Tibetan people and their culture.

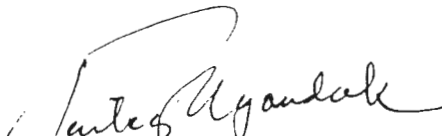

We are supportive of the momentum started by the reforms announced in 1980 by your government, and have respect for the admission of previous mistakes. We urge your government to now examine the practices of the present administration in Tibet with the same critical honesty and to correct the ongoing abuses in Tibet.

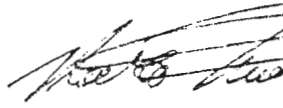

We urge you to convey this message to your government on your return to China.

UPDATE ON ARRESTS AND EXECUTIONS IN TIBET

Tibetans returning from Tibet in October report that the Buddhist scholar, Geshe Losang Wangchuk, and four other Tibetans scheduled to have been executed on October 1st are still alive. They were transferred on the night of Sept. 5 from Sangyip prison near Lhasa to a maximum security compound, Tasung Khang, holding some 50 inmates, all political activists said to be facing execution. All of these prisoners are manacled and chained, are locked in separate cells and allowed no visitors.

Tibetans visiting Lhasa in early October report that it was common knowledge there that arrested Tibetans were being secretly executed and beaten to death during interrogation. Executions were reported in Karze (eastern Tibet) on Sept. 10, those executed named as Lhundup, aged 50, Tadhon, 20, and Phunta, 30; in Shigatse on Sept. 27 six Tibetans were publicly executed (reported in the Oct. 19 London Times by David Hewson, in Shigatse on the day of the executions); on Sept. 30 in Lhasa; on Oct. 4 in Jhara, a suburb west of Lhasa, 16 people were secretly executed and four more the following day. The bodies of Tibetans executed on Sept. 30 in Lhasa were given to their relatives, who were charged approximately 50 cents for each bullet used in killing that individual.

Arrests and executions have apparently abated recently in Tibet. It is generally believed that the unusually strong response from governmental and human rights leaders, encouraged by Tibetans in exile and concerned individuals throughout the free world has caused the Chinese leadership to restrain such overt actions in Tibet at this time. The severity of the Chinese attacks on monks and ex-monks during this period, however, has given rise to great anxiety about the continuation of the current leniency towards religion.

The November Tibetan Review gave additional information about the Sept. 13 raid on Ganden Monastery. It was described as involving some 1,000 Chinese soldiers, who set up machine guns at strategic points outside the monastery while 150 soldiers entered the monastery premises to set up additional machine guns before beating and tying up the monks engaged in reconstruction and loading them onto trucks. The elderly monk who died as a result of repeated beatings was named as Gyamtso, a former chanting master. It added that one of the monks arrested was Wangdak, a refugee visiting from India.

One of the young monks interviewed at Drepung Monastery by foreign journalists in Lhasa in early August was arrested shortly after the interview. The Ven. Kalsang Tsering, 20, had accompanied a ten-year-old novice monk, Cilequnden (Tinley Gendun?), who was featured in an article by Jeff Sommer in Newsday, Aug. 15. Titled, "Knows Mao, Loves Dalai," the story describes the boy as "willing to chant his favorite text, 'Long Life to the Dalai Lama.'" Both monks were interrogated by the Public Security Bureau immediately after the interview. The younger monk was released, but Ven. Kalsang Tsering was imprisoned for refusing to talk about the interview.

A press release issued on Dec. 6. by the Information Office of H.H. the Dalai Lama in Dharmasala gave the names and brief backgrounds of 13 prominent Tibetans arrested by the Chinese, including Ven. Kalsang Tsering from Drepung Monastery and two of those arrested at Ganden Monastery on Sept. 13: Tsering Drakpa and Yarphel Gya-wo. The following were arrested on Aug. 26 unless otherwise indicated:

Mr. Kalden Tsewang, a teacher of Tibetan language at a school in the cement factory at Dhongkar, near Drepung Monastery. There had been no previous complaint from the Chinese about his work or conduct, however, he had visited relatives in India in 1981 and was related to a young Tibetan executed in Lhasa in 1971.

Mr. Jampa Tsondu is a former monk from Drepung Monastery and student of Geshe Lamrim, one of the foremost living scholars of Tibet today. He had been an accountant in a footwear cooperative in Lhasa.

