Ronald Reagan Presidential Library Digital Library Collections

This is a PDF of a folder from our textual collections.

Collection: Reagan, Ronald: 1980 Campaign Files, 1965-80 Folder Title: 09/22/1980, Ft. Lauderdale Box: 433

To see more digitized collections visit: https://www.reaganlibrary.gov/archives/digitized-textual-material

To see all Ronald Reagan Presidential Library inventories visit: https://www.reaganlibrary.gov/archives/white-house-inventories

Contact a reference archivist at: reagan.library@nara.gov

Citation Guidelines: https://reaganlibrary.gov/archives/research- support/citation-guide

National Archives Catalogue: https://catalog.archives.gov/

master

BOB GARRICK FROM: OUT AT: Friday, 19 Sept. Senator Paul Laxalt Ambassador Anne Armstrong Bill Casey INFORMATION Ed Meese Herewith, FYI - remarks Vim Baker by Gov. Reagan to be made Bill Brock at Ft. Lauderdale on Monday, Dean Burch (For Ambassador Bush) 22 Sept. Please respond with VPeter Dailey your input by 10 a.m. Sat. Mike Deaver 20 Sept. - thank you. Drew Lewis Lyn Nofziger Verne Orr Bill Timmons Dick Wirthlin Congressman Tom Evans

others Ray Bell / 3rd Floor

First Draft --WFG 1 - FORT LAUDERDALE DRAFT 9/19/80

FORT LAUDERDALE DRAFT SPEECH - WFG

I'm here tonight to bring to you the message of hope that has met with such a receptive response all over the United States.

I know that Fort Lauderdale is an area which is especially hurt by the failures of the Carter Administration.

You know these failures. You see them every time a pension check or Social Security check or paycheck buys less than it used to. You see them in the look in the eyes of young Americans, perhaps your children and grandchildren, who are growing up in a nation told by its President that the future is bleak, that we can't expect progress, that our best days as a nation are behind us. You see the Carter failures in the faces of the unemployed, the hopeless, the victims of Carter inflation.

The past three and a half years have been a sustained, unprecedented assault by the Carter Administration on the economic security of American families.

If you are retired or living on a fixed income, every day, for three and a half years, you have seen your dollars buying less and less. We're not talking about luxuries but necessities: food, fuel, shelter.

You know that your song or daughters, living far away, are also having economic problems. Perhaps they have been laid off in the Carter unemployment or they can't borrow money to buy a house because of the Carter high interest. And you know they're worried about their children, your grandchildren, because the money won't be there when it comes to get a good education.

This is what Jimmy Carter's economic failures have done. They have hurt individuals and they have hurt families. In January 1977 when Jimmy Carter came to office he inherited an inflation rate of only 4.8 percent. But it is now over 12 percent. It has been as high as 18 percent. Who can feel secure, who can stand confidently on the shifting sands of Carter economics?

Jimmy Carter wants us to forget his record. He wants older Americans and their families to forget the anxiety and suffering he has put them through, the damage he has done to their dreams of a better life.

Jimmy Carter gave us high inflation and then gave us high unemployment to supposedly stop the inflation. Well now we have high inflation and high unemployment.

Last week Jimmy Carter was asked by the press if the recession was over. He said he didn't know. Since he hasn't done anything to show he knows we are in a recession I wouldn't expect him to know when we're out of one.

And then he predicted we will have--and I quote--"a stable economy with statistics fluctuating from one month to another." The next time you go to the supermarket and see that astronomical number on the little white piece of paper, just remember that Mr. Carter told you not to worry about fluctuations. Jimmy Carter's policies have been a disaster for those who want only to lead their lives as they see fit, on the pensions and the Social Security they have earned.

--I will defend the integrity of the Social Security system, the foundation of the economic life of millions of Americans. That system will be strong and reliable and protected under a Reagan Administration. And the dollars you earned will be worth something because we'll be fighting inflation.

--I will see to it that the promises made by government to every older American under the Medicare and other programs are kept.

--I will institute real tax reforms that can help older Americans retain their dignity, their self-respect, and their self-reliance as productive members of society. I will not tolerate, and will fight with all my strength, the inexcusable waste, fraud, and abuse of government programs--many of which are aimed at older Americans.

You know where those tax dollars come from and you are tired of • hearing the same old excuses about how it can't be helped. It can be helped and we know it.

It's time the federal government started watching every penny and older Americans started getting their money's worth out of taxes and their full value out of social security and pensions!

