Dear Mr. Meese:

Thank you for taking your time to address our Awards Ceremony on June 4, 1982. Your remarks were appreciated very much and greatly added to our event.

I especially thank you for your kind compliments on my singing of the National Anthem. You can reach me at 287-0713 should an occasion arise for a singer.

Thank you again, Mr. Meese. I wish you and the President continued success.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Dole
Assistant to the President for Public Liaison
The White House
Washington, D. C. 20500

Dear Elizabeth:

Thank you for your call following the House vote on the budget.

Your attentiveness and courtesy in calling to express your thanks were greatly appreciated.

Actually, the congratulations go to Wayne, you, and others on your staff, for a superbly executed initiative under very difficult circumstances. You're "pros" of a refreshingly unique type ... and I hope that the President and the rest of the senior White House staff appreciate the magnitude of your accomplishment.

I'm sure that they do ... but, I am sending copies of this letter to Messrs. Baker and Meese so that they are directly aware of our respect for OPL's capabilities to be sure.

For our part, credit goes primarily to David Sloane, our Director - Congressional Relations, who, as you know, was in charge of our activities on the budget from an operational stance.

Ironcially, I returned your call from Senator Hatch's office where several of us were meeting to discuss strategy for the next several days regarding the balanced budget/tax limitation amendment.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dole

It appears that favorable action by the Senate over the next two - three weeks is a distinct probability, and I would encourage a strong initiative on the part of the White House on behalf of same.

While not fail-proof, the amendment does offer us a pragmatic way of changing the Congressional value system by introducing very real political disincentives for individual members of Congress who are predisposed toward institutionalized Federal spending despite the consequences.

Moreover, the amendment is a logical, "first principle" extension of the President's efforts to reverse the bias toward runaway Federal spending. Indeed, were it presently law, we wouldn't be fighting the "wars" we are ... or, at least, the ground rules would be markedly changed in our favor.

Thanks again, Elizabeth. It's a privilege to work with your staff and you.

Cordially,

Dirk Van Dongen
President

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HOUSE FY '83 BUDGET APPROVAL

“ . . . time has come to bring interest rates down . . . ”

Statement by Dirk Van Dongen, President, National Association of Wholesaler-Distributors, following approval of the bipartisan Economic Recovery Budget by the House of Representatives:

“The fact that the House has finally come to grips with the budget situation should send a clear signal to the nation and the financial markets that the Administration and a majority of Congress -- Democrats and Republicans alike -- are serious about bringing Federal spending under control.

“Wall Street and the financial markets have, with some reasonableness, been requiring this signal before bringing interest rates down. That signal has now been sent. Accordingly, the 45,000 companies affiliated with the National Association of Wholesaler-Distributors believe the time has come to bring interest rates down to justifiable economic levels.

“The House budget action puts Congress on record as heading in what the wholesale distribution industry sees as the right direction. We urge Congress to now pass a balanced budget amendment to establish the discipline in the budgetary process necessary to avoid future deficit spending.”

Honorable Edwin Meese III

Dear Mr. Meese:

On behalf of the nearly five hundred participants in the 28th Annual National Security Seminar, I would like to thank you for your support of this very important event in our academic year. Your address on domestic issues and their relation to the overall strategy of our nation was stimulating and thought provoking. The students, faculty members, international fellows and guests from across the country were greatly impressed with the manner in which you dealt with the many complex issues which impact upon our national security. They especially appreciated your candor in sharing your perspectives and insight during both the lecture and question and answer period.

Your five pillars of National Security Strategy gave us much to consider as we discussed the challenges and opportunities our Nation faces in these difficult times. We believe the seminar was successful in bringing together a representative group of American citizens with some of the future leaders of their defense establishment to consider the welfare and security of the Nation. Your address contributed in a very significant way to this success, and we are indebted to you for it.

We hope that you enjoyed your return visit to historic Carlisle Barracks as much as we enjoyed having you, and we look forward to the next opportunity for you to join us. I especially appreciate your taking extremely valuable time from your busy schedule to support this important program.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Harper:

Riding on Jim Kuter's coattails, I made it to the White House. Who would have believed that I would ever rise to such an accomplishment?

I did enjoy the pleasure of meeting with you. Your detailed knowledge of the construction industry and its unique problems was most refreshing. The comments on governmental activities were very interesting. The guided tour with the opportunity to see the Oval Office exceeded all expectations.

Somehow, someday, perhaps we will be in a position to return your hospitality and to express my appreciation of a very memorable day.