The Ven. Palden Gyatso, 48, a monk from west Tibet. Released in 1979 after many years in prison and forced labor camps, he had recently joined Drepung Monastery to continue his religious studies. He was arrested on charges of being connected with the Ven. Losang Wangchuk, the Buddhist scholar and Tibetan nationalist.

Mr. Lobsang Choephel, 32, had been a member of the Communist Youth League until the Cultural Revolution. At that time he was put in a manual labor group because he was a member of an aristocratic family. In 1982 he was appointed deputy director of an archeological department. He is believed to have been arrested for advocating independence. His youngest brother was involved in an anti-Chinese movement and was among a group executed in 1971.

Mr. Tamdin Sither comes from a respected Tibetan family. A staff member of the survey department until 1965, he was then transferred to the cement factory. During the Cultural Revolution he was arrested and imprisoned in a purge of all "reactionary forces" and because he was said to be connected with a youth group involved in the freedom movement. He was released in 1979, but was attached to Production Brigade #5, a closely-guarded prisoner work-group in which he would have been unable to engage in such activities as theft, black-marketing, etc.

Bu-ras Choezad was a merchant in Lhasa. His "fault" was that of actively collecting, reprinting and distributing Tibetan Buddhist texts and speeches of His Holiness the Dalai Lama.

Mr. Jigme Sangpo is considered an authority on Tibetan history, literature and language. He was arrested in 1960 while teaching at the Lhasa Primary School on charges of "corrupting the minds of children with reactionary ideas." He was released, but arrested again during the Cultural Revolution along with thousands of other scholars and religious teachers. Released again in 1979, he was a member of the Production Brigade at Nyethang until his arrest in August.

Mr. Tsering Gyaltzen, a cadre trained and educated by the Chinese, was the accountant of the cooperative shop in east Lhasa. He was arrested the first week of September.

Achok, a man from Drege in Kham (an eastern Tibetan province). After his arrest the police searched his home and confiscated not only his pen, paper and books, but also such kitchen supplies as salt, baking powder and spices.

Mr. Jamyang is a relative of Mr. Lobsang Jinpa, the former president of the Tibetan Youth Congress in India. Mr. Jamyang was arrested the first week of September in Shigatse.

These prisoners whose names have been confirmed are only a few of the men, women and children arrested in Tibet who, the Chinese maintain, are "hardened criminals." Many of the arrested have been deported to forced labor camps in the Amdo Province in north-eastern Tibet. The Dalai Lama's Office added that one of the prime targets of the arrests have been those marked by the Public Security Bureau as having shown particular interest in the three fact-finding delegations sent by His Holiness the Dalai Lama to Tibet in 1979 and 1980.

President Ronald Reagan
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President:

On this day, the twenty-fifth commemoration of the Tibetan national uprising of March 10, 1959, against the Chinese occupation of Tibet, we call on you, as a representative of freedom and human rights in the world, to pause in your responsibilities and remember the people of Tibet.

We call on you to share with us our mourning for the terrible magnitude of destruction in Tibet, and to honor the heroic resolution of the Tibetan people, in Tibet and in exile. The tragic losses in Tibet are, in fact, the losses of the whole world and the impoverishment of its future generations.

The Tibetan people, who renounced warfare a thousand years ago, living in peace with their neighbors, have lost their long-cherished independence for more than a quarter century. Out of a population of six million, one million Tibetan men, women and children have been lost through execution, imprisonment and starvation; a genocide committed on a people who have never known famine, who had no need for a prison system and who had even abolished capital punishment almost a hundred years ago.

The Tibetan-Buddhist civilization, with its profound wealth of philosophy, literature, arts and sciences, is now in ashes in Tibet; over four thousand monasteries and temples, along with the invaluable religious art they contained, have been smashed to rubble. The teaching and study of religion, the lifeblood of the Tibetan people, is banned.

During this ordeal of death and destruction, the people of Tibet have been sustained only by their deep faith in religion and in His Holiness the Dalai Lama, who, safe in exile, keeps alive the hopes and traditions of Tibet.

