Dear Mr. Chalif:

Thank you for your letter requesting two of President Reagan's doodles for your displays. I appreciate your interest in having them and regret that this must be a disappointing reply. However, because of the great number of requests the President receives for mementoes, it is not possible to oblige them all. He believes it is unfair to select a few for preferential treatment while excluding others.

Your interest is appreciated, and we know you will understand.

Sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Daly:

Thank you for your letter inviting me to address Business Week's "Corporate Planning 100" Senior Planner's Roundtable.

I'm afraid I simply can't schedule any additional time away from the White House. I do appreciate you inviting me and wish you success with your plans for the program.

I have taken the liberty of forwarding your request to Miss Judy Pond, White House Speaker's Bureau, to try to arrange for a substitute. You will be hearing from her office soon.

Again, thank you for your kind invitation.

Let us know when you'll be back this way.

Dear Mr. Deaver:

Recently Stan Anderson served as the head of the U.S. Delegation to the U.N. Conference on New and Renewable Sources of Energy in Nairobi. I am writing first to thank you for approving him as head of this delegation, and second, to tell you that he did a superb job.

In his meetings with heads of other delegations, many of them heads of government or energy ministers, and in his leadership of the U.S. delegation, which included some cantankerous congressmen, Stan was a model of precise language, forceful leadership, and cordiality. Because he was not a minister or even a government official, Stan was in a difficult position vis-a-vis many other heads of delegation. I think he put in a splendid performance which was of considerable service to us.

Sincerely,

Dear Bill:

Since receiving your letter of July 27, 1981, we have taken a closer look at the anchovy question. So far this is what we have seen:

The Pacific Fishery Management Council, which answers to Malcolm Baldrige, Secretary of Commerce, annually updates a management plan for the anchovy resource on the west coast. This year, the Marine Resources Company of Seattle (50 percent owned by the Soviet Union and 50 percent owned by American fishing interests) has applied to the Council for a joint-venture permit to purchase and process 4 species of fish off southern California. The Magnuson Fishery and Conservation Act of 1976 permits this when American processors are unlikely to use all the fish American vessels could harvest. That determination is yet to be made.

The Council has recommended that the joint-venture be allowed to purchase 3 species from American fisherman for processing on a Soviet factory ship: 10,000 metric tons of anchovies; 15,000 metric tons of jack mackerel, and 2,500 metric tons of squid. Last year the total fish meal quota for anchovies was 166,400 tons and the U.S. fleet--the only fleet involved--landed about 62,000 tons.

This year the Council says that the fish meal quota could be increased to 359,285 tons from a total anchovy resource estimated at 2,803,000. That figure already takes into account the amount of anchovies the Mexican fishery will take. The Council will be meeting soon to discuss the anchovy plan and may make additional adjustments in these figures. However, the revisions should be minor.

We are awaiting Malcolm's analysis of the joint-venture proposal in light of the suggestions that have already been made, and will consider it in context with your analysis. We are also fortunate in being able to use Ray Arnett's experience with the anchovy fishery as a sounding board for the decision we will be reaching soon.

Dear Charlie:

Thank you for bringing the Alaskan LNG proposal to my attention. Right now, as Ravi Tikkoo notes in his letter to Sonny Werblin, the Federal government is operating on the assumption that the Alaskan gas will be transported to the U.S. mainland through a pipeline that the Northwest Energy Company will construct. This is because President Carter chose this firm's proposal in 1977 over a number of competing proposals, including a proposal to use LNG tankers.

Under the Alaska Natural Gas Transportation Act of 1977, the Northwest Energy Company consortium has requested the President to submit to the Congress a list of waivers of Federal law needed to permit the financing of the project. The Cabinet Council on Natural Resources and the Environment is considering the waiver requests and will make a recommendation to the President on the content of the submission to Congress. After that, the Congress has 60 days in which to approve the waivers. If Congress denies the waiver request, the Northwest Energy Company would presumably have to withdraw its pipeline proposal.

Thus it would appear that it would be best to wait until the Congress has completed action on the current Alaska gas transportation proposals before the Administration gives consideration to alternative proposals. The situation should become clear by the middle or end of this summer.

Thank you for your recent message concerning immigration.

In recent years our Nation has seen an increase in immigration. While America is a nation of immigrants and is rightly proud of its divergent ethnic background, we must also recognize that no country can hope to accommodate all those who seek a better life or flee persecution.

Dear Mr. Andrus:

Thank you for your recent message. It was good of you to take the time to bring your views on the Voting Rights Act and the Middle East to my attention.

