REQUEST FOR DISCLOSURE OF RECORDS OF THE PERMANENT SUBCOMMITTEE ON INVESTIGATIONS

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. BYRD. Madam President, on January 12, 1977, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations held a public hearing on illegal traffic in weapons and narcotics across the border between the United States and Mexico. On January 12 and 13, 1977, the subcommittee also held closed hearings as part of its investigation.

Doubleday & Co. and author James Mills, defendants in a defamation action about statements in a book entitled "The Underground Empire," have requested access to transcripts of the closed hearings, which, they believe, are relevant to an important issue in the defamation action, the credibility of one of the author's principal sources.

In connection with related requests by Doubleday & Mills to the Drug Enforcement Administration, the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia has permitted DEA to disclose confidential information to the parties in the defamation action, under the terms of an order entered pursuant to the Privacy Act. Because the subcommittee's reasons for conducting closed hearings 11 years ago related to matters of concern at that time to Federal law enforcement officials, the subcommittee is prepared to coordinate its response with the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Accordingly, this resolution will authorize the subcommittee to provide the transcripts of closed hearings held on January 12 and 13, 1977, to the Drug Enforcement Administration for redaction, if necessary, by executive officials of particularly sensitive material, and disclosure to counsel for both sides in the litigation under the terms of the district court's protective order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution (S. Res. 483) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

PREGNANCY AND INFANT LOSS AWARENESS MONTH, 1988

- - - - -

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

Each year, approximately a million pregnancies in the United States end in miscarriage, stillbirth, or the death of the newborn child. National observance of Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month, 1988, offers us the opportunity to increase our understanding of the great tragedy involved in the deaths of unborn and newborn babies. It also enables us to consider how, as individuals and communities, we can meet the needs of bereaved parents and family members and work to prevent causes of pregnancy and infant loss.

Health care professionals recognize that trends of recent years, such as smaller family size and the postponement of childbearing, can increase parents' hopes and worsen the grief of those who have lost infants. More than 700 local, national, and international support groups are supplying programs and strategies designed to help parents cope with their loss. Parents who have suffered their own losses, health care professionals, and specially trained hospital staff members are helping newly bereaved parents deal constructively with loss, stress, and loneliness.

Compassionate Americans are also assisting women who suffer bereavement, guilt, and emotional and physical trauma that accompany post-abortion syndrome. We can and must do a much better job of fostering adoption as an alternative to the dead end of abortion; of helping the single parents who wish to raise their babies; and of offering friendship and temporal support to the courageous women and girls who give their children the gifts of life and of loving adoptive parents. We can be truly grateful for the devotion and concern provided by all of these citizens, and we should offer them our cooperation and support as well.

The Congress, by Senate Joint Resolution 314, has designated the month of October 1988 as "Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month" and authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of this month.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the month of October 1988 as Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month. I call upon the people of the United States to observe this month with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this day of October, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-eight, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and thirteenth.

PREGNANCY AND INFANT LOSS AWARENESS MONTH, 1988

- - - - -

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

Each year, approximately one million pregnancies in the United States end in miscarriage, stillbirth, or neonatal death.

While the loss of a pregnancy or a newborn infant has always had an emotional impact on parents, the trend toward smaller families and the postponement of childbearing have acted to increase parental expectations and the consequent experience of grief.

Only recently have health care professionals and bereaved parents begun to understand the tragedy and recognize the special needs of mothers, fathers, and other family members who have experienced pregnancy loss or newborn death.

Today, over 700 local, national, and international support groups provide programs and strategies designed to help parents cope with their grief. Other bereaved parents, health care professionals, and specially trained hospital staff help parents share their experiences and deal constructively with their feelings of loss, stress, and loneliness.

Congress, by Senate Joint Resolution 314, has designated the month of October 1988 as "Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month" and authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to observe the month with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the month of October 1988 as "Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month," and I call upon all Americans, interested organizations, and the health care community to observe the week with appropriate events and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this day of October, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-eight, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and thirteenth.