On this very special day, we call on you to honor the unshakeable resolve of the people of Tibet to regain their freedom and to make Tibet a zone of peace once again. For more than two decades of a most cruel and inhuman occupation, the Tibetan people have never ceased in their resistance to foreign rule, and Tibet is still rigidly controlled by nearly a million occupation troops and civilian personnel. There are, in Tibet today, a hundred thousand Tibetan political and religious prisoners, condemned to hard labor in one of the world's largest concentration camp systems. And Tibetans continue to sacrifice their lives for their country and their religion, having suffered a new wave of arrests and executions that began in August of last year.

Fifteen years ago, on March 10, 1969, His Holiness the Dalai Lama stated, "Even if the Chinese leave nothing but ashes in our sacred land, Tibet will rise from these ashes as a free country...." The ashes of occupied Tibet blow across the world to defile the principles of freedom and human rights; however, the Tibetan people in exile have already accomplished an awesome miracle in revitalizing the Tibetan culture for the world at large.

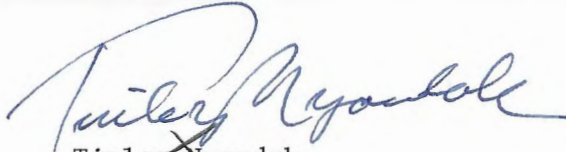

One hundred thousand Tibetan refugees, inspired by the wisdom and guidance of His Holiness the Dalai Lama, have succeeded in the preservation of their great heritage. They have established religious and cultural institutions throughout the world, to make this vast body of knowledge available to everyone, they have founded a modern educational system in exile for Tibetan children and an extensive program for the health and well being of Tibetan exiles. We salute these noble accomplishments, achieved while surmounting the hardships of life in exile.

Thus, we ask you to join us in honoring the people of Tibet, in their homeland and in exile, as we inaugurate a "Year of Tibet."

And, finally, we call on you to fully exercise the mandate of your high office to champion the just cause of Tibet and her people.

SUBJECT: Request that the President Meet with the Dalai Lama

*PR007
FG006-12*

Robert Gray, Chairman of Gray and Company, wrote you on June 7, 1984 (Tab A), requesting that the President meet with the Dalai Lama during the latter's visit to Washington, D.C., September 19-22, at the beginning of a 44-day visit to the United States. Gray did not press hard for the meeting, noting that he was simply referring the request.

After the NSC received the letter from you, we forwarded it to the State Department, asking them to prepare a draft reply from the White House. State has had a policy problem determining who should see him, and will be making a decision on this shortly. In the meantime, they have sent back a proposed reply to Bob Gray from you (Tab B) informing Gray that the President cannot see the Dalai Lama but that he will be "appropriately received."

Dear Fred:

I respectfully submit for your review a request for a meeting with the President we have received from The Office of Tibet. The Dalai Lama, spiritual leader of the Tibetan people, will be making a 44-day visit to the United States. The Dalai Lama will be in Washington, D.C. from September 19-22, 1984 and is hopeful he can meet with the President.

I have enclosed a press release on the visit for your review. Please let me know if the President's schedule would permit you to confirm a meeting time.

Thank you for your consideration.

With best regards,

His Holiness the Dalai Lama to Visit the United States

His Holiness the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal leader of the Tibetan people, will arrive in New York City in the third week of September, for a 44-day visit to the United States.

The upcoming visit will take him to Washington, D.C.; Washington, N.J.; Middlebury, Vt.; Amherst, Mass.; New Rochelle, N.Y.; Dallas, Tex.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Santa Barbara, Calif.; and Astoria, Ore. During the visit His Holiness will speak at various institutions, universities and Buddhist centers.

From Sept. 27 - 29, His Holiness will address the conference on "The Bodhisattva and the Christ" at Middlebury College in Vermont. From Oct. 3 - 5, His Holiness will address the conference on "The Buddhist Inner Sciences and the Modern Mind and Life Sciences" at Amherst College, Mass. In the mornings of Oct. 7 and 8, His Holiness will address the conference on "Religion and Materialism" at Columbia University and in the evening of Oct. 7, he will give a talk at an inter-religious Service for World Peace which will be held at St. John the Divine. A public talk is also scheduled in the evening of the 8th at Columbia University.

