September 8, 1980

MEMORANDUM TO: REPUBLICAN STATE CHAIRMEN

FROM: BILL BROCK, REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

SUBJECT: State Party Budgets For The Fall Campaign

As you know, an amendment to the Federal Election Campaign Act, effective January 1980, allows State Parties to raise and spend significant monies for this campaign.

The $29 million in government funds finances the Reagan-Bush campaign, and the Republican National Committee can spend $4.6 million in their behalf. The only additional monies that can be most effectively raised and spent is that which is done through the State Republican Parties. Each State Party has the privilege of raising and spending an unlimited amount of money on campaign materials, voter identification, voter registration and get-out-the-vote activities.

We must anticipate a close election. That means solid statewide political organization is vital. We need to count on you to design and implement an effective program in your state. I know many are well along in this process. All of us must be soon.

We will do all we can to help you raise the necessary funds. We have asked Don Adams, Chairman of the Republican State Chairman's Advisory Group, to work directly with you. Don will be contacting you soon to discuss a budget and program for your state. Please give him your cooperation and the benefit of your knowledge.

By working like this, together and efficiently, we will ensure our victory in November.

CAMPAIGN REPORT

The campaign kick-off will be on August 26 when Governor Reagan boards the Presidential plane, heading from Los Angeles to Columbus to address the annual convention of the Ohio Teamsters Council. After his speech, he meets with a cross-section of labor leaders from other states and other trade unions. The Governor will then fly from Columbus to Virginia where he and Mrs. Reagan will take up campaign residence in Middleburg. This is a good time to bring out the first of these reports in order to keep you generally abreast of the way the campaign is organized and how it is moving.

During the month or so since the Convention, the campaign organization has been rounded out, and it now occupies 2½ floors in Arlington, Virginia. Regional Political Directors are covering all 50 states, State Chairmen and Co-Chairmen have been established for each state and all campaign programs are underway. Three airplanes are in operation, two for Governor Reagan and his press corps and one for Ambassador Bush and his press corps.

Here generally is the way the campaign organization is set up:

Senator Laxalt and Anne Armstrong are Co-Chairmen of the campaign. Bill Casey is Executive Vice-Chairman and National Campaign Director. In his office, Jim Baker is senior advisor, Cliff White is political advisor and Bob Carter is executive assistant. There are seven deputy campaign directors -- Bill Timmons for campaign operations; Pete Dailey for media; Lyn Nofziger for press; Drew Lewis for Presidential support operations; Ed Meese for research, Dick Wirthlin for strategy and polling; and Verne Orr for finance and treasury. On the political side, Stu Spencer is Timmons' principal assistant; Keith Bulen is field director for the eastern and mid-western states; Paul Manafort for the southern states; and Dick Richards for the western states. Liz Dole is Chairman of our Citizen's Council, and Max Hugel is Executive Director of Operations. Staff officers are working with major religious, racial and nationality groups, with business and labor, with trade associations and occupational groups, with youth and senior citizens, artists and entertainers, with athletes and scholars, with veterans and overseas Americans.

Bill Timmons is also responsible for scheduling, for which he has a staff headed by Chuck Tyson. Television, radio and print advertising are created and placed by a campaign advertising agency headed by Pete Dailey and staffed by a talented array of creative people on leave from major advertising agencies. A great majority of them have had experience in previous national campaigns. Ed Meese has Marty Anderson and Dick Allen as senior policy advisors and a strong staff of researchers, as well as over 300 of the most knowledgeable and experienced people in the nation formed into advisory task forces on all foreign policy and domestic matters. Dick Wirthlin has a small staff backed up by two of the finest research organizations in America: his own DMI organization and Bob Teeter's. On the campaign trail, Mike Deaver is in charge of the Governor's tour and Lyn Nofziger handles the press. Dean Burch is Ambassador Bush's principal representative in the headquarters and Pete Teeley is his press officer. Verne Orr watches the budget and is responsible for personnel and administration. Bay Buchanan is campaign treasurer, Loren Smith inside counsel and Jim Lynn outside general counsel.

