PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENT ON THE
NINTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HELSINKI FINAL ACT

Nine years ago in Helsinki, Finland, the United States and Canada joined thirty-three Eastern and Western European governments in signing the Final Act of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE). The Helsinki Accords, which committed the signing nations to abide by a set of universal standards of international conduct and fundamental human rights, hold out a beacon of hope for human dignity and freedom.

The United States remains firmly committed to the full implementation of the provisions of the Helsinki Accords. During the past year, there have been a number of significant developments in the CSCE. Last September, the three-year long Madrid Follow-up meeting was successfully concluded, with the adoption of important new provisions intended to advance the cause of human rights, including trade union and religious freedoms. The Stockholm Conference on European security was opened, where we have proposed measures to lessen the risk of surprise attack in Europe. Just as the US and its Allies played an essential role in achieving a positive outcome at Madrid, we have advanced concrete proposals at Stockholm to enhance East-West security.

Unfortunately, the promises of the Helsinki Final Act have all too frequently gone unfulfilled. The Helsinki Accords pledge the signatory states "to respect human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the freedom of thought, conscience, religion or belief, for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion." There are also commitments to advance trade union freedoms, to combat terrorism, to reunify families, to encourage the free flow of information, and more.

Over the years, there have been some gradual, hard won gains. But too often in Eastern Europe, and particularly in the Soviet Union, we find a different story -- repression of dissent, constraints on religious freedoms, refusals to permit citizens to emigrate, jamming of Western radio broadcasts, support for terrorism, and disbanding of free trade unions. The plight of Dr. Andrei Sakharov and his wife Elena Bonner is one very important example among many where the denial of basic human rights impedes the development of the more constructive East-West relationship we seek.

The challenge is a formidable one: to give real meaning, through deeds, to the promise of the Helsinki process. We have realistic expectations, a patient approach, and are prepared for serious dialogue. We call upon all CSCE states to foster human rights and freedom through the promise and commitments of the Helsinki Final Act.

MEMORANDUM FOR ROBERT M. KIMMITT

FROM: PETER SOMMER/PAULA DOBRIANSKY/STEVE STEINER

SUBJECT: Presidential Statement on Ninth Anniversary of the Helsinki Final Act

At the eleventh hour, State has recommended that the President -- as he has done in the past -- release a statement commemorating the anniversary of the signing of the Helsinki Final Act. We have reviewed and concur with State's recommended draft, as modified (Speechwriters have also cleared). Our impression is that the Western White House would welcome the opportunity to release a statement on CSCE.

RECOMMENDATION:

That you arrange for the Western White House to release the Presidential statement later today (August 1) or tomorrow (August 2).

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT ON THE

On August 1, 1975, the Final Act of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe was concluded in Helsinki. On that date nine years ago, the United States and Canada joined thirty-three Eastern and Western European governments in a commitment to abide by a set of universal standards of international conduct and fundamental human rights. The Helsinki Accords have held out a beacon of hope for human dignity and freedom.

The Government of the United States remains firmly committed to the full implementation of the provisions of the Helsinki Accords. During the past year there have been a number of significant developments in the CSCE. The three-year long Madrid conference was successfully concluded, with the adoption of important new provisions advancing the cause of human rights, including trade union rights and religious freedoms. And the Stockholm Conference on European security was opened, to develop measures to lessen the risk of surprise attack in Europe. The US and its Allies played an essential role in achieving the positive outcome at Madrid, and they have advanced concrete and constructive proposals at Stockholm to enhance East-West security.

Unfortunately, the promises of the Helsinki Final Act have all too frequently gone unfulfilled. The Helsinki Accords pledge the signatory states "to respect human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the freedom of thought, conscience, religion or belief, for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion." There are also commitments for trade union freedoms, to combat terrorism, to reunify families, to encourage the free flow of information, and more. Over the years, there have been some gradual, hard won gains. But too often the facts in Eastern Europe, and particularly the Soviet Union, tell a different story -- repression of dissidents, constraints on religious freedoms, refusals to permit citizens who wish to do so to emigrate, jamming of Western radio broadcasts, support for terrorism, and disbanding of free trade unions.

The challenge is a formidable one: to give real meaning, through deeds, to the promise of the Helsinki process. The plight of Dr. Andrei Sakharov and his wife Elena Bonner is one very important example among many where the denial of basic human rights impedes the development of the more constructive East-West relationship we would all like to achieve.

We have realistic expectations and a patient approach to the series of meetings which have followed the Helsinki Final Act. We are prepared for serious dialogue to build on gradual gains. Such concrete results are essential to the credibility of the the CSCE process. We call upon all CSCE states to rededicate themselves to the promise and the commitments of the Helsinki Final Act. The United States will not flag in its determination to promote the cause of human rights and freedom.

FROM: PAULA DOBRIANSKY <sup>PD</sup>
STEVEN E. STEINER Steve

SUBJECT: Ambassador Stoessel's Mission to Europe

State forwarded a memorandum (Tab II) which provides a brief read-out on Ambassador Stoessel's recent consultations in Europe on Soviet human rights performance. The memo also sets forth two new ideas which were discussed during the Ambassador's exchanges. The first came from the Swiss, who said they were planning to propose at the May 1985 Ottawa Human Rights Experts Meeting that the CSCE countries should each form a "human rights mechanism" modeled after State's Bureau of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs. The second came from the French, who expressed a strong interest in forming a CSCE legislative watch group in Paris, similar to the Joint Congressional CSCE Commission.

We believe that both of these ideas should be actively encouraged and pursued by State. At Tab I is a memorandum from you to State apprising them of our interest in these ideas and desire to have the requisite interagency and intra-Allied work undertaken.

