February / March Climatology

San Diego/Los Angeles/Santa Barbara - An interesting feature of southern California's climate is the sometimes sharp variation in weather, particularly temperatures, over rather short distances. Temperatures along the coast typically range from lows in the mid 40's to highs in the mid 60's. However, a short distance inland, days are likely to be 5 degrees warmer and nights 5 - 10 degrees cooler. Eventhough up to 85% of annual precipitation falls during the winter months, rainfall amounts remain rather meager. Considerable fog occurs along the coast but usually dissipates during the morning leaving afternoons generally clear.

Palm Springs - Expect warm days and chilly nights at this desert resort. Afternoon highs average in the mid to upper 70's while overnight lows typically fall into the mid 40's. Skies are frequently clear and the likelihood of rain is slight.

San Francisco/Sacramento/Santa Clara - Locales both within and adjacent to the San Francisco Bay area share a mostly cloudy and relatively cool climate with moderate precipitation and occasional gusty winds. Daily temperatures vary from the mid 40's near day-break to the low 60's during the afternoon. Measurable precipitation occurs on an average of 5 - 9 days during February and March.

Seattle - Late winter is characterized by cloudy skies and periodic light rain. Temperatures range from lows in the upper 30's to highs near 50F. Precipitation, while not excessive, occurs frequently with over a 50% probability of occurrence. Snow is highly variable and very often melts before accumulating measurable depth.

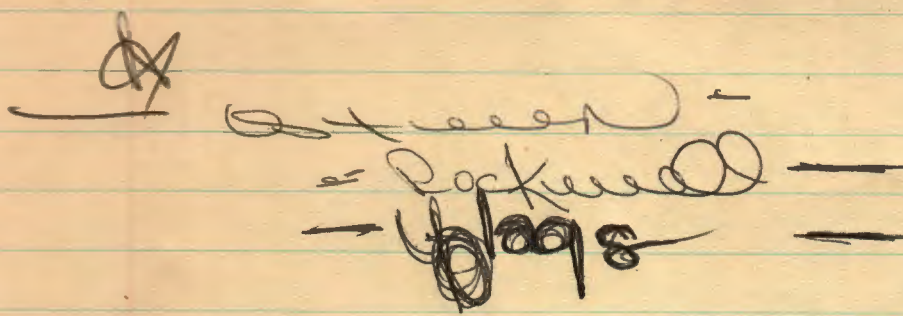

Yosemite - The high Sierras endure frigid nights and cool days with precipitation almost exclusively falling as snow particularly over higher mountain peaks. Temperatures, generally in the low 40's during the day, fall to near 20F overnight. Snowfalls can be rather heavy at favorably exposed locations while partly to mostly cloudy skies prevail elsewhere.

MEMORANDUM

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

TO: BILL SITTMANN
FROM: KATHY OSBORNE
SUBJECT: QUEEN'S VISIT
DATE: January 5, 1983

I received a phone call from Roy Brewer, an old friend and supporter of the President for many years.

He mentioned that he is not normally invited to the social engagements that we have from time to time and he's not concerned about that. However, he said he understands there is going to be a dinner or function at the Fox Studio in February when the Queen is in California, and he would like to be included in it.

Roy is a labor leader who openly supports the President in the industry -- he has had 55 years in labor management experience. I think it is embarrassing to him to think that there would be an "industry" function there and he wasn't invited.

Is it too late to add him to the list???? You might want to check with both Ed Meese and Helene von Damm who know Roy very well and would probably recommend he be included.

Thanks.

Muffie what do you think about this.

It has been called to my attention that some of the people who have worked for Ronald Reagan since 1968 have never been invited to a State Dinner. I would like to suggest that for the next couple of years, a couple of old Reagan hands and their wives be invited to each State Dinner.

We would make a lot of people happy that way, and it would be a nice little reward.

I'd like to suggest that you start with Frank Whetstone and Andy Carter. Neither one has said anything to me, but a friend told me Frank, especially, would just fall all over himself if he got that kind of an invitation. In spite of the difficulties we've had from time to time, I think he's earned it.

*WESTMINSTER, Calif. (AP) -- About 2,000 signatures have been gathered in an attempt to persuade the Queen of England to stop by this small but admiring community when she visits California next month.

Volunteers set up tables in the Westminster Mall shopping center to obtain signatures on petitions imploring Queen Elizabeth II to drop in when she's in Southern California Feb. 27 and Feb. 28.

City officials have asked the queen's advance team to scout Westminster, which shares its name with the government district of London.

"The fact that we haven't had a definite 'no' is encouraging by itself," city spokeswoman Linda Humphreys said Friday. ~~Last page. Key M-~~

Attention: Private Secretary to the Queen

By way of introduction, I was privileged to meet the Prince of Wales at the recent Dedication of the Armand Hammer World College of the American West, and also am a member of the Royal and Ancient Golf Society in St. Andrews, of which you are a patron.

Now, as Chairman of the California State Park and Recreation Commission, I would have considered it is my great pleasure and honor to cordially invite you to visit the world famous Hearst Castle on your forthcoming cruise off the California coast, but understand this cannot be included in your itinerary.

As you may know, Mr. William Randolph Hearst was a great benefactor to our State, and gave his unique home as a State Park. It is located in the quaint area of Cambria, and would have had dockage facilities for easy accessibility to your party.

It is interesting that Mr. Hearst has a historical connection with the Royal Family. As I understand, he purchased a castle in Wales which became the first world college for peace established by Lord Mountbatten.

Even though you cannot make this stop, I hope that as you cruise by the area, you will be able to view the castle by telescope high on the mountain. I trust this brief history may make your trip more meaningful.

Most sincerely,

STATE PARK AND RECREATION COMMISSION

Dear Trev:

Thank you for your kind note of January 4, suggesting that the Janeway Ranch might be used by the Presidential Party should Queen Elizabeth wish to ride while visiting in California.

I, of course, am not directly involved in scheduling the visit, and have referred your note to Mike Deaver's office. Should it be possible that this can be arranged, either I or that office will contact you.

Your generous offer is very much appreciated.

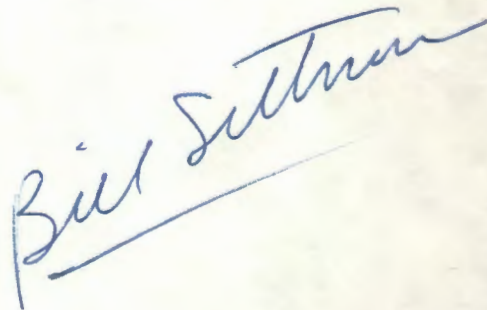

My best regards.

Dear Bill:

We think of you often and only wish we could see you a little more often. We are all so proud of the terrific job you are doing for our great country.

I wrote John Barletta suggesting that if the President so desired, when the Queen of England is here, it would be wonderful to have them ride on the Janeway Ranch. It is well protected and certainly would be very pretty countryside to ride through. Remember, Bill, if there is anything at all I can do to be of help in arranging things I would be highly honored to do so.

Hope all is well with you and that we will see you in May. Ellie joins me in sending you and the family our warmest regards and best wishes for the New Year.