And I know there is the feeling of insecurity and fear endured by older Americans and others, right here in Fort Lauderdale, a fear brought about by crime. I mention this because there is a direct link between much of this crime and the drug traffic. Now the President of the United States does not, constitutionally, have jurisdiction in local police matters. But the drug traffickers are a national problem and I pledge to you tonight that these vicious and depraved thugs are going to be a top priority target of law enforcement efforts of the next Administration. A question you might ask yourself is: Where has the Carter Administration been for three and-a-half years in the fight against the drug traffickers?

But there is another kind of security. That's the security of our nation, its capability of meeting the challenges of the 1980s. This means not only military strength but economic strength as well. It means adequate and assured supplies of energy.

In all three areas of national security, Jimmy Carter has failed.

Our friends all over the world--including Israel--look at what Jimmy Carter has done and wonder if they can rely on our strength and our will and our sense of purpose.

In recent weeks I have met with leaders of the Jewish DEPLY community. I can tell you that they are concerned, as well they should be, by the failure of the Carter Administration to come up with a dependable, reliable, predictable policy on the Middle East.

5 - FORT LAUDERDALE DRAFT

And so Jimmy Carter's failures have contributed not only to a feeling of insecurity in the United States but in the world as well. Insecurity, instability, and incompetence--these are what we have been given for three and a half years.

But things don't have to be this way.

We can make America great again.

We can have an economy in which those on fixed incomes don't have to worry from week to week, from day to day, about the ever-dwindling purchasing power of the dollar because of inflation.

CRIME AND

We can have a White House that takes the fight againstAdrug with traffickers seriously and with officials in this fight to make our citizens secure.

We can have foreign policy upon which Israel and every other American friend and ally throughout the world can depend.

We can have a future of growth, of prosperity, of hope. We can have a nation in which compassion and concern for older Americans and the values of family life are not ignored or forgotten by government.

This is the kind of America we want. But we have to work for it. I need your help. I know that when a new Administration takes office in January 1981 we will begin, immediately, to put into practice the values we cherish.

We can get America working again. The Time is now!

* * * *

FROM:	BOB GARRICK
OUT AT:	6:00 Pm.
	Friday, 19 Sept.

Senator Paul Laxalt

Ambassador Anne Armstrong

Bill Casey

Ed Meese

Jim Baker

Bill Brock

Dean Burch (For Ambassador Bush)

Peter Dailey

Mike Deaver

Drew Lewis

Lyn Nofziger

Verne Orr

Bill Timmons

Dick Wirthlin

Congressman Tom Evans

Richard Allen

Martin Anderson

Jim Brady

Ed Gray

Others Ray Bell / 3rd Floor

Herewith, FYI - remarks by Gov. Reagan to be made at Ft. Lauderdale on Monday, 22 Sept. Please respond with your finput by 10 x.m. Sat. 20 Sept. - thank you.

INFORMATION

First Draft --WFG 1 - FORT LAUDERDALE DRAFT 9/19/80

FORT LAUDERDALE DRAFT SPEECH - WFG

I'm here tonight to bring to you the message of hope that has met with such a receptive response all over the United States.

I know that Fort Lauderdale is an area which is especially hurt by the failures of the Carter Administration.

You know these failures. You see them every time a pension check or Social Security check or paycheck buys less than it used to. You see them in the look in the eyes of young Americans, perhaps your children and grandchildren, who are growing up in a nation told by its President that the future is bleak, that we can't expect progress, that our best days as a nation are behind us. You see the Carter failures in the faces of the unemployed, the hopeless, the victims of Carter inflation.

The past three and a half years have been a sustained, unprecedented assault by the Carter Administration on the economic security of American families.

If you are retired or living on a fixed income, every day, for three and a half years, you have seen your dollars buying less and less. We're not talking about luxuries but necessities: food, fuel, shelter.

You know that your sons or daughters, living far away, are also having economic problems. Perhaps they have been laid off in the Carter unemployment or they can't borrow money to buy a house because of the Carter high interest. And you know they're worried about their children, your grandchildren, because the money won't be there when it comes to get a good education.

This is what Jimmy Carter's economic failures have done. They have hurt individuals and they have hurt families. In January 1977 when Jimmy Carter came to office he inherited an inflation rate of only 4.8 percent. But it is now over 12 percent. It has been as high as 18 percent. Who can feel secure, who can stand confidently on the shifting sands of Carter economics?

Jimmy Carter wants us to forget his record. He wants older Americans and their families to forget the anxiety and suffering he has put them through, the damage he has done to their dreams of a better life.