Reagan-Bush campaign chairmen and executive directors are fundraising in each of the 50 states.

The Hill and the Party

Working in close harmony with Chairman Bill Brock, Drew Lewis, as deputy campaign director for presidential support operations for the Reagan-Bush campaign, has developed a close and effective partnership between our campaign and the Republican National Committee. The Republican National Committee evaluates our campaign as well as the Congressional and Senatorial campaigns, its speakers bureau carries out these track lines around the country. Rich Williamson, as campaign assistant to Senator Laxalt, develops research and issue material with committees of Republican congressmen and senators organized and led by Paul Laxalt in the Senate and Tom Evans in the House.

Our campaign will be more closely integrated with other Republican candidates than any presidential campaign in a long time. Our Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates will stand on the Capitol steps on September 15 with Republican candidates for the House and Senate to make a commitment to the nation to enact a specified legislative program if they get the power to do so through election of a Republican administration and a Republican Congress.

Full advantage is being taken of the recently enacted change in the Federal Election law designed to encourage grass roots campaigning. This permits state and local party organizations to raise and spend local money for party building, grass roots activities which are exempt from allocation to Reagan-Bush and should be helpful for all candidates.

For example, as approved by counsel:

- Mass mailings, if lists are prepared by volunteers and not purchased from commercial sources. However, a professional firm may be used to stuff envelopes, print labels from your list, etc.
- Telephone banks if callers are non-paid volunteers. However, supervisors, headquarters, telephone lines and office equipment may be paid out of state or local party funds.
- Two state-wide GOP opinion surveys - one in late August and a second in late September. Possible day to day tracking during last two weeks of campaign.
- Campaign materials such as buttons, bumper stickers, posters, brochures, yard signs, etc. However, paid newspaper or radio/TV advertisements, as well as billboards, are not to be exempt from allocation to the candidates.
- Expenses of local, grass roots, door-to-door Party activities by volunteers (such as the GOP Commitment '80 Program).
- Costs of "events" which support Party building activities, such as rally materials, sound systems, risers, backdrops, etc.
- State and local Party headquarters operations, including GOP staff.

All our supporters can strengthen our campaign by raising money for local and state parties to use for grass roots support of our campaign. Unlike money raised and spent by the independent expenditure committees, we are able to coordinate our efforts with the campaigning of state and local Republican organizations in support of the Presidential, congressional and local tickets.

At the Grass Roots

Governor Reagan has a unique and priceless asset which we must not fail to use to the hilt. It is the large army of enthusiastic and dedicated supporters his views have won over the years. Our Commitment 80 grass roots program will, under the direction of Andy Carter, demonstrate to the country the large numbers of people anxious to work for the Reagan-Bush ticket. This effort is being mounted to advocate, identify and turn out Reagan-Bush votes by house-to-house canvassing and telephoning. Leaders in this campaign will be gathered at a few hundred locations around the country on September 6, swelling into thousands of house parties to be addressed by Governor Reagan by telephone on September 13 and organized for a great door-to-door campaign to be launched on October 4.

Fund-Raising

On September 30, the Republican National Committee will have the traditional closed circuit dinners in major cities around the country. Governor Reagan, President Ford, Ambassador Bush and other major party figures will appear at these dinners and their remarks will be carried around the circuit. Republican organizations in smaller cities around the country have an opportunity to wire into this program at a cost of between $1,000 and $1,500 per dinner. They can pick their own site, run their own dinner, get a program which will cost $1,000 a plate in larger cities, set their own price for their affair and keep the proceeds for local campaigning. In 1960, about 80 dinners were organized and carried off successfully on this basis. We would like to see enough enthusiasm out there in the small cities and towns of America to break this record for Ronald Reagan and George Bush. Necessary information is being sent out to party leaders and is available from Drew Lewis at the Republican National Committee.
