Dear Molly:

We have discussed the request of Dr. David Paletz of Duke University for information on the status of his request for the 1980 Campaign videotapes.

It is generally felt that we don't want anyone to have these tapes before November 7, 1984, at which time Dr. Paletz can renew his request.

Best personal regards,

Sincerely,

Dear Mike:

Several weeks ago we received another letter from Dr. David Paletz of Duke University requesting information on the status of his request for 1980 Campaign videotapes, (see attached correspondence.)

On Ed's instruction, these materials have not been duplicated during the past two years. However, if you and he wish to alter that policy, please let me know and I will proceed to answer Dr. Paletz's request.

Sorry to bother you and thanks for your help.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Drachkovitch:

I understand from Ms. Pruda of your staff that you want me to put in writing the nature of my request for copies of some of the campaign commercials used by President Reagan in the 1980 presidential election.

In brief, we have established an archive of television campaign commercials in the Political Science Department here at Duke University. Our collection includes ads from many campaigns ranging from the most sophisticated (Republican party ads in 1980 attacking the Democratic-controlled Congress), but not neglecting the most abysmal (McGovern in 1972). We are particularly proud of our collection, stretching back to 1960, of commercials from presidential contests.

At this time, we have no ads from President Reagan's 1980 campaign. That is why, through the good offices of Dave Gergen, I requested permission from Michael Deever to obtain copies of a representative sample of these ads from the Hoover collection. I was most gratified to learn from Maxine Walker of Dave Gergen's office (202-456-7113) of Mr. Deever's approval of my request and instruction to contact Molly Tuthill of the Hoover Institution to make arrangements for obtaining the requisite material.

In Ms. Tuthill's unavoidable absence because of sickness, I spoke with Ms. Lood. She was able to inform me of the existence of thirty cassettes but was unfamiliar with their contents or their length. If you can provide me with any of this information, it would certainly help me to formulate my request for particular ads--we are only seeking a representative sample. Alternatively, if necessary, I might be able to arrange for a responsible individual to examine the cassettes on my behalf.

I want to emphasize that the ads are housed at Duke and are used solely for pedagogical purposes by members of the Political Science Department who teach American government and politics. No extra copies are made and no copies are released to any individual or organization or entity whatsoever for any purposes. We are certainly willing to sign a release to that effect.

Sincerely,

David L. Paletz

Dear Mike:

I'm writing regarding the attached letter from Dr. David Paletz of Duke University.

Given the political sensitivity of the tapes in 1984 and an opinion we received from Fred Fielding stating that all audio-visual material is the property of the President, we must have your approval in writing before we can give Dr. Paletz the material he has requested.

All previous requests for copies of the Campaign '80 Tapes for similar use have been refused by Ed, so this is a first for us which we hope doesn't open Pandora's box.

I'm sorry to trouble you, but in accordance with our established access policies we are requesting written permission before we release any material other than that already determined to be in the public domain (speeches, press releases and position papers.)

Thanks for your help and cooperation.

Sincerely,

Molly

Thank you for your letter of September 17.

I did, indeed receive your earlier letter of July 20. On August 2, Molly Sturges Tuthill, who manages the Reagan Collection, wrote to Michael Deaver about your request. Access to the Campaign '80 tapes requires the written permission of Mr. Deaver, or one of the other trustees of the Reagan Collection. I appreciate your patience.

Mr. Wm. E. Mac Monagle
3131 Smith Rd
Akron, Ohio 44313

Dear Mr. Mac Monagle:

Thank you for your recent letter of July 17th.

I too, believe that too many citizens of this great country are ignorant of how and why our government operates. Some of the fault is in the way government is taught in the schools; much of it is because modern methods of communication have made information available in a rather casual way. A hundred years ago, the visit of a major candidate to a community was an "event", now you see them on TV almost daily. Local politics used to have a real effect on life in your community. Today you may live in one town, work in another, and do your shopping somewhere else. No longer do you have the feeling of a close knit community in which the person you vote for really affects your life.

