MEMORANDUM FOR FRED F. FIELDING

FROM:

JOHN G. ROBERTS

SUBJECT:

Red Cross Financial Problems --Proposed Presidential Tapings

David Chew has alerted us that the Red Cross, which is facing a financial crisis because of the unusually high number of natural disasters this year, has requested that the President tape a television spot, mention the Red Cross in a radio address, and issue a press release urging citizens to contribute. In a note to you, Chew suggested you coordinate with Linda Chavez.

I have no legal objections to the President complying with the Red Cross request. The Red Cross has always been the leading exception to the usual rules barring the President from charitable fundraising for a particular organization. We should, of course, review any draft messages. I assume Chavez is handling the preparation; the attached memorandum to her, copy to Chew, notes we have no objections to proceeding.

TO DONALD T. REGAN:

Dick Schubert, President of the American Red Cross phoned me today to notify us that due to the excessive number of natural disasters so far this year, the Red Cross is facing an unprecedented financial crisis. They will announce at 2:00 this afternoon that they have already exhausted their $21 million budget for disaster assistance in 1985, that they have spent their $13 million in contingency reserves and an additional $12 million, putting them in a $12 million deficit as of today. The Red Cross expects to need an additional $13 million for disaster assistance over the next 6 months, including the D.C. flood, bringing their immediate contributory need to $25 million.

The Red Cross asks three things of the President as quickly as possible in his capacity as honorary Red Cross chairman: (1) cut a 30 second T.V. spot, (2) mention the Red Cross problem in a radio address, and (3) issue a press release asking all citizens to contribute.

MEMORANDUM FOR HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

SUBJECT: Red Cross Month, 1985

I have just issued a proclamation that designates March as Red Cross Month.

This has been an especially tragic year for hundreds of thousands of our fellow countrymen left destitute by disasters. To assist these victims, the Red Cross has spent a record amount of money for help and for disaster preparedness. As a recipient of blood voluntarily donated through the Red Cross, I know the value of its Blood Services and its efforts to ensure that we constantly have adequate supplies for the sick and injured. The Red Cross also provides help for men and women serving in our country's military forces, their families, and veterans. Millions of Americans are trained in first aid, water and boating safety, and health care through programs sponsored by the Red Cross. Our Nation's young people, through Red Cross school programs, acquire leadership skills and learn the value of giving service to their communities.

Within the Federal government, the Red Cross is part of the Combined Federal Campaign. During the month of March, more than one-half of the Red Cross chapters nationwide will raise funds, while others will use this observance to inform the public about Red Cross services and to recruit new blood donors.

As President of the United States and Honorary Chairman of the American National Red Cross, I urge all civilian employees of the Federal government and members of the Armed Forces to support in every way possible this vital voluntary effort.

RED CROSS MONTH, 1985

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

Whenever disaster strikes, Americans everywhere count on the American Red Cross for immediate response.

This past year, Red Cross volunteers aided victims of fires, tornadoes, floods, hurricanes, and other tragedies on more than 50,000 occasions. In the last six months, the American Red Cross has faced a special challenge. It mobilized its resources to help provide food and medical relief to 14 African nations suffering from a famine of mammoth proportions. By providing funds contributed by generous Americans and seeing to it that they are converted into food for the hungry, the Red Cross is fulfilling its humanitarian mission of helping those in distress.

The American Red Cross has handled this unprecedented challenge without sacrificing any of its ongoing responsibilities. Annually, Red Cross teaches millions of our fellow citizens vital lifesaving techniques in CPR, first aid, small craft operation, and water safety. Its thousands of volunteer donors provide blood to more than half of the Nation's medical facilities. Red Cross also serves the men and women of our Armed Forces and their families, furnishing financial assistance and handling emergency requests through its worldwide communications network.

What all this adds up to is an organization of Americans who have volunteered their money, their time, and their hearts to ensuring that all of us are provided with the most efficient and effective health and human services possible.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, and Honorary Chairman of the American National Red Cross, do hereby designate March 1985 as Red Cross Month, and I urge all Americans to give generous support to the work of their local Red Cross Chapter.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this second day of February, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and ninth.

Your services are an essential ingredient in the well-being and welfare of our Armed Services men and women and their families.