Jack Matlock JM and Walt Raymond WR concur.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. CHARLES HILL
Executive Secretary
Department of State

SUBJECT: Ambassador Stoessel's Mission to Europe (U)
(S/S 84222007)

We appreciate receiving the Department's report on Ambassador Stoessel's July 18 - 25 consultations in Western Europe on Soviet human rights issues. These consultations were highly useful in keeping our European friends actively engaged on these issues and in developing some new ideas for enhancing the promotion of Western human rights objectives. (C)

We believe it important to strengthen this internal Western consultative process on human rights and to include additional European countries. We are interested as well in the two new ideas cited in your memorandum. The Department of State should initiate the requisite interagency and intra-Allied work to develop a Western consensus for more effective promotion of our human rights objectives, both within the CSCE context and in our respective bilateral dealings with the Soviets. (C)

We also are in strong agreement on the need, as stated in your memorandum, to keep Soviet human rights violations in the forefront of international public opinion and would appreciate your developing a proposed strategy for accomplishing this. (C)

MEMORANDUM FOR ROBERT C. MCFARLANE
THE WHITE HOUSE

SUBJECT: Ambassador Stoessel's July 18-25 Mission to Europe

Ambassador Stoessel, accompanied by HA Deputy Assistant Secretary Gary Matthews and an officer from the Soviet Desk, recently completed the second round of his Presidential Mission to consult with friends and allies on Soviet human rights performance (the first mission took place July 4-14, 1983). This leg of the mission included visits to Switzerland, West Germany, Denmark and France. Ambassador Stoessel and his party were received at the Secretary-General or Political Director level, and were able to engage in extensive consultations on the Soviet human rights situation and joint strategy for the upcoming CSCE meetings in Ottawa, Budapest and Bern.

In general, all of Ambassador Stoessel's interlocutors agreed that the situation inside the Soviet Union had deteriorated significantly since his last series of consultations in 1983, although the French in particular seemed to be unaware of the extent to which matters had worsened. There was also general agreement that at this stage there was little outsiders could do to influence the overall course of events within the Soviet Union, though there were still limited possibilities for quiet diplomacy on specific cases. All felt it was important to keep the issue of Soviet human rights violations before the international public. Finally, all agreed that the West should work to prevent the Soviets from shifting the focus of upcoming CSCE human rights meetings in Ottawa, Budapest and Bern away from implementation questions and toward more theoretical and less controversial issues.

New Ideas

Two new ideas emerged during Ambassador Stoessel's consultations. The first came from the Swiss, who said they were planning to propose at the Ottawa Human Rights Experts Meeting in May 1985 that the CSCE countries should form a "human rights mechanism" in each country, modeled fairly closely on the State Department's Bureau of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs, which would enable the CSCE countries to consult bilaterally and multilaterally on human rights issues of interest. We made the obvious points that the Warsaw Pact countries would be driven up the wall by this proposal, and that there was a reluctance on the part of many Western countries (notably the French) to establish new mechanisms of this type. However, we also agreed that the idea deserved a good deal more study, and encouraged the Swiss to pursue their investigations. MFA State Secretary Edouard Brunner will be in the United States in October, and will relay to us the results of further Swiss consideration of this issue.

Second, French opposition deputies Francois Leotard and Michel Noir expressed to Ambassador Stoessel a strong interest in forming a legislative CSCE watch group in Paris, along the lines of the Joint Congressional CSCE Commission. Leotard and Noir, who met with Mrs. Bonner this March in Moscow shortly before the beginning of Dr. Sakharov's hunger strike, are committed to increasing international attention to Soviet human rights abuses. They were fascinated by Ambassador Stoessel's description of the way in which our CSCE Commission works, and will be coming to the United States at an appropriate time to consult with us and with Congressmen and Senators with the aim of establishing such a Commission in France.

Follow-up

In addition to the consultations referred to above, we will be conducting a continuing series of meetings with friends and allies, within the context of the Stoessel Mission and complementing our efforts in NATO, aimed at increasing Western unity at upcoming CSCE meetings. Max Kampelman will be journeying to several European countries this September as part of the second round of Stoessel Mission consultations. In addition, Elliott Abrams may go to Ireland on a separate trip this fall to take up Stoessel Mission themes. If there is sufficient reason and a continuing demand from our friends for such consultations, we would also envisage a third Stoessel Mission for mid-1985.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: ROBERT C. MCFARLANE RCM

SUBJECT: Summary: CSCE 17th Semiannual Report

The 17th Semiannual Report of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE) has been completed. It surveys significant developments in the implementation of the Helsinki Final Act during the period April 1, 1984 - October 1, 1984. This is the second Semiannual Report to stress compliance with the provisions agreed upon at the Madrid follow-up meeting. Key highlights of the Report include:

1. During the review period, the USSR and Eastern Europe record of compliance with the Helsinki Final Act principles remained seriously flawed.
2. Continued deterioration of the Soviet Union's already poor record of compliance was still the greatest cause for concern. Soviet authorities amended the legal code to outlaw independent forms of expression and severed contacts between Soviets and foreigners. Also, the abysmal level of Jewish emigration continued and was accompanied by an alarming increase in anti-Semitic propaganda.
3. There were some positive developments in East European implementation of the Final Act: Bulgaria reversed its decision to jam VOA broadcasts; in Czechoslovakia, a Rabbi was ordained (the first since 1970); Father Calciu, the renowned Romanian human rights activist, was released from prison; and Hungary and Romania continued to implement Basket II (economic) provisions satisfactorily. However, these improvements were offset by continued repression and stricter controls in each country.