Jimmy Carter gave us high inflation and then gave us high unemployment to supposedly stop the inflation. Well now we have high inflation and high unemployment.

Last week Jimmy Carter was asked by the press if the recession was over. He said he didn't know. Since he hasn't done anything to show he knows we are in a recession I wouldn't expect him to know when we're out of one.

And then he predicted we will have--and I quote--"a stable economy with statistics fluctuating from one month to another." The next time you go to the supermarket and see that astronomical number on the little white piece of paper, just remember that Mr. Carter told you not to worry about fluctuations. Jimmy Carter's policies have been a disaster for those who want only to lead their lives as they see fit, on the pensions and the Social Security they have earned.

--I will defend the integrity of the Social Security system, the foundation of the economic life of millions of Americans. That system will be strong and reliable and protected under a Reagan Administration. And the dollars you earned will be worth something because we'll be fighting inflation.

--I will see to it that the promises made by government to every older American under the Medicare and other programs are kept.

--I will institute real tax reforms that can help older Americans retain their dignity, their self-respect, and their self-reliance as productive members of society. I will not tolerate, and will fight with all my strength, the inexcusable waste, fraud, and abuse of government programs--many of which are aimed at older Americans.

You know where those tax dollars come from and you are tired of • hearing the same old excuses about how it can't be helped. It can be helped and we know it.

It's time the federal government started watching every penny and older Americans started getting their money's worth out of taxes and their full value out of social security and pensions!

And I know there is the feeling of insecurity and fear endured by older Americans and others, right here in Fort Lauderdale, a fear brought about by crime. I mention this because there is a direct link between much of this crime and the drug traffic. Now the President of the United States does not, constitutionally, have jurisdiction in local police matters. But the drug traffickers are a national problem and I pledge to you tonight that these vicious and depraved thugs are going to be a top priority target of law enforcement efforts of the next Administration. A question you might ask yourself is: Where has the Carter Administration been for three and-a-half years in the fight against the drug traffickers?

But there is another kind of security. That's the security of our nation, its capability of meeting the challenges of the 1980s. This means not only military strength but economic strength as well. It means adequate and assured supplies of energy.

In all three areas of national security, Jimmy Carter has failed.

Our friends all over the world--including Israel--look at what Jimmy Carter has done and wonder if they can rely on our strength and our will and our sense of purpose.

In recent weeks I have met with leaders of the Jewish DEPLY community. I can tell you that they are concerned, as well they should be, by the failure of the Carter Administration to come up with a dependable, reliable, predictable policy on the Middle East.

5 - FORT LAUDERDALE DRAFT

And so Jimmy Carter's failures have contributed not only to a feeling of insecurity in the United States but in the world as well. Insecurity, instability, and incompetence--these are what we have been given for three and a half years.

But things don't have to be this way.

We can make America great again.

We can have an economy in which those on fixed incomes don't have to worry from week to week, from day to day, about the ever-dwindling purchasing power of the dollar because of inflation.

We can have a White House that takes the fight againstAdrug with traffickers seriously and with cooperates with state and local officials in this fight to make our citizens secure.

CRIME AND

We can have foreign policy upon which Israel and every other American friend and ally throughout the world can depend.

We can have a future of growth, of prosperity, of hope. We can have a nation in which compassion and concern for older Americans and the values of family life are not ignored or forgotten by government.

This is the kind of America we want. But we have to work for it. I need your help. I know that when a new Administration takes office in January 1981 we will begin, immediately, to put into practice the values we cherish.

We can get America working again. The Time is now!

* * * *

22 Sept 1315 mie sfile. Jenganik

FORT LAUDERDALE - SECOND DRAFT (Revised) - WFG - 9/21/80 12 Noon

I'm here tonight to bring to you the message of hope that has met with such a receptive response all over the United States.

I know that Fort Lauderdale is an area which is especially hurt by the failures of the Carter Administration.

You know these failures. You see them every time a pension check or Social Security check or paycheck buys less than it used to. You see them in the look in the eyes of young Americans, perhaps your children and grandchildren, who are growing up in a nation told by its President that the future is bleak, that we can't expect progress, that our best days as a nation are behind us. You see the Carter failures in the faces of the unemployed, the hopeless, the victims of Carter inflation.

The past three and a half years have been a sustained, unprecedented assault by the Carter Administration on the economic security of American families.

If you are retired or living on a fixed income every day for three and a half years you have seen your dollars buying less and less. We're not talking about luxuries but necessities: food, fuel, shelter.