Reflecting the esteem Americans have for their Red Cross is the fact that, in a little more than three months, the citizens of this country not only met but surpassed the dollar goal of the Red Cross fund campaign to help the victims of a famine that blights the African continent.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

SUBJECT: Red Cross Month, 1983

March has just been designated Red Cross Month by Presidential Proclamation. It is a period when the American Red Cross will seek to swell its ranks of volunteers to carry on its vital service to this Nation. We depend upon the Red Cross for the collection and distribution of blood, for vital health and safety knowledge, for services to members of the military, veterans and their families, for help in times of disaster, and for training young people to undertake the responsibilities of leadership.

We, as Federal employees, can do much to assure that Red Cross Month is a success by becoming a Red Cross volunteer, by donating blood and by supporting our Red Cross chapter's membership and enrollment efforts.

Within the Federal government, the Red Cross is a part of the Combined Federal Campaign, while more than half of its 3,000 chapters raise all of their funds during March. All chapters, however, will use the month to inform the public of Red Cross services and to recruit new blood donors and volunteers.

As President of the United States and as Honorary Chairman of the American Red Cross, I urge all civilian employees of the Federal government and members of the Armed Forces to support this voluntary effort.

Ronald Reagan

RED CROSS MONTH, 1905

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

American Red Cross volunteers are among the millions of citizens who quietly serve their fellow man. Since the first settlement on our shores, a volunteer spirit has characterized the American way. This spirit has been reflected in the actions of the neighbor who is always ready to lend a hand.

The services performed by the Red Cross provide us with benefits that would otherwise cost billions of dollars. Last year, it was the volunteer who -- giving freely of his or her time, energy, and talent -- made it possible for the Red Cross to collect and provide the ill and injured with nearly six million units of blood. Volunteers established shelters to feed and attend to disaster victims, conducted thousands of courses to improve the quality of life by teaching nutrition, first aid, water safety, home nursing, and preparation for parenthood. The volunteer reached out to our young people, to members of the military, to veterans, and to the elderly and through personal contact eased their loneliness and fears.

For 102 years, the American Red Cross has been an essential ingredient of American life, helping us to learn, to grow, and to prosper. In accordance with this year's theme: "The Red Cross. We'll Help. Will You?" I urge all Americans to donate their time and financial resources in support of Red Cross activities. By giving of ourselves, we give the greatest gift one human being can give another -- the gift of love.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America and Honorary Chairman of the American National Red Cross, do hereby designate March 1983 as Red Cross Month.

PRESIDENTIAL TAPING: AMERICAN RED CROSS WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1, 1983-

We Americans always look to the Red Cross in times of disaster. Today, the Red Cross is facing a crisis of its own. In the past year floods and tornadoes have struck the Midwest and South. Storms have battered the Pacific coastline and an earthquake and mudslides have added to the problems. Relief operations have wiped out Red Cross disaster funds. The Red Cross must be ready to meet the next disaster. So I urge all of you to contribute today to the organization's emergency disaster relief fund. You can contribute through your local Red Cross chapter.

Thanks for helping and God bless you.

I am very pleased to send greetings to the volunteers and staff of the American Red Cross as you gather for your 58th National Convention.

Your service is a fine example of what private sector initiative can do for America, and your theme this year -- "Service Excellence" -- is truly fitting to the important work you do.

Now, as so often in the past, your attention is focused on the challenge of providing disaster relief. But while you are the ones who are first on the job to make disaster relief a reality for the American people, we all must share the responsibility for seeing that the Red Cross has the resources necessary to carry out its historically-mandated duty of assisting disaster victims in America.

As in the past, the success of the Red Cross flows from your dedication, steadfastness in times of adversity, and compassion for your fellow Americans. These traits will triumph again as you face this latest crisis since it is through you that the Red Cross is able to deliver services to virtually every hamlet in the United States. You are the teachers of first aid, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, swimming, and health education. You are responsible for the American Red Cross becoming the largest supplier of voluntary donated blood in the world -- blood which I, too, shared. You also provide other vital services and offer tangible help to our men and women in the military and to our veterans and their families in times of personal crisis.

WEO

You have faced many challenges in the past year, particularly in the area of natural disasters. Victims of tragic floods and tornadoes in the Midwest and South turned to you for assistance as did many along the storm-battered Pacific coastline. You were there. But those huge operations virtually depleted available disaster funds, and, now, it has become necessary to appeal to the nation for contributions to replenish them. This is a critical appeal, one I would urge every American to support.

As your honorary chairman, I send my best wishes for a most successful convention.

DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT DIRECTOR, PRESIDENTIAL SPEECHWRITING

FROM:

JOHN G. ROBERTS

ASSOCIATE COUNSIL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT:

Presidential Tapings: Generic Thanksgiving Message; Generic Christmas Message; Public Service Red Cross; Ethics and Public Policy

Center Dinner

Counsel's Office has reviewed the above-referenced proposed tapings. In line 13 of the first page of the Thanksgiving message, "thereby" should be deleted. The sentence refers to "all of the people who came here by a hard journey," and accordingly encompasses those who came when the United States did not have an open borders immigration policy, when coming here was not sufficient to attain citizenship. This may seem a small point, but the Administration is involved in a serious debate over immigration reform, and a Presidential statement that all those who came by hard journey thereby won the right to call themselves Americans could be readily misused by opponents in that debate.

PRESIDENTIAL TAPING: GENERIC THANKSGIVING MESSAGE FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1985

Happy Thanksgiving from the White House. Nancy and I and the whole Reagan family are relishing this happy time of the year. We hope and pray that all of you are enjoying the fellowship of loved ones and friends.

The first Thanksgiving was celebrated, as you know, more than three centuries ago in a small New England settlement. The first celebrants were a handful of pilgrims and the heroic Indians who helped them survive that first hard winter on the edge of a strange new continent. They thanked God, together, for giving them enough food and warmth to endure.

Today, the descendants of those Pilgrims and those Indians -- the descendants, in fact, of all of the people who came here by a hard journey and thereby won the right to forever

call themselves Americans -- and that, in short, is all of us - thank God for blessings that surpass his earlier gifts beyond imagining.

We in America in 1985 enjoy great freedoms, great bounty, great prosperity and great hopes for the future. We are free to speak and write and organize and worship. We are free to make anything we want of ourselves. We are free to invent the future.

We have so much to be thankful for. And I hope we can bow our heads over these next few weeks and months and thank God, the Author of all happiness, for the good things he has given us. This is a wonderful time to be alive, and a wonderful country to be alive in. And I think we can all agree to be happy for that.

Happy Thanksgiving to all of you. God bless you and God bless America.

PRESIDENTIAL TAPING: GENERIC CHRISTMAS MESSAGE FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1985

Merry Christmas and happy holidays from the White House.

Nancy and I and the whole Reagan family are relishing this happy season that is once more upon us. We hope and pray that all of you are enjoying the fellowship of loved ones and friends.

If you're like me, you find that somehow each December your step quickens and your outlook brightens and you just can't help but think some very good thoughts -- about life in general, and also about your fellow man.

Jesus Christ enjoined us to love our neighbor as we love ourselves. And I hope you find this Christmas season a way to show your affection and regard for all of the strangers around us who are also, as Christ taught, our brothers and sisters. If you have a surplus from your table, I hope you will share it with someone who is hungry. And if you have time and attention to give, I hope you'll lavish it on someone who is lonely.

All of us have so much to be thankful for in our country. We enjoy great material wealth, great prosperity, and an increasing number of jobs for our citizens. But good as a sound economy is, it's not enough. More than that we can be thankful for the freedoms with which God has blessed our country -- freedom to speak out against wrongs, freedom to congregate and form political unions, freedom of the press and of worship. In this holiest of seasons it is good to remember the last. Perhaps at some moment over the next few weeks and days you will think of those who live in the darkness of dictatorships and who worship at the risk of their lives. Perhaps over the next few weeks and days all of us will say two prayers: one to thank God for the right to pray aloud, and the other for our brothers and sisters throughout the world who pray aloud at their peril.

We have so much to be thankful for, so much to be joyous about. May the happiness America knows spread throughout the planet; and may your holiday season be full of gladness.

PRESIDENTIAL TAPING: OPUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT FOR AMERICAN RED CROSS FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1985

It's expensive to care for people -- to provide clothing, shelter, and food. This autumn alone, the American Red Cross spent more than $30 million helping families recover from hurricanes and floods.

Now the disaster relief funds are gone, and the Red Cross must raise millions. So please, help the Red Cross help your fellow Americans.

Thank you.

ETHICS & PUBLIC POLICY CENTER ANNUAL DINNER FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1985

Good evening. I appreciate this opportunity to join you in honoring a man who has served his country well in elected office, appointed positions, and the private sector. I can't think of an individual who better represents the ideals for which the Shelby Cullom Davis Award stands than Don Rumsfeld.

Now I don't have to go into detail about Don's distinguished career. I should say, however, that when I needed an individual of integrity and stature to send to the Middle East during a crucial time, I turned to Don Rumsfeld. He took six months out of his life and away from his job as Chief Executive Officer of G. D. Searle to concentrate on matters of vital importance to the well-being of his country.