Dear Mr. Meese:

I have not yet had a reply to my letter of May 24 in which I asked that a group of our community leaders be able to meet with you in order to explain why we need the administration's help in securing passage of anti-busing legislation and in getting the "Hoots Case" before the Supreme Court. This is the case involving the court-ordered merger and cross-busing of our children in the east-suburban Pittsburgh area.

I realize you have been very busy with the European trip, so my original request for a meeting with you on May 3 or 4 may well have been impossible. However, we were forced to revise our plans and will be coming to Washington this Thursday, June 17, instead. Might it be possible for you to meet with us then?

Although we are completely devoted to the anti-busing struggle, we here are not, for the most part "Moral Majority" people or even "New Right" sympathizers. We represent people from all walks of life and of all shades of political persuasion when it comes to issues in general, but we are united in abhorrence of a policy which we see as destroying our children's educations and our communities and as wasting millions of dollars of our hard-earned tax money.

-----Since one of President Reagan's campaign promises was to do something about the forced busing issue (the anti-busing statement in the platform faced the problem clearly and succinctly), we're wondering why he has not yet zeroed in on accomplishing anything in this area.

The future of the American public education system is at stake, and there is no longer time for President Reagan to be lenient with "timid aides" (see accompanying newspaper article). We feel Attorney General William French Smith, for one, and his associates in the Justice Department could be doing much more to persuade the Supreme Court that its consideration of our Hoots Case would be of benefit to people all over the nation in clarifying the whole busing issue and hopefully in bringing relief to them from the scourge that is destroying good schools and good communities everywhere.

STOP FORCED BUSING

We feel also that there should be more Administration influence exerted on liberal Republican lawmakers like Senators Specter and Heinz to secure their support for anti-busing legislation. Then too, there would be more Administration support for Republican anti-busing candidates such as Ted Jacob, who is running against Doug Walgren here in the 18th Congressional District. (See enclosed "Position Paper"). In short, it is up to the President to reaffirm his position on this issue and to rally an all-out Republican effort to get something accomplished!

The American people in general scorn "wishy-washiness." They admire those who have the courage to stand up and fight for principles! Recent polls indicate that at least 83% of Americans, both white and black, are opposed to forced school busing, and recent developments in Boston, of which I am sure you are aware, are clear indications of the failure of the forced busing policy, no matter how noble its intent. The time is ripe for action now to put the American education system on an even keel again.

We are to meet with members of the Pennsylvania delegation in the Rayburn Lounge in the Capitol Building on Thursday morning. An afternoon appointment with you would make our efforts in coming to Washington indeed worthwhile. I can be reached at (412)241-3439 until about 6:30 A.M. Thursday when we will be leaving for the plane to Washington.

(Incidentally, I am a newly elected Republican committeewoman here.)

Yours very truly,

WHERE TED JACOB
STANDS ON MAJOR ISSUES

Balanced Budget

Ted Jacob believes that a balanced federal budget should be the nation's NUMBER ONE economic priority. A balanced budget in Washington, by eliminating deficit spending, will relieve pressure on financial markets and reduce interest rates. With lower interest rates Pittsburghers will be better able to afford new homes, new cars and high-quality education for their children. Business firms will be able to borrow capital for modernization, new plants, and creation of new employment opportunities.

Ted believes a balanced budget should be accomplished through cutbacks in the growth of both domestic and military spending. Ted opposes new tax increases; he supports President Reagan's three-year tax cut program. Tax increases will not reduce the federal deficit; they will only lead to increased federal spending and still larger deficits. IN CONGRESS TED JACOB WILL ACCEPT NO PAY RAISES UNTIL THE FEDERAL BUDGET IS BALANCED.

Jobs

The Pittsburgh economy is being devastated by imported products from Japan, Western Europe and Third World nations. Business firms in America are forced to compete against subsidized foreign firms who can sell products at prices below cost. These foreign firms need not worry about making a profit. The result has been large-scale plant shutdowns and layoffs in steel, automobile and other industries. To remedy this situation, Ted Jacob proposes adoption of an "import privilege fee." Such a program could adjust prices of imported products on a cost basis, thereby providing U.S. firms with fair opportunity to compete. "Free trade" is meaningless without FAIR trade. TED JACOB INSISTS THAT IT IS TIME TO STOP IMPORTING UNEMPLOYMENT FROM ABROAD.