You know that your sons or daughters, living far away, are also having economic problems. Perhaps they have been laid off in the Carter unemployment or they can't borrow money to buy a house because of the Carter high interest. And you know they're worried about their children, your grandchildren, because the money won't be there when it comes time to get a good education.

This is what Jimmy Carter's economic failures have done. They have hurt individuals and they have hurt families. In January 1977 when Jimmy Carter came to office he inherited an inflation rate of only 4.8 percent. But it is now over 12 percent. It has been as high as 18 percent. Who can feel secure, who can stand confidently on the shifting sands of Carter economics?

Jimmy Carter wants us to forget his record. He wants older Americans and their families to forget the anxiety and suffering he has put them through, the damage he has done to their dreams of a better life.

Jimmy Carter gave us high inflation and then gave us high unemployment to supposedly stop the inflation. Well now we have high inflation and high unemployment.

Last week Jimmy Carter was asked by the press if the recession was over. He said he didn't know. But whatever he thinks, he must not feel our economic problems are very severe, because he's not sending his fifth "new" economic plan to Congress this year.

And then he predicted we will have--and I quote--"a stable economy with statistics fluctuating from one month to another." The next time you go to the supermarket and see that astronomical number on the little white piece of paper, just remember that Mr. Carter told you not to worry about fluctuations.

And if you want to get some idea of what the future will be like in Fort Lauderdale four years from now, if the current 1980 rate of Carter inflation continues, listen to what some basic items will cost:

If Carter inflation continues, in 1984:

A dozen grade A eggs will cost $1.66

One gallon of milk will cost $3.77

One pound of hamburger will cost $4.09

Jimmy Carter's policies have been a disaster for those who want only to lead their lives as they see fit, on the pensions and the Social Security they have earned.

--I will defend the integrity of the Social Security system, the foundation of the economic life of millions of Americans. That system will be strong and reliable and protected under a Reagan Administration. And the dollars you earned will be worth something because we'll be fighting inflation.

--I will see to it that the promises made by government to every older American under the Medicare and other programs are kept.

--I will institute real tax reforms that can help older Americans retain their dignity, their self-respect, and their self-reliance as productive members of society. I will not tolerate, and will fight with all my strength, the inexcusable waste, fraud, and abuse of government programs--many of which are aimed at older Americans.

You know where those tax dollars come from and you are tired of hearing the same old excuses about how it can't be helped. It can be helped and we know it.

It's time the federal government started watching every penny and older Americans started getting their money's worth out of taxes and their full value out of social security and pensions!

And I know there is the feeling of insecurity and fear endured by older Americans and others, right here in Fort Lauderdale, a fear brought about by crime. I mention this because there is a direct link between much of this crime and the drug traffic. Now the President of the United States does not, constitutionally, have jurisdiction in local police matters. But the drug traffickers are a national problem and I pledge to you tonight that these vicious and depraved thugs are going to be a top priority target of law enforcement efforts of the next Administration. A question you might ask yourself is: Where has the Carter Administration been for three and a half years in the fight against the drug traffickers?

But there is another kind of security. That's the security of our nation, its capability of meeting the challenges of the 1980s. This means not only military strength but economic strength as well. It means adequate and assured supplies of energy. In all three areas of national security, Jimmy Carter has failed.

Our friends all over the world--including Israel--look at what Jimmy Carter has done and wonder if they can rely on our strength and our will and our sense of purpose.

In recent weeks I have met with leaders of the Jewish community. I can tell you that they are deeply concerned, as well they should be, by the failure of the Carter Administration to formulate and then actually implement a dependable, reliable, predictable, long-range policy for the Middle East. They, along with millions of concerned Americans, know that the Carter Administration's record is one of criticizing and even abandoning traditional allies.

And so Jimmy Carter's failures have contributed not only to a feeling of insecurity in the United States but in the world as well. Insecurity, instability, and incompetence--these are what we have been given for three and a half years.

But things don't have to be this way.

We can make America great again.

We can have an economy in which those on fixed incomes don't have to worry from week to week, from day to day, about the ever-dwindling purchasing power of the dollar because of inflation. We can have a White House that takes the fight against crime and drug traffickers seriously and which cooperates with state and local officials in this fight to make our citizens secure.

We can have foreign policy upon which our European Allies, Israel, and every other American friend and ally throughout the world can depend.

We can have a future of growth, of prosperity, of hope. We can have a nation in which compassion and concern for older Americans and the values of family life are not ignored or forgotten by government.