President Reagan firmly believes that no person should be deprived of their right to vote. He also endorses a philosophy of government aimed at reducing the role of the Federal government in determining local and state policies. Currently, the President is awaiting a report from the Justice Department concerning possible amendments to the Voting Rights Act. Your comments regarding this law are appreciated and will be considered. In the meantime, you should be aware that the initial decision regarding the extension of the Voting Rights Act rests with Congress.

With regard to the Middle East, the President is deeply concerned that a just and lasting solution to the problems which have plagued that area be achieved. You can be sure that every decision made by this Administration will make the peace and stability of that region its ultimate goal.

My dear Mike:

Remember me? We worked together closely to get President Reagan elected as Governor. Tried to call you about 10 days ago at the Baltimore, but you had just returned to Washington that day.

At the Arpak party at the Klunger estate the other night I met an unusual but interesting couple from Las Vegas. Had dinner with them after the party, and at their suggestion met them the next evening for dinner at the Baltimore.

They have money - lots of it! She runs the best medical clinic in the whole state. They flew up from Vegas without bringing anyone. (I think they heard of the party from Bob Papalt.) They came especially to meet and shake President Reagan's hand, which of course they didn't get to do.

Now the one thing they would like is an autographed picture of the President. I would suggest it might be a good idea to send them one together with an invitation to join the "Eagles' Club".
Be sure to autograph the picture "To Freddie and Audrey" address M/M. Freddie DeKorentis.

I would appreciate knowing if you do send it, because they are flying over here again Oct. 28th to help me celebrate my 85th birthday,
and I'd like to know about the picture.

Can you imagine me being 85?
Doesn't that sound horrible?
But I'm in good health and still do more than many people half my age.
Love and good wishes,

Ada

Love to visit with you sometime like to be in the top echelon, but I so will be grateful if you get this

Dear Mike,

Great work! What an outstanding job you have done, along with the President, to get that Tax Package approved in the House. It was a real coup; especially delightful was watching Tip O'Neill squirm and bite the dust for a change.

I know only too well how difficult and exhausting your job has become and I realize more than most folks what you are doing back there for the President and for all of us out here in the west, Mike.

I have enclosed our Annual edition of the Glenbrook News and the color brochure on Glenbrook for one reason only: To whet your appetite for a get-away-from-it-all vacation here in "God's country".

My wife, Patti, and I would like you and Caroline, and perhaps another couple, if you wish, and of course your children also; to be our guests in one of our Victorian homes right here on Lake Tahoe where you are welcome to stay for one or two weeks, soak up some of our delicious mountain air and recover from what has to be a grueling rat race. September and October are superb months here.

We really hope you'll come, even for a few days. Our weather has just been gorgeous; warm "dry" (not humid-Ugh!) days and cool, crisp nights.

You won't be bothered by anyone, set your own schedule, sleep till noon, if you please, and just relax and enjoy.

It is my way of saying thank you, Mike, nothing else.

By the way you might like to play our new golf course, it was originally built in 1922 and has just been redone.

Best Regards,

Curtis Patrick

Dear Deane:

Thanks for your kind note. It is good hearing from you. Sorry, but I just returned from a short vacation - hence, the late note.

We have had the Cabinet Council on Economic Affairs working on the serious problems you and your colleagues are facing. I will raise the points made in Bill Stuart's letter with Don Regan.

Best regards,

MICHAEL K. DEEVER

Dear Mrs. Maddox:

Thank you for your recent message concerning the President's decision to nominate Sandra O'Connor to the United States Supreme Court.

President Reagan shares your deep concern for the unborn. He has repeatedly emphasized his commitment to protecting the lives of unborn children and has endorsed the idea of a Constitutional amendment to guarantee their right to life.

The President personally spoke with Mrs. O'Connor and was satisfied that she shared his concern for the unborn. I know that President Reagan will admire your moral commitment to protecting innocent human life as much as I do.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

MICHAEL K. DEAVER

Dear Martin:

Thank you for your recent letter. One of the most pleasant aspects of public life is the opportunities it affords to renew acquaintances with old friends.

It was good of you to let me know of your views concerning the Federal Reserve Board. As you know, the Federal Reserve is an independent agency over which the White House cannot exert control. However, let me assure you that the present level of interest rates is of deep concern to every member of this Administration. You can be sure that as we continue to develop policies regarding the money supply and credit your views will be given serious attention.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

MICHAEL K. DEAVER

Dear Mr. Seery:

Thank you for your recent letter. I know that the President will be as pleased as I was to hear of your support.

As I am sure you know, when the Air Controllers decided to strike, they did so in violation of both their sacred oath and the laws of the United States. President Reagan believes that his actions were necessary to maintain the integrity of, and respect for, the law.

Again, many thanks for your letter of support and friendship.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

MICHAEL K. DEAVER

Deputy Chief of Staff
