Dear Mike,

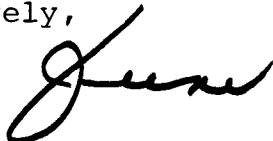

I have enclosed literature that tells the story of lecithin. I have been taking them for years and find that they are particularly valuable under pressure or before a speech. The studies prove that they are supportive to the memory process.

I am sending a bottle for the President and one for you -- I hand them out at Task Force and other lengthy meetings -- and they are eagerly consumed by the Chief Executive Officers present.

If you find that they work, I can supply you with some more.

Take at least two times a day and step up with each birthday, perhaps four a day --

Sincerely,

AN APOLOGY TO PRESIDENT REAGAN - PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION in 1980

The country's voters were all told,
Don't vote for Reagan, he's too old.
They stressed one more important factor,
He's not too smart, he's just an actor.
I never was a Reagan fan.
I voted for another man.
In spite of my misguided voice,
The people made the proper choice.
My favorite man was Kennedy.
But now my views I'll remedy.
I'll do what's right in eighty four.
I'll help get Reagan four years more.

Andrew "Hank" Evanish
- An Enlightened Democrat -

Mr. President:

One of the most cherished legacies in the history of the world was the heritage bestowed on us by our forefathers. Their sacrifice and foresight gave to us a democracy founded on human rights which exploded a beacon of light that sent a glow of hope to people all over the world. Now that glow is getting dimmer, and for many reasons, our country's strength and greatness has been declining.

Like a skilled surgeon, you are heroically trying to rejuvenate our country by cutting waste as well as shoring up our defense posture. Some people are not in agreement with your program and I'm sure you too do not like some of the decisions you have had to make. Yet, I understand that what you are doing has to be done if we are to survive as the greatest nation on this planet.

To turn things around, there may have to be a change in our life-style - a change of some government laws and regulations - a change in the attitude of labor as well as business. Your courage in directing these changes to affect a solution to our manifold problems has frequently proved unpopular with power blocks who can't see the "trees for the forest". One of the most strident complaints is that against your expenditures for national defense. These people fail to realize there are two ways of avoiding nuclear warfare. One way is to achieve parity with Russia and the other way is to ignore their buildup of nuclear arms and then watch helplessly as the Red Tide engulfs one country after another. In the end, the children of every country, including the United States, will be speaking only Russian.

Twenty years ago, my dream was to build a public golf course. I had no land, very little money, and the little experience I gained from playing the game of golf. But, like so many other visionaries of America's past, today I am the proud owner and operator of beautiful eighteen hole golf course. I am grateful and thankful for the opportunity to fulfill my cherished dream. I would like to see people throughout the world given the opportunity to emulate what we in the United States have so long enjoyed - especially our freedom, our liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

In a letter I received from Congressman McDade, he remarked that, "perhaps if the Russians learned to play golf, they would be less inclined to make war". I journeyed to Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, and on two occasions, to Russia. To the officials of those countries, I offered to donate my services to construct their first golf course. Unfortunately, none seemed too receptive to accept my professional services.

Those of our past presidents who history has singled out to be great presidents, with the exception of Thomas Jefferson, were presiding over our nation during periods of war. Now, at another critical period in our nation, you have taken up the challenge. If you ignore the self-serving critics and stick to your beliefs, you have the golden opportunity to be ranked as one of our greatest Presidents ever. Good luck!

Respectfully yours,

Dear Mike,

May I thank you again for the time you spent talking with me during my trip last week to Washington and say how much I enjoyed our conversation.

You were also nice to relay the President's invitation to me to join the State Dinner on September 16 for President Ferdinand E. Marcos. I of course accept this kind invitation with the greatest pleasure and am looking forward very much to the occasion. As I have two married daughters - Cissy Watari and Doreen Cheng - residing in New York, I just wonder if I could bring one of them along to the party to take my wife's place.