His Holiness will be in Dallas from Oct. 14 - 16 during which he will give a talk at Southern Methodist University and address the Second Convocation of World Thanksgiving. Los Angeles schedules, Oct. 17 - 23, include an address at the Los Angeles World Affairs Council in the evening of Oct. 17, and three days (Oct. 21-23) of Lamrim teachings, the graded path to enlightenment, at Thubten Dhargyeling, a Tibetan center for Buddhist Studies. The teachings will be preceded by a public talk and an Avalokitesvara initiation on Oct. 19 and 20 respectively.

From Oct. 24 - 26, His Holiness will be visiting the University of California, Santa Barbara, where he will give lectures on Tibetan Buddhism and also participate in a dialogue with several other distinguished guests, focusing upon possible strategies and solutions relating to the problem of global conflict. As an extension of the dialogue, His Holiness will give a public talk in the evening of the 26th.

His Holiness the Dalai Lama visited the United States in 1979, 1980 and 1981. Press conferences are scheduled in New York City, Washington, D.C., Middlebury, Amherst, Dallas and Los Angeles. Media will be informed of the date, time and place for these conferences in the near future.

FROM: DAVID LAUX DL

SUBJECT: Request that the President Meet with the Dalai Lama

Robert Gray, Chairman of Gray and Company, wrote to Fred Ryan on June 7, 1984 (Tab A) submitting a request that the President meet with the Dalai Lama during the latter's visit to Washington, D.C., September 19-22, at the beginning of a 44-day visit to the United States. Gray did not press hard for the meeting, noting that he was simply referring the request. The NSC received the request on June 26 and referred it to State on July 10 to prepare a reply.

State has had a policy problem determining who should see him, and will be making a decision on this shortly. In the meantime, they have sent back a proposed reply to Bob Gray from Fred Ryan (Tab B), informing Gray that the President cannot see the Dalai Lama but that he will be "appropriately received."

Attached at Tab I is a memo from you to Fred Ryan, forwarding the proposed reply.

Dear Hart,

It was good to hear from you after so long. You must be prospering in your academic career, what with travels in Nepal and India and now your stay in Madison. It seems a far cry indeed from our days in Brazil.

On your point regarding Tibet, you are right to note our national security interest in China. The fact is that we recognize one China, which has its capital in Beijing. Tibet is an "autonomous region" within China, and we acknowledge Beijing's claim to it.

When human rights issues arise, we assess them on their merits and press our case according to our own conscience. In this regard, it should be noted that although tensions persist between native Tibetans and ethnic Chinese in Tibet, China has begun to take steps to improve the situation. Just the other day, the Panchen Lama, who spent over nine years in detention during the Cultural Revolution, spoke at China's National People's Congress and called for donations to rebuild lamaseries destroyed by the Red Guards.

On another matter, I received a note from a mutual friend in Brazil in December. Aline Vayda sent me congratulations, and asked for your address. I sent her your Texas address; I hope she reached you. In case she didn't, however, this is her address:

Mrs. Aline Paiva Mello de Vayda

Thank you for your message of congratulations. Regards from the whole family.

Dear Frank,

I've seen you and heard your name mentioned so often in the past week, I begin to wonder if you are not perhaps living in my television set.

Congratulations on your assignment! When we were in Brasil, I remember you were sometimes unhappy about being too far from the center of the action. God knows, you ought to be happy now.

I should have written long ago, but in true Sprager fashion I have put it off as long as I can. Now, finding that your wife hails from Madison, where I am parked at a four month meter, I can put it off no longer. The National Procrastinators Club will probably take away my rubber calendar if they ever get around to having a meeting.

Actually, I was thinking about you even before you assumed your post. Strange, you might say, all these years having passed, but perhaps in context, not as strange as all that. In truth, by anyone's terms my last year has been astounding. I've been spending a lot of time looking back at the past, and a big part of my past is USIA and Brasil. So, when I look into that time tunnel searching for events and experiences to feel really good about, I invariably remember the coup of '68 and the "Revolt of the Young Turks!", and invariably that reminds me of you, Frank, because without your leadership we would have had to call it "Young Turks Bitch, Moan, & Piss into a Strong Wind". I know we didn't change the course of history. Hell, we didn't even alter the short term actions of the Embassy, but as I look back at that event, I see it as one my richest Foreign Service experience. Indeed, it was one of the few times I can remember in my ten years of Government service when a group of officers, ignoring the effect it might have on their efficiency ratings, threw down the gauntlet in an effort to make the established order adhere to the moral letter of the law when short term national self-interest, short term profit, and "the bottom line", all the criteria on which we usually base decisions, said ignore it. A rare moment it was.

