MEETING WITH THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL

DATE: Friday, April 29, 1983
LOCATION: Cabinet Room
TIME: 11:00 - 11:30 a.m.
FROM: WILLIAM P. CLARK WPC

I. PURPOSE

1.4c

The DCI will provide an information briefing [redacted] on the Soviet technology acquisition effort.

II. BACKGROUND

1.4c

CIA has [redacted] information on the Soviet program to acquire and exploit Western technology. The information provides a comprehensive view of the nature and extent of the Soviet effort and the use of the acquired technology by the Soviets in their military program.

The reporting has great intelligence value, upon which the DCI will likely expand. My staff and other agencies have used the reporting as part of the government-wide effort to impede technology loss.

III. PARTICIPANTS

To be provided.

IV. PRESS PLAN

None.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Director Casey will give a briefing to be followed by a short general discussion.

Minutes

DCI Casey introduced the briefing, noting it would describe what the U.S. and the West are losing and how the Soviets are benefiting.

Mr. Casey noted that many KGB officers have recently been expelled in Europe, [Redacted]

1.4c

Mr. Casey said that the decision had been Mitterand's. Mr. Casey noted that the Soviets did not retaliate, [REDACTED]

1.4c

[REDACTED] the key Soviet decision makers and acquirers of Western technology. [REDACTED] with examples of what the Soviets acquired in the 1979-1980, how they used it, and what benefits were realized. The Soviets made acquisitions in strategic missiles, air defense, aircraft carrier catapults, space reconnaissance, and tactical weapons. The Soviets learned new approaches, raised the technology level, and shortened their development time, as well as saved money for [REDACTED] of their weapons programs. [REDACTED]

1.4c

[REDACTED] that about 2/3 of the collection involves US technology, and about 90% is collected by the KGB and the GRU. [REDACTED] summarized by saying that the Soviet technology effort is larger and more harmful than most had imagined.

The President asked if Congress knew how serious the loss was.

~~REDACTED~~

1.4c

~~REDACTED~~

The President recalled that a Swiss high technology company was owned by Libya and asked how much of this type of operation existed. Mr. Casey responded that a huge amount did, noting especially the many trading companies in Vienna. Secretary Baldrige noted there were hundreds of companies owned by Eastern Bloc countries around the world. Judge Webster noted there were many front companies in the US for acquiring products.

1.4c

The President then expressed his desire to [REDACTED] on some of our R&D, akin to the [REDACTED]. The President thanked the briefers for a "sobering experience."

The meeting adjourned at 11:37 A.M.
