1. I am aware you said that filing a memo on each occassion I see my brother is unnecessary. But because I do not underestimate the craziness of any political season, I intend to do so.
2. I have not seen my brother since the convention (after a chance meeting in a convention hall aisle (where we chatted with three or four other people for possibly five or ten minutes) except for one occassion three weeks ago when he came over to my brother in laws. I immediately left the house and simply said hello to him. The day was the Sunday of the week of the Demotratic convention. I want to stress again that I have been scrupulous about this matter. I have not and will not discuss campaign matters with anyone who might be tied to an independent expenditure group.
3. I discussed this matter with ED Meese and showed him my earlier memo to you on it. I did this three weeks ago and we have been religous about avoiding any difficulty. But the mixup in the names in this morning's ^{Post} prompted me to stress this again.