This fits in, of course, with the theme of your gathering, which is the responsibility of American business to enhance freedom in the United States and abroad.

One of the greatest deterrents to the spread of tyranny in much of the world is economic development, the kind that is only possible through the genius and enterprise of the private sector.

Consistent with this, one of the major accomplishments of our Administration has been the Caribbean Basin Initiative, which is designed to expand the economic well-being of our neighbors to the South. We've opened up one way free trade in most commercial transactions with these nearby friends who are struggling to improve their lot while at the same time fending off Communist challenges to their fragile democracies. The C.B.I. is a sound idea, but to be successful it will require a commitment from America's business community.

In so many parts of the world, the abundance created by the private sector stands in stark contrast to the deprivation of socialist economies. Socialist development in the third world has been a cruel hoax. Other developing countries, many with few resources, that have encouraged the private sector and foreign investment have flourished.

By using American know how and investment to build the economies of developing countries, businessmen are also laying the foundation of free political institutions. Corporate America has played an exemplary role, for example, in South Africa, bringing many black South Africans into the mainstream of the economy. In China, as more progress is made under free enterprise, progress can be expected politically also.

Tonight, you are pondering a serious question about freedom and business. I believe freedom is the responsibility of all Americans. It goes to the heart of what we are as a Nation.

Ralph Waldo Emerson once wrote, "America means opportunity, freedom, power." That same dynamic spirit is alive in our country today. We have every reason to look to the future with confidence. And this is due in no small part to individuals like Don Rumsfeld, and Ernest LeFever and to the work of the Ethics and Public Policy Center. I thank you for letting me be part of your program this evening. God bless you all.

PRESIDENTIAL TAPING: BROADCAST ON BBC & WORE THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1985

Good afternoon. This is Ronald Reagan, and I'm delighted to take part in this historic radio broadcast between WQRC of Southeastern Massachusetts and the BBC in Devon and Cornwall. Today we celebrate the 330th anniversary of the three oldest counties in America -- Barnstable, Plymouth, and Bristol -- and, in a larger sense, the ties that bind the United States to the United Kingdom.

When the pilgrims landed in Massachusetts those three centuries ago, they brought with them the central elements of the proud British culture. So it is that today the friendship between our two nations runs deep -- a friendship which received formal expression most recently when the Prince and Princess of Wales visited the United States. I can assure those of you listening in England that Their Royal Highnesses were everywhere greeted with an abundance of warmth and goodwill.

And so it is also that we Americans owe to Great Britain our language, our law, our democratic system of government, and our fierce belief in the God-given right of all men to be free.

Indeed, in this century our two nations have stood together through two world conflicts. Today we remain joined in an alliance between the great democracies that, just four decades ago, so many gave their lives on the beaches of Normandy to defend.

To the people of Barnstable, Plymouth, and Bristol, Massachusetts, my heartfelt congratulations. And to the people of Devon and Cornwall -- many of whom live in the original Barnstable, Plymouth, and Bristol [researcher, make certain all three of these towns are in Devon and Cornwall], a very warm greeting.

On this New Year's Eve, let us, Britains and Americans alike, join in the fervent hope that the twin lights of democracy and individual freedom, first brought to America from England, will forever cast their glow throughout the world.

Thank you, and God bless you.

PRESIDENTIAL TAPING: MARTIN LUTHER KING HOLIDAY

THURSDAY, DECEMBE 19, 1985

My fellow Americans, the voice of ! . Martin Luther King has been silent for almost a generation. B his dream -- that the children of America will "live in a næt n where they will not be judged by the color of their skin, but ! the content of their character" -- is a dream that lives on. Each day, as we rededicate ourselves to a colorblind America, we keep Dr. King's dream alive. As one Nation, we give the ks for his lesson of brotherhood and courage on this nations holiday and memorial to the man and the movement.

PRESIDENTIAL TAPING: MARTIN LUTHER KING HOLIDAY
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1985

More than 20 years ago a black preacher stood on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial and delivered a message to America. "I have a dream," said Dr. Martin Luther King, "that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character."

Today, as one Nation, we acknowledge our debt to a man who helped millions move toward racial equality. And his dream is fulfilled as we rededicate ourselves to a truly colorblind America.

There can be no greater memorial to Martin Luther King on this January 20, 1986, than to defend the principle of equality of opportunity against all challenges. Let us finish the march that Dr. King was such a big part of -- and let us make his dream of total equality a reality for generations to follow.