Nuclear Arms Control

Both the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. are engaged in a mindless fight for nuclear "superiority." This nuclear arms race presents an increasing threat of nuclear war by accident or intention. There will be no "winners" of a nuclear war -- millions of people will be killed and civilization as we know it today will be destroyed. TED JACOB ENDORSES A NEGOTIATED BILATERAL FREEZE ON THE BUILDUP OF NEW NUCLEAR ARMS. Such an agreement must be verifiable and it must contain a framework for equitable reductions in the existing stockpile of nuclear weapons. Until the Soviets agree to a freeze, Ted endorses continued research, development and construction of nuclear weapons. Projects such as the B-1 bomber and the MX missile should continue on a stretched-out timetable until the Soviets sign an effective arms control agreement. Ted opposes unilateral arms control.

Compulsory Busing of Schoolchildren

Ted Jacob believes that forced busing of children for the purpose of desegregation is absolutely insane. Busing harms public schools by driving many families to private schools. Judicial busing orders remove control of local schools from parents, teachers and elected community leaders. Busing punishes families who work hard, earn a good living, and move to the suburbs for better schools. Ted does not, however, oppose voluntary busing of underprivileged children to suburban schools. Each parent should have the right to send their children to their neighborhood schools.

Ted Jacob fears that unaccountable federal judges may soon require busing on a metropolitan-wide basis in Pittsburgh. Because of this fear, TED JACOB SUPPORTS STATUTORY RESTRICTIONS ON THE POWER OF COURTS TO ORDER FORCED BUSING OF SCHOOLCHILDREN. If necessary, Ted Jacob would support a constitutional amendment providing parents with the right to send their children to neighborhood schools. As alternatives to coerced busing, Ted supports "magnet" schools with voluntary busing.

Other Issues

Ted Jacob's research staff is currently working on other major issues such as social security reform, medical care cost control, clean air law improvements and tax reform. If you have any ideas, suggestions or questions, call Ted Jacob or John Graham, legislative researcher, at JACOB FOR CONGRESS 200 Fleet St., Pittsburgh, PA 15220 (922-5160).

Restless New-Right Leaders Drift Away From Reagan

By STEVE SANDERS
Scripps-Howard News Service

WASHINGTON — A year and a half after its triumphant march into Washington with Ronald Reagan, the New Right is growing restless.

Sympathizers and opponents agree the New Right, which places ideology over compromise, has a major problem. Many of its goals are not politically pragmatic, or "do-able," in Washington parlance. And some doubt the coalition has the support to achieve its ends.

Frustrated New Right leaders are moving further away from Reagan, complaining timid aides have hog-tied his administration.

"The Reagan program is not the conservative program, and among New Right leaders I think that's the clear and emerging view," said Howard Phillips, director of the Conservative Caucus. "Our job is to get that message across to the voters so that someday we can have a chance to try our program."

The political professionals of the New Right caught attention in 1980 when their aggressiveness and fund raising boosted Republicans to victory. Their agenda includes opposition to abortion, busing and the Equal Rights Amendment, and calls for school prayer, private-school tax credits, a balanced budget and a hard line toward the Soviets.

Phillips and others have blasted the administration for its massive proposed deficit, its affinity for arms control and its failure to "defund the left" with more social-program cuts. They accuse Reagan of breaking his promises.

"The dustbin of history is piled high with political pragmatists," said John Lofton, editor of Conservative Digest. "The problem with being a slave to the (public opinion) polls is the question of, 'What about your honor?'"

The administration has tried to placate the New Right by endorsing a cautiously worded constitutional amendment to encourage school prayer and another to require a balanced budget. But there is little effort to push the measures through Congress, and meetings between New Right leaders and administration officials have been stormy.

"There are conservatives and then there are professional conservatives. A professional conservative... has a vested interest in having targets to crank out mass mailings to," a White House aide said, referring to the New Right's use of mailings to raise money.

The aide said he believes only 5 to 8 percent of the electorate backs the New Right's stance on all issues. Asked if the administration is taking the movement seriously, he responded, "The New Right gets more from this administration than they represent in the vote."

Congress also has balked on bringing far-right legislation to the floor, mostly due to congressional preoccupation with the economy.

"Middle-of-the-road politicians are still going to get what they want," said an aide to Sen. Dan Quayle, R-Ind., a conservative elected in 1980 after the New Right's vigorous attack on his opponent, former Sen. Birch Bayh.

Marty Russo, D-Ill., said he thinks the New Right's influence has been overestimated and that it has been "repudiated" in Congress.