I would not advocate going back to the non-communication days of 100 years ago, but I do think more knowledge of government policies and practices should be available to everyone.

The library has an important place in providing this knowledge and we in Akron do have as much information as possible in as convenient a form as we can. I would like to think that a special room, devoted to government, would be practical, but unfortunately it is not.

The support of Libraries in Ohio is through the "intangibles" tax and fortunately for us, the interest in stocks and bonds is high. We are able to devote two entire research tables to the subject of stocks and bonds, because this information is in high demand. We could not afford the space to devote several research tables (much less a separate room) to "government".

The closest we can come to that is the information of a separate "government documents" section in the library. This has been proposed and is currently under study.

This library does use the Dewey Classification scheme and material about government is collected in one place; again, subdivided by Federal, State and Local.

I only wish you were able to visit us at the downtown library. I would be very happy to show and explain our methods of collecting and filing governmental material.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Michael Deaver

SUBJECT: Assemblyman George F. Allen

Upon my return to the office yesterday, Coach George Allen asked me to call and tell you about the great victory of his son George in his maiden effort in politics. Running in the Albemarle-Nelson County area (Charlottesville) George took on an incumbent who had been there for ten years and the area had gone Democrat the last two elections prior to this one. So after 14 years George won by 25 votes.

The quest became a family affair in which George's brother, Bruce, and Coach Allen went to Charlottesville and campaigned heavily. Coach was so excited and wanted you to know that this was another great victory in his life. Actually "It was greater than beating Dallas," he said.

Best regards.

Dear Mr. President:

It is my understanding that Lee M. Thomas, who is presently serving as Acting Deputy Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, has been proposed as the most qualified individual to fill the Deputy Director's position on a permanent basis. I am well acquainted with Mr. Thomas and his outstanding efforts, and I strongly recommend that his name be submitted for Senate confirmation.

As you know, prior to assuming the Acting Deputy's slot, Mr. Thomas was Associate Director, State and Local Programs and Support Directorate. In that capacity, he was called upon to make some extremely tough decisions in order to safeguard fragile national resources in times of natural disaster. My own experience with him has convinced me that he is an exceptionally capable individual who exercises strong leadership, as well as one sensitive to local needs, federal limitations, and the need for timely action. The contrast between Lee Thomas and his predecessor in the previous Administration is a study in black and white, one which I would like to share with you through a very telling example.

I am privileged to represent the San Joaquin Delta, an area whose totally unique character makes it exceptionally vulnerable to threatening elements. The very fertile islands in the Delta have literally been reclaimed from below sea level, and are bound and protected by a series of levees. Should one of those levees break in severe weather conditions, not only is the particular island in question in peril -- so is the entire Delta area. High winds and resulting strong waves not only inundate the damaged area, but also threaten to flood adjacent islands through a chain reaction of damaging events. Thus, when a levee breaks, rapid and effective action is absolutely mandatory.

During the previous Administration, several islands in the Delta were so afflicted on one or more occasion. At the appropriate time, I appealed to FEMA for disaster declaration assistance. The response was uncooperative, ineffective, devoid of responsiveness, and, ultimately, extremely costly to my District. In September of this year, a similar occurrence was met with an entirely different reaction. Lee Thomas understood the problem, took a personal interest, stayed in constant contact, marshalled the forces of his agency, and produced the needed remedy in a timely and helpful manner. I am still receiving letters of great appreciation from state and local officials, as well as the growers impacted by the disaster.

The President
November 1, 1982
Page 2

Lee Thomas is clearly a man with impeccable credentials and qualifications when it comes to emergency management. He is also thoroughly experienced with perhaps the most challenging of disaster demands through his service to date with FEMA. He has delivered a superb performance as an Associate Director; he will demonstrate equal excellence as Deputy Director.

In summary, I wholeheartedly commend Lee Thomas to your attention, and I deeply appreciate your attention to this appeal.