This is the kind of America we want. But we have to work for it. I need your help. I know that when a new Administration takes office in January 1981 we will begin, immediately, to put into practice the values we cherish.

We can get America working again. The Time is now!

FOR RELEASE:

CONTACT: Lyn Nofziger or Ken Towery 703-685-3630

On delivery: Monday, September 22, 1980

REMARKS BY THE HONORABLE RONALD REAGAN

MIAMI, FLORIDA

Today I'd like to say a few things about a topic of great importance to all Americans--the topic of security.

You know, there are different kinds of security. National security is probably the first thing you think of, but I didn't come here today to talk about national security. I came to talk about social security, for I know that 40 percent of the citizens in this area are over 62 years of age.

Let me tell you what to expect of me if I'm elected your President.

I will resolutely defend the integrity of the social security system, a system absolutely indispensable for the retirement security of millions of Americans.

I will make absolutely sure that no senior citizen will ever miss a social security payment while Ronald Reagan sits in the White House.

There are some advisory councils in Washington looking for ways to reduce the cost of social security. One way they have in mind is to change the cost-of-living indexing for social security benefits. The change would mean that social security checks would not keep pace with the consumer price index we now use. I am opposed to that change.

I am here today to promise you that if I am your President, the social security benefits you have earned will be paid when they are due, and that they will increase in line with the cost of living, and that they won't be taxed away from you. I'm tempted to add, "you can depend on that," but since Jimmy Carter used that line in 1976 and then broke his promises, no one dares use that statement any more.

But there is another kind of social security that has nothing to do with retirement income or Medicare or disability payments, and yet it is very important to many Americans here in South Florida. That is the security of society against disruption by events caused by a national government which cannot define a clear policy in a matter, literally, of life and death for its people.

Let's not try to tiptoe around the truth. South Florida today faces a serious problem. And the cause of this problem is the sudden and unplanned influx of over a hundred thousand refugees from Fidel Castro's "worker's paradise" just 90 miles across the straits of Florida.

I can't blame those people for wanting to escape a Communist country whose government brutally punishes dissent, whose economy is in a state of collapse, and whose dictator sends their sons to fight Moscow's wars in Africa.

But, I can, and I do, blame Jimmy Carter for authoring one of the most confused, contradictory, incompetent, and inequitable policies any American President ever concocted.

When Fidel Castro opened the floodgates in Cuba, Jimmy Carter spoke up quickly. He said he would welcome the refugees with open heart and open arms. That's an easy thing to say when Tent City is going to be under your expressway, not in his Rose Garden.

And he neglected to mention the other part of his policy--the part about the open wallet. Perhaps that's because the greater part of the burden of support for the refugees has fallen on the taxpayers of Dade County, the City of Miami, and the State of Florida.

When the tide of refugees began to roll in upon the shores of Florida, the man who had eagerly said "Y'all come" quickly had a change of heart. He issued orders for seizing all private boats carrying Cubans to U.S. ports, and for fining ship captains $1,000 for each refugee found on board. But by the time that took effect the citizens of South Florida were beginning to suffer from the unexpected influx.

The federal government was simply unprepared to cope with the serious human consequences of Jimmy Carter's enthusiastic invitation. For proof you need look no further than Tent City, where hundreds of refugees exist in unsafe, unsanitary, and degraded conditions.

Or you can look in the crowded corridors of Dade County's hospitals, where refugee patients are being treated. And you can look in the schools, which suddenly find themselves with 13,000 unexpected and unplanned-for new children. The cost of these extra public services is running into the tens of millions. Jimmy Carter says there may be some federal relief--if Congress gets around to acting on his legislation before adjourning for the election campaign. The way Congress has treated Jimmy Carter's legislative program in recent months, I don't advise you to start celebrating.

Jimmy Carter's disorganized policy has created grave public safety problems for Dade County. Most of the refugees have been honest citizens, workers, mechanics, some political prisoners, eager, like those who came two decades before--perhaps many of you here tonight--to start a new life in a land of freedom. Perhaps half of the refugees have come to rejoin their families here in the United States. But there have been some whose motivation was not deliverance from communism or a reunion with their families. They were hardened criminals, and their motive was simply to get out of prison in Cuba and resume a life of crime in the United States.

There can be no excuse for allowing criminal aliens into the United States. Whatever human compassion dictates in the case of those separated from their loved ones, whatever the sympathy of Americans dictates for those who are fleeing Communism--we simply cannot admit into our country those who are a threat to the life, liberty, and property of our citizens.