How much popular support the New Right can claim has never been clear. Everett Ladd, a University of Connecticut political scientist and director of the Roper Public Opinion Center, argues that the movement appeals to only a small fraction of Americans.

"What you've got is a group that's ideologically distant from the center of American opinion, generally," Ladd said, adding that there is not a "groundswell" of support for major social-policy change.

In his book "The New Right: We're Ready to Lead," direct-mail expert Richard Viguerie said the "conservative revolution" of 1980 was due largely to backlash against years of social liberalism — "socialism on the installment plan" — that brought nationwide decadence: sex on TV, legalization of abortion and decline of the family.

In light of setbacks in Congress and the White House, some conservative leaders say they are reassessing tactics. They say a broader base will have to be pieced together from more Americans who agree with them on one or two issues.

Viguerie, who works 12-hour days running his company and "strategizing" with fellow conservatives, believes the movement must become more populist and "rephrase" some of its beliefs.

"I want to plan for the future. I'm unhappy with the short range, but I'm not going to get sidetracked. There's an enormous amount of activity in the movement," he said.

Not all the New Rightists are disenchanted. Cal Thomas, a vice president of the fundamentalist Moral Majority, counsels patience.

"You don't cure a man who's on a 50-year drunk in a short time," he said. "We believe we have the best opportunity for change in a long time. Enough people in the New Right know there are times when you have to be pragmatic and sometimes you have to be idealistic."

Dear Jack:

Thank you very much for your letter concerning the Washington Speakers Bureau.

Although I have no plans to join the lecture circuit at present, I appreciate your recommendation of Sheila Geoghegan at this Speakers Bureau.

When the time comes, for me to leave the federal government, I will certainly consider this and talk with Sheila.

I appreciate your thinking of me and I am grateful for your recommendation. Best personal wishes.

Sincerely,

EDWIN MEESE III

Dear Ed--

I learned by chance over the weekend that you may be casting about for a lecture agency to represent you when you decide to take to the chicken and carrots circuit. Let me recommend to you the Washington Speakers Bureau in Alexandria. The young lady who handled all my speeches for three years--and made me a bundle of money through pure charm and salesmanship--recently went with them. This is Sheila Geoghegan, and she is a ball of fire. I've found that the Washington Speakers Bureau gets me more engagements than I possibly can accept, and their commissions are the fairest in the business. I'd hate to see you leave public service, but when that time approaches I'd urge you to talk with Sheila before you make an agency decision.

Sincerely,

James J. Kilpatrick.

Dear Mr. ^{Ed} Meese:

I take this opportunity to thank you for the case of Chivas Regal scotch and Moet Dom Perignon champagne which you had forwarded for use at official functions of the Fine Arts Committee and the Department of State.

It was a gracious gesture and one that is appreciated.

With best regards,

Dear George:

It is with pleasure that I note that Edwin Meese III has been proposed as a non-resident member of the Bohemian Club. While the name of Ed Meese has become nationally recognized and has for a long time been respected in the State of California and therefore needs little further endorsement, I would like to support this recommendation.

Ed Meese is an outstanding man in his personal life as well as in his public life. His acumen, verve, and personality reflect the qualities found in most Bohemians. He is a man of background and stature most compatible with our membership. Ed Meese will make a most constructive member.

Therefore, I support the recommendation of Edwin Meese III without qualification.

Sincerely,

Ernest B. Hueter

Dear Ed:

I was most pleased to see your name proposed for membership in the Bohemian Club. I hope this means that you may be able to steal a few days away from pressures in order to attend the summer encampment. I plan on attending the middle and last weekends which are the weekends of July 23 and July 30. If you can attend the middle weekend and are going out commercial, perhaps we may go together.

I am confident that the attached letter is not necessary but it is my pleasure to go on record in your support.

Best personal regards.

You are invited to attend the swearing-in ceremony for Mr. Harold E. Doley, Jr., as the first Director of the Minerals Management Service, at 1:30 p.m. Monday, June 7, 1982, in the Secretary's Ceremonial Office, Room 6151, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C.

Mr. Doley has a distinguished background in the financial field, and his knowledge and experience in royalty management qualify him as an ideal selection to head the Minerals Management Service, an agency which is second only to the Internal Revenue Service in the amount of revenue it generates for the United States Treasury.

We look forward to your being with us for the swearing-in on June 7.

Also, please join us at the reception for Harold Doley; 5 to 7 p.m.; Basil's, 400 1st Street, S. E.

Please telephone your acceptance to 202-343-3171