With best regards --

Sincerely,

Dear Glenn:

Attached please find the draft of a letter setting forth the President's interest in accepting the invitation to locate his Presidential Library on the Stanford campus near the Hoover Institution.

While we must have this letter reviewed by the Counsel's Office to be sure it is legally accurate from a technical point of view, the President is prepared to sign this sort of letter whenever it is appropriate to do so.

Thank you for your attention to this.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL K. DEEVER
Assistant to the President
Deputy Chief of Staff

Dr. W. Glenn Campbell

/Enclosure

Dear Dr. Campbell:

I deeply appreciate the invitation which you have extended on behalf of the Hoover Institution and Stanford University to locate my Presidential Library on the Stanford campus in close proximity to the Hoover Institution.

The designation of this site to house my Presidential papers would be a natural extension of my long association as an Honorary Fellow of the Hoover Institution and would make possible the unification of my Presidential papers with my gubernatorial papers and the 1976 and 1980 campaign and transition files, totalling some 2,600 cubic feet, that have already been donated to the Hoover Institution. The location of the library on the campus of Stanford University would make the historical record of my Administration widely accessible to the academic community and the public.

With my Administration, the Presidential Records Act of 1978 will be applied to Presidential papers for the first time. Under this Act, the Archivist of the United States will assume custody of such materials upon conclusion of my term of office and deposit them in a Presidential Archival Depository, operated by the United States government. The Presidential Libraries Act, as amended, authorizes the Administrator of GSA to utilize a library constructed with private funds to house Presidential records and other historical materials. Before entering into any agreement to utilize the library as the Presidential Archival Depository, the Administrator must submit the details of any such agreement to Congress so that it will have an opportunity to review any conditions and consider the future maintenance costs to the United States.

Because of the numerous requirements of law as well as important policy issues that must be addressed, I believe we should begin now to make plans for a library and for the preservation of the fullest possible record of this Administration.

Sincerely,

THE WHITE HOUSE

To: Mr. Michael Deaver,

You know the President much better than I do working with him everyday. You know he really wants to keep his programs. You must present these suggestions to him.

Scale down these programs:
B1 Bomber
Neutron bomb
Cruise missile
Trident subs
at least 50% in the 1984 Budget only!

The MX Missile is stupid! It has sounded like an idea a drunk general came up with from the very beginning! Give it up! Cancel the program! You guys have had nearly 2 years to figure out what to do with it and you guys still haven't figured out what to do with it!
- Scale down the last year of the tax cut by 2%.

If you do these things the liberal House will have no central issue to hold it together and the Administration, can use the old Roman tactic of divide and conquer to get the rest of your proposals through the Congress. Ann Marie Black Ohio University

Dear Frank:

Thanks so very much for sending the samples of the Christmas cards drawn by the Costa Rican children in the cancer ward of the Children's Hospital.

This is the kind of effort that everyone would like to be involved with. It appears that everyone has contributed to the Children's Hospital and has made it the best of its kind in Latin America.

Thanks again for sending both the samples and the news clips.

Sincerely,

Dear Mike:

As you asked, I enclose samples of the Christmas cards drawn by Costa Rican children in the cancer ward of the Children's Hospital as well as some clips from the local press.

The Children's Hospital was built in the early 1960s through contributions from the Costa Rican Government and private sector, with the help of $2,000,000 of U.S. Aid funds. In the intervening years the U.S. has remained involved with the hospital, accounted by American specialists in the field to be the best of its kind in Latin America. U.S. private organizations have also made significant contributions to help the Costa Ricans make it into the hospital it is today (e.g., in 1974 the cure rate was 10%; today it is 75%).

This year the U.S. Embassy Women's Organization, composed of the women of the official family, spouses and employees, has donated 28,000 of these cards to the volunteer service corps of the cancer ward (the oncology division) of the hospital. They are selling them for ₡30 each (about $.70) and the proceeds will be used as needed throughout the year. Since most of the medicines needed for cancer treatment must be brought in from the U.S. or Europe and treatment is given regardless of ability to pay, costs are astronomical, and most of the necessary money is raised by volunteers.