But, unfortunately, the Carter Administration failed to establish any effective mechanism to enforce this essential requirement. It asked Fidel Castro if we could pre-screen refugees in Cuba before flying them out. Fidel Castro said no, and that was the end of that.

So into this country--into Florida--came hundreds of murderers, burglars, sex offenders, the kind of hard core criminals who could not be successfully absorbed into any society. Law enforcement officials report that Castro has apparently smuggled onto American soil countless agents instructed to stir up resentment against the Cuban-American community here in Miami, a community of some of the hardest-working, most law abiding, most patriotic citizens anywhere in this republic, a community whose only crime is its hatred of Castro's communist regime that has destroyed the freedom of their homeland. I know this episode has been one of great anxiety and heartbreak for Florida's Cuban Americans, and that it has unhappily slowed progress toward a fully integrated, multi-ethnic, multi-racial society here in Florida.

The result of this influx of criminals was predictable. Countywide, the crime rate has soared. The elderly have been particularly endangered. They fear for their safety in their homes, in the stores, in the streets. It's not all due to criminals from overseas, but police say that much of it can be traced one way or another back to Castro's decision to dump his criminal element on our shores. Look at the numbers recently printed in the Miami Herald (9/7/80). In Atlanta, for the first eight months of this year, the homicide rate was down 14 percent from 1979. In Houston, the rate was unchanged from 1979. In New York City, the homicide rate is up 3.7 percent. Here in Greater Miami the murder rate is up a shocking 70 percent over last year's figures.

In short, Jimmy Carter's confused and contradictory policies have imposed a tragic burden on the citizens of Dade County--and particularly on its loyal Cuban-American community. It has been a tax burden--a burden on essential services--a health and safety burden--a burden of crime. Thanks to Jimmy Carter, a foreign government has, for the first time since the War of 1812, been allowed to utterly destabilize an American city.

The people of South Florida do not deserve these problems. And the people of the United States are going to have to help the people of South Florida undo the damage caused by a Carter Administration that acted, first, too quickly, then, too slowly, and, always, too incompetently, to protect the security of this vital, multi-racial society.

How to resolve this grave problem is not entirely clear, but some things, I think, must be done, and done well, and done soon.

The people of South Florida--black and white, English and Spanish speaking alike--must first of all resolve to work together in a new spirit of amity to overcome the problems you now face. It is said that out of crisis comes opportunity; and perhaps, here in Dade County, a common effort of all citizens to deal with the refugee problem can lead to a new level of mutual understanding and a better life for all peoples.

But important as this working together is, you cannot be expected to work alone. The federal government will have to provide temporary aid, and quickly, because it was the policy of the federal government which caused the problem you now face.

The federal government will have to adopt new policies to create an expanding economy, an economy which can absorb the legitimate immigrants to these shores, true; but, also an economy which can bring jobs and paychecks once again to all those Americans--including particularly black Americans--who have suffered the most in the Carter collapse. For it is a well known fact: When the economy collapses, when jobs are scarce and insecurity the greatest, that is the time when racism and discrimination are at their worst. But the restoration of a vibrant, productive economy will do much to ease racial tensions, and instill a new spirit of confidence and concord in the people of this country.

The next President will have to initiate a new and stronger Latin American policy.

That policy must be founded upon a sincere new dialogue between the United States and its sister republics, a dialogue in which all come to the table as equals, and speak frankly and constructively with one another.

That policy must be based upon full cooperation among the hemisphere republics to accommodate the refugees from tyranny and economic chaos, rather than leaving that obligation to the United States alone.

That policy must have as its objective the expansion of all of our economies, the creation of jobs, and the increase of mutually beneficial trade among nations.

That policy will have to include U.S. assistance to other countries which wish to strengthen their rural economies and make it possible for their small farmers to remain on land of their own, instead of flocking to a Mexico City, Caracas or Sao Paulo, to live in misery, or stealing across the border into the United States in a desperate search for employment.

That policy will have to include a new commitment to strengthening the forces of freedom in the nations of this hemisphere threatened by external subversion, whether direct or indirect, including Soviet and Cuban-sponsored intervention.

America can have that kind of a policy. It can have a government that anticipates the consequences of its decisions, plans to meet those consequences, and makes sure that any burdens of its actions are shared fairly by all our people, not imposed on the citizens of one unfortunate community.

And it can have a President who combines competence with compassion, experience with vision. That's the kind of President I hope to be for you, and with God's help and our hard work, I think I'm going to get the chance.

* * * * *