MEMORANDUM FOR THE HONORABLE CRAIG L. FULLER
DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT AND
DIRECTOR, OFFICE OF CABINET ADMINISTRATION

FROM: David L. Chew DL
Executive Assistant to the Secretary

SUBJECT: Israeil Prime Minister Begin's State Visit

The Treasury Department concurs in the substantive positions and meeting formats suggested in Mr. Bremer's memorandum to Mr. Allen for the Visit of Prime Minister Begin.

The meeting format in which the Treasury Secretary meets with the visiting dignitary with subcabinet officials of other departments is satisfactory for the Begin visit. Secretary Regan, however, will want to review meeting format proposals for other Mid-East countries visits on a case by case basis. The State Department paper implies the format used for this visit will apply to visits from all other Mid-East countries. We cannot agree to this. Treasury has a special relationship with several Middle Eastern countries such as Saudi Arabia. A joint meeting format in these cases would not be appropriate.

MEMORANDUM TO: Richard G. Darman
FROM : David A. Stockman
SUBJECT : Memorandum on Prime Minister Begin's Visit

I have reviewed Paul Bremer's draft memo to Richard Allen on the major U.S. objectives during Prime Minister Begin's pending visit and have no objections to the proposals. The President should emphasize U.S. budget austerity during his discussions on military and economic assistance programs with Prime Minister Begin to dampen Israeli expectations of either higher aid levels or softening of credit terms.

Objective

We believe it is highly desirable for Israeli to become an adherent to the GATT Government Procurement Code. (U)

Background

During and subsequent to the Multilateral Trade Negotiations, the expansion of U.S. purchase of Israeli made goods has been discussed. Various approaches have been explored, including: Israeli adherence to the Government Procurement Code, the striking of a bilateral side arrangement, broader application of the Buy America waiver, and expansion of the MOA. The U.S. position has been that the Government Procurement Code is the appropriate arena for consideration of non-security related purchases. (U)

ISSUE

Countervailing duty order on fresh roses from Israel. (U)

OBJECTIVE:

Inform the Israelis that the completion of a review under the circumstances does not prejudice the rights of either the U.S. petitioner or the Israeli exporters, since the petitioner or exporter may protect its interests by requesting an injunction to halt the actual collection of duties pending the outcome of the litigation and any instruction by the Court. (U)

BACKGROUND

On September 4, 1980, following a lengthy investigation, the Department of Commerce (DOC) determined that the Government of Israel provided subsidies to producers and exporters of roses under a variety of programs. The total amount of these subsidies was equal to 2.02 percent of the value of exported roses. Shortly after that determination, both the U.S. petitioner and the Israeli exporter filed suit in the Court of International Trade, alleging that the DOC had erred in its determinations as to whether or not specific programs were subsidies, and challenging the methods by which DOC calculated the value of subsidies. (U)

This litigation is still pending and DOC is proceeding with its administrative review of this determination as required by statute. This is consistent with DOC practice in other cases. The Israeli exporters asserted that DOC should not begin its review until one year after the original determination, and, further, that DOC should not conduct a review with respect to a case under litigation. DOC rejected these arguments on legal and administrative grounds, and review is proceeding normally. A verification trip to Israel is scheduled for September 14. (U)

ISSUE:

The United States continues to be strongly committed to resisting the Arab economic boycott of Israel and its supporters through enforcement of U.S. antiboycott laws. (U)

BACKGROUND:

U.S. antiboycott laws prohibit American companies from complying with the Arab boycott by discriminating against Israeli, Israeli companies, or other U.S. companies trading with Israel. The laws try to guarantee that all U.S. companies will enjoy equal access to world markets. In addition, the law makes it clear that we will not permit U.S. business to be used as the tool of the Arab states foreign policy. (U)

The United States government is vigorously enforcing the antiboycott laws and in recent months has assessed fines against U.S. businesses ranging from $1,000 to $130,000 for their cooperation with the Arab boycott. (U)

ISSUE

Countervailing duty order on fresh roses from Israel. (U)

OBJECTIVE:

Inform the Israelis that the completion of a review under the circumstances does not prejudice the rights of either the U.S. petitioner or the Israeli exporters, since the petitioner or exporter may protect its interests by requesting an injunction to halt the actual collection of duties pending the outcome of the litigation and any instruction by the Court. (U)

BACKGROUND

On September 4, 1980, following a lengthy investigation, the Department of Commerce (DOC) determined that the Government of Israel provided subsidies to producers and exporters of roses under a variety of programs. The total amount of these subsidies was equal to 2.02 percent of the value of exported roses. Shortly after that determination, both the U.S. petitioner and the Israeli exporter filed suit in the Court of International Trade, alleging that the DOC had erred in its determinations as to whether or not specific programs were subsidies, and challenging the methods by which DOC calculated the value of subsidies. (U)

This litigation is still pending and DOC is proceeding with its administrative review of this determination as required by statute. This is consistent with DOC practice in other cases. The Israeli exporters asserted that DOC should not begin its review until one year after the original determination, and, further, that DOC should not conduct a review with respect to a case under litigation. DOC rejected these arguments on legal and administrative grounds, and review is proceeding normally. A verification trip to Israel is scheduled for September 14. (U)

ISSUE:

The United States continues to be strongly committed to resisting the Arab economic boycott of Israel and its supporters through enforcement of U.S. antiboycott laws. (U)

BACKGROUND:

U.S. antiboycott laws prohibit American companies from complying with the Arab boycott by discriminating against Israel, Israeli companies, or other U.S. companies trading with Israel. The laws try to guarantee that all U.S. companies will enjoy equal access to world markets. In addition, the law makes it clear that we will not permit U.S. business to be used as the tool of the Arab states foreign policy. (U)

The United States government is vigorously enforcing the antiboycott laws and in recent months has assessed fines against U.S. businesses ranging from $1,000 to $130,000 for their cooperation with the Arab boycott. (U)

SUBJECT : Memorandum on Prime Minister Begin's Visit

I have reviewed Paul Bremer's draft memo to Richard Allen on the major U.S. objectives during Prime Minister Begin's pending visit and have no objections to the proposals. The President should emphasize U.S. budget austerity during his discussions on military and economic assistance programs with Prime Minister Begin to dampen Israeli expectations of either higher aid levels or softening of credit terms.

ISSUE

Israel might seek to extend the coverage of their Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) with the Defense Department to include purchases of other U.S. Government agencies. (U)

Objective

We believe it is highly desirable for Israel to become an adherent to the GATT Government Procurement Code. (U)

Background

During and subsequent to the Multilateral Trade Negotiations, the expansion of U.S. purchase of Israeli made goods has been discussed. Various approaches have been explored, including: Israeli adherence to the Government Procurement Code, the striking of a bilateral side arrangement, broader application of the Buy America waiver, and expansion of the MOA. The U.S. position has been that the Government Procurement Code is the appropriate arena for consideration of non-security related purchases. (U)