Sincerely,

Frank

P.S. I enclose envelopes in case you would like to use these samples this Christmas.

Dear Mike:

I am told that the President has been invited to speak to the graduating class of the Northwestern Executive Master's Program by Dean Jacobs, and that they hope to be able to give President Reagan an Honorary Doctorate of Economics.

This note is simply to let you know that it is a legitimate organization, and Dean Jacobs is a fine person.

If I can be helpful in sorting through the matter for you, I would be happy to. I hope he is able to come.

Dear John:

We have carefully considered your renewed request that the President participate in your proposed book collecting some of his speeches, and have reluctantly concluded that he will be unable to do so.

As you may know, we have followed a policy that the President will not participate in any commercial endeavors whatever. Indeed given the number of requests for endorsements and the like that the President receives, we normally are forced to decline such requests even from charitable or other non-profit organizations, unless they are groups in which the President is personally involved or participates as President by virtue of historical precedent.

Obviously, it would be inconsistent with this policy, to which we have strictly adhered throughout the Administration, for the President to write a foreword to your proposed book or for the White House to "endorse" the project officially in a letter to be shown to prospective publishers. While I can and do appreciate your special interest in assembling some of the President's speeches in book form, I also believe that it really would be unwise for us to deviate from our policy of not participating in commercial projects of any sort.

I am sorry that we will not be able to honor your request, but hope you can understand why we must adhere to the policy described above, in fairness to all who seek the President's participation.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL K. DEAVER

MEMORANDUM

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

October 6, 1982

FOR: MICHAEL K. DEEVER
DEPUTY CHIEF OF STAFF AND
ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT

FROM: FRED F. FIELDING
COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: Request by John McClaughry to Publish
"Great Speeches of Ronald Reagan" Book

*It
I think we ought to TD McClaughry
- can you draft
a response*

I have reviewed John McClaughry's reiterated request, following his loss in the Vermont Republican Senatorial primary, for Presidential cooperation in assembling the President's speeches into a book.

There is no legal prohibition to the President's participation in a project of this sort, if he wishes to do so. Also, now that the primary is over in Vermont, we no longer have the problem of maintaining neutrality in a primary race among Republican candidates.

However, we have adhered throughout the Administration to the rule that the President will not participate in any commercial ventures whatsoever. This rule has been followed with respect to requests similar to McClaughry's. For you to write the kind of letter McClaughry wishes to show prospective publishers, and for the President to write a foreword to the proposed book, would inevitably associate the President and the White House with this project (indeed, this is surely McClaughry's intent), which would in turn give the book a considerable commercial advantage. Moreover, granting McClaughry's request might well set a precedent that would make it more difficult to deny future requests of this nature, which are sure to be made.

Let me know if you have any questions or want to talk about this.

FROM: JOHN McCLAUGHRY

1. RON TAYLOR'S RUN: Thanks very much for sending the letter to Ron Taylor on the occasion of his 24 hour 120 mile run for racial harmony. Ron reached Boston Common with ten minutes to spare. Clippings attached. Invite this remarkable young man to a White House event sometime (Putney, Vermont 05346).

2. REAGAN SPEECH BOOK : With the elections past, I am now in a position to edit the book of "Great Speeches of Ronald Reagan," which we discussed last spring. Lyn has agreed to co-edit or otherwise assist in the work.

You would of course have final say on the speeches included and the introductory paragraphs for each. I am thinking of a foreward by Paul Laxalt.

To make this project salable, I need a letter from the President to me encouraging it, which I can then use with publishers, etc. to get their interest - an imprimatur. A draft is enclosed.

As promised, I would be happy to assign part of the proceeds to CFTR or other organization designated by the President.

Please let me know on this.