As I said earlier, my last year has been an amazing one. That's because I spent it wandering though India and Nepal. Everywhere I went, everywhere I turned, I encountered the unexpected. Perhaps the most unexpected thing I found was a nation in exile. The nation is Tibet. I speak not of the Tibet that has been slaughtered and desecrated by the Chinese, but rather the Tibet that is the unique culture and tradition that have been salvaged and kept alive in India by the Dalai Lama and his fellow countrymen.

I find it curiously ironic that our Government which talks so loudly and spends so much on the support of anti-communist endeavors around the world, has closed its eyes for so long and silently left Tibet to its unhappy fate. Except for the training of a handful of guerillas in Colorado back in the fifties, we haven't done much. I realize that Tibet is a relatively small potato in our basket of hot potatoes, that our relations with China are more weighty in terms of national security. Despite that fact, I am certain that some progress might be made if we would simply include the Tibetan issue on our list of priorities.

I realize, Frank, that you are faced with many pressing problems at this time, that another straw is not what the camel's back is looking for. Realizing that, I suggest that while you are in a position to do so it would be a worthy and humanitarian act for you to look into this question and possibly press for some kind of moral or political aid to the Dalai Lama and his people.

There are lots of experts here in the US who have concrete suggestions on what kind of action or support would be helpful. I am not one of them, but if and when you're interested I can lead you to them.

Yours,

Hart Sprager

Dear Mr. Frank Carlucci:

My name is Aline Vayda and I live in Parque Guinle, Rio de Janeiro. I was a neighbor of Hart and Della Spragler [sic]. I remember you and your wife, also, since my children played with your daughter when she was at the Spraglers' house.

My husband and I are close friends of Ambassador Sergio Correa da Costa who recently retired from the Embassy at Washington.

I recently read in the Jornal do Brasil about your appointment to the position of National Security Adviser at the White House and I would like to congratulate you. It occurred to me that I could write to you and ask if you would be so kind as to send me the Spragler family's current address. I have not heard from them in a long time and I would like to write to them.

I already attempted to find their address through the United States Consulate here in Rio but no one there could help me. Since you were a friend of Mr. Spragler, I thought it would be easy to find out, through you, where they are living. My last contact with them was when they were in Texas; even so, I have not been able to find their latest address.

I hope your family is well and I wish all of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

I am writing to you in Portuguese because I know that you speak our language. The article in Jornal do Brasil said that you "love to tell jokes in Portuguese" at the cocktail parties at the Brazilian Embassy.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain

Cordially,

Prezado Sr. Frank Carlucci,

Meu nome é ALINE VAYDA e moro no Parque Guinle, no Rio de Janeiro, e fui vizinha da família de Hart e Della Spragler. Lembro-me também do senhor e sua senhora, tendo meus filhos também brincado com sua filha quando ela vinha à casa dos Spragler.

Meu marido e eu somos muito amigos do Embaixador Sérgio Correa da Costa, que recentemente se aposentou da Embaixada de Washington.

Recentemente li no Jornal do Brasil sobre sua nomeação para o cargo de assessor de segurança nacional da Casa Branca, pelo que lhe felicito, e assim ocorreu-me lhe escrever solicitando-lhe a gentileza de me mandar o endereço atual da família Spragler, pois há muito tempo não recebo notícias deles e gostaria muito de escrever para eles.

Já tentei através do Consulado Americano, aqui do Rio, descobrir o endereço deles, mas ninguém sabe me informar. Como o senhor era amigo de Hart Spragler, penso que seria fácil, através de sua pessoa, saber onde eles moram. Meu último contato com eles foi quando moravam no Texas, mas mesmo assim não encontrei mais o último endereço deles.

Espero que sua família esteja bem e desejo a todos um Feliz Natal e Ano Novo.

Escrevo-lhe em português porque sei que fala nosso idioma. e porque no artigo do Jornal do Brasil diz que o senhor "adora contar piadas em português" nos computadores da embaixada brasileira.

Aguardando em breve sua resposta, subscrevo-me

Cordialmente,