It was good to hear that you have joined the non-smokers' league and this is something which I think calls for celebration. I now take the opportunity of enclosing two skipping ropes - my favourite body-trimming aid - which you may like to try out as a means to attain further fitness.

Would you kindly present one to the President with my compliments. You told me that he spends 30 minutes every day on physical work-outs and I was hoping that he may care to add a few additional minutes to the routine doing rope-skipping.

You were also nice to give me some encouraging news on the invitation I extended to Mrs. Nancy Reagan to sponsor one of my vessels in Shanghai next year and I would be grateful if there could be an early confirmation.

With warmest regards,
*Yours ever

Dear Mike,

I attended the President's reception on June 24th and hoped I would see you, but no such luck. I was asked because of all the volunteer community work I have done and that pleased me greatly. Thought the reception was excellent - good food and friendly and warm atmosphere. Cesarina Loustalot of Santa Ynez went along with me. We went to New York first - took in a grand show - and altogether had a marvelous time.

I have been asked to do a favor for a friend of mine who is acquainted with the famous artists, Eva and Americo Makk (see the information enclosed). They would like to do portraits of Nancy and President Reagan. Americo painted a portrait of former President Carter which he says is hanging in the White House. Of course, there would be no fee and the Reagans could do with them as they wished. It would entail five sittings of about fifteen minutes each.

My friend suggested that this might also be an opportunity for me to raise funds for my favorite charity, Phoenix House, and the County Republican Central Committee. This could be accomplished by allowing about fifty prints of the portrait to be made and sold for two hundred dollars each. I know there are many who would like very much to have such a picture.

Does this sound crazy, interesting, or even feasible?

If you think there is a possibility of interest, would you present the idea to President Reagan? He might feel as we do on the Republican Committee, that it would be good public relations for these portraits to be in people's homes. However, if he is interested in the portraits but not having prints made, this consideration alone will be appreciated.

Please let me know your reaction to it.

I appreciate that you are terribly busy - so if you don't want to be bothered, I'll understand. However if President Reagan has no other artist in mind, he might be interested.

As always,

Ada

Dear Jerry:

I've looked into your letter of June 6th regarding energy tax credits for wind farmers and have been able to ascertain the following.

On February 26th, the Treasury Department released to the Congress the general and technical explanations of the tax revision proposals announced by President Reagan in his State of the Union Address. I am enclosing a portion of the proposal regarding the recommendation to repeal business energy tax subsidies after December 13, 1982. However, please note that the proposals contain transition rules intended to protect taxpayers who have relied upon existing law incentives from loss on their investments.

I hope this information will be helpful to you.

Dear Mike,

~~I was talking to your brother the other day about the wind farms in the Oak Creek area.~~ I was asking him if he knew any way we wind farmers could keep or save the energy tax credits.

He told me that you knew of the wind farms and I might send you a letter. ~~He said he would ask you about them when he saw you.~~

When we went into this, we thought we would have those benefits through 1985, but now it looks like they will be no more after the end of the year.

I have seen tremendous progress toward the emergence of this new industry just since about July 1981. The best and most active of these companies, Zond Systems Inc., has in the space of less than one year created a wind farm capable of generating over 225 megawatts of electricity per year. The plan for the remainder of 1982 and 1983 will create a wind farm capable of producing over 41,000 per year. This extraordinary rate of expansion is entirely due to the existing energy tax credits and a hell of a lot of work.

If we could keep the energy tax credits for even two years, I think this new industry would make it on its own. It is a risk filled industry now, and we do need the support now.

If you can think of some way to help us, I believe it will help create a new industry in the alternative energy field and prove to be a good thing for the country.

The wind that blew us around for years just might be put to work to solve some of the country's energy problems. And with the growth of the alternative power industries, the Mojave, with its wind and sun, could be a great source of power for the years to come.

Sincerely,

Jerry de Montmorency

Dear Mr. Deaver:

President Reagan has been extended an invitation to speak at the Annual Dinner of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce -- the date to be adjusted to fit his schedule in October, November, or December, 1982.

The Annual Dinner of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is attended by about 2,000 people and is the highlight of the Lubbock area during the fall season. The President's appearance at the Dinner would continue a tradition of nationally and internationally known government leaders. The Chamber's banquets have featured such outstanding persons as former President Gerald Ford, the Honorable George Mahon, my predecessor, who represented the 19th District of Texas for 44 years; former NATO Commander and Secretary of State Alexander Haig; and Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. The Chamber was indeed fortunate last year to have Vice President Bush as their banquet speaker, and would be truly honored to have President Reagan speak this year.

Any assistance you can provide in having the President consider the invitation of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce would be greatly appreciated. I look forward to hearing from you in this regard.

Sincerely,

Kent Hance

James Heyworth, president of Home Box Office, Ralph Davidson, Time Inc. Chairman and Gerald Levin, vice president of the Time video group, picked up the tab for the reception.

The publication of Nigeria's President Shehu Shagari's biography brought 500 people to the Woodrow Wilson House Thursday night.

Ronald Lee, president of Phoenix Group International, the D.C. consulting firm responsible for the event said: "The book is the chronicle of the evolution of Nigeria's independence. Its constitution is patterned after the United States, and it is like writing the chronicle of George Washington."

Sen. Edward Kennedy's entrance caused a round of applause. Kennedy, having left the Senate floor in the middle of the Voting Rights Act debate, stayed five minutes to talk up the book and then rushed back to the Senate to take care of business.

But despite the senator's brief appearance, there were others, such as "Roots" author Alex Haley, and actress Cicely Tyson who gave the book its due promotion and the party its extra sparkle.

Before the party had a chance to get off the ground, former Missouri Congressman Jim Symington was wondering what he would sing that night. "I never decide what I'm going to sing beforehand. I just wait to see how it looks," he said. But the pouring down rain inspired him: "Let It Rain, Let It Pour." His wife Sylvia joined him on the next tune and was followed

"I'm enjoying Mike Deaver. I've heard him play many times," said Jim Baker, White House chief of staff. "My wife has been working for the National Federation of Parents for a Drug Free Youth for years," said Baker. Mrs. Baker said firmly: "I believe the only way to stop the drug problem is to get the parents involved. Once the kids have reached the pits, they need very strict self-discipline so they can gain self-respect. It works."

The talk of the party was Deaver's recent European trip with the president. Willard Doug Campbell, special assistant of public affairs at the Department of Energy commented: "Deaver did a great job. It's hard enough setting up a visit for the president if he's just going to Texas, let alone Europe."

The Women's Committee for the Washington Ballet held their art benefit for the Washington Ballet Scholarship Fund Friday night. Almost 200 guests filled the Georgetown home of Mrs. Michael Lapadula.

Mary Day, artistic director and founder of the Washington Ballet, told guests that the money was needed for the upcoming tour in Italy. "In Europe they can't wait to see them," said Mrs. Lapadula, chairman of the event.

Under the direction of Day, Amanda McKerrow became the first American to win the gold medal in the International Ballet Competition in Moscow last summer. Day has a long list of famous pupils, not the least of whom is actress Shirley MacLaine.

The evening ended with a big splash when 12 ballerinas, wanting to get refreshed, couldn't resist the swimming pool in the Lapadulas' backyard and decided to go in "au naturel."

Dear Mr. Deaver:

Those of us who have wholeheartedly supported President Reagan are definitely opposed to the re-election of Senator Weicker.

Senator Weicker's disloyalty to the President and the administration has been a source of embarrassment to us. In fact he has at times been <sup>was</sup>contempuous of the President's program and has shown little support for the party.

Today's Hartford Courant carries a story indicating that "prominent Republican Senators will bring pressure on the White House for Mr. Bush to withdraw if there is a primary".

Mrs. Weller and I definitely will not <sup>vote</sup> for the Senate position if the choice is between Weicker and Moffett this fall. Other Republicans feel the same way despite the strong pressure propoganda campagin going on at this time.
