RE: Holton Arms Auction
March 17, 1984

Dear Mr. Deaver,

As Chairman of the Spotters Committee for the Holton Arms Auction this year, it is my privilege to inform you that you have been selected to be a spotter at the 1984 - 10th Anniversary Auction to be held at the Shoreham Hotel, on the evening of March 17, 1984.

As spotters can make or break an auction, it is felt that your presence in the spotter capacity would be a tremendous asset to the success of the auction.

Our goal for this year's 10th Anniversary Auction is to net $100,000, a reachable objective in light of the many generous donations we have received thus far.

Some of the items to be auctioned this year include: airline tickets all over the world; a hot-air balloon ride over the Rockies; a fishing trip to Bimini; jewelry; PMI parking for a year; a $1000 gift certificate from Saks Fifth Avenue; a Porsche automobile; and wind surfing lessons, to name a few.

As you can see, we have been most fortunate in the response from the Holton Community for this year's auction. The enthusiasm and support we are receiving is heartwarming.

Spotters will be asked to take one-half hour to three-quarter hour shifts between 9:00 and 10:30 pm. When you decide to accept this honorary position, and if you plan to leave early, please advise.

We will hold one short meeting in early March at the school to educate ourselves as to the methods used to:

1. solicit higher bids
2. recognize bidding
3. bid for our own account

We look forward to hearing from you and are certain you will share our excitement by honoring us with your participation.

Please respond on the enclosed form by return mail no later than January 10th to: Allyn E. Kilsheimer, 1220 19th Street, N.W., Suite 803, Washington, D.C. 20036.

DB / I need to call

Dear Michael,

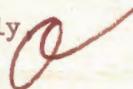

Thank you for your acceptance of the position of Spotter during the Holton Arms Auction on March 17, 1984.

As part of your acceptance of this position one of your primary responsibilities will be facilitating the bidding process during the auction. Each spotter is also requested to attend a short briefing at his/her convenience during the training/ preview day at Holton Arms in the Father's Club Lounge at either 8:30 A.M. or 6:30 P.M., March 13. At that time I will meet with you personally to explain your responsibilities in greater detail.

Spotters will meet in the Hospitality Room (on left, off corridor, before the Regency Ballroom landing) at 6:00 on on March 17th for shift assignments and locations.

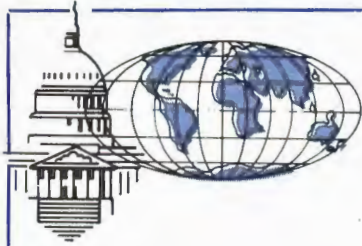

If you have any questions, please feel free to call upon me.

Sincerely

Allyn E. Kilsheimer

Dear Mike:

It was such a pleasure seeing you again on the occasion of the Citizens for the Republic dinner in your honor at the Century Plaza. The dinner was excellent as usual, but the highlight of the evening was your speech. It was so very excellent!

You are a wonderful representative for our great President and I know he relies on you for your wisdom and integrity.

We all appreciate so much all you do!

Best wishes,

Dear Carolyn and Mike:

I am looking forward to seeing you on March 19th at my residence at Watergate East for dinner with Ambassador and Mrs. Zhang Wen-Jin of the People's Republic of China.

Since we have already had one dinner on Friday, February 24th for him to meet many of the Congressional leaders as well as officials from State and Commerce and some business executives (please see enclosed guest list), Ambassador Zhang suggested we just have a private dinner with you at my home so that he and his wife could talk to you both privately before he leaves for Beijing.

I thought you might also enjoy a quiet evening for constructive discussion, however, if you have any guests you feel I should include, please have your office call us. We will be glad to include them.

Sincerely,

Anna Chennault

Dear Ron:

Well, Mr. President, your reputation in the field is still first class. I don't give a hoot what the M.A.I. Polls say. (M.A.I.= Made As Instructed.) Liberal press.

Antonio was in Los Angeles over the weekend and over 247 SIN Network channels. He announced he wished he could vote because if he could, there is only one man in the world who would get his vote -- YOU. This was on the Mundo Latino Show. It aired at 11:00 here in Arizona, 1:00 p.m. in the East. A very nice endorsement. Also, on KWKW in Los Angeles, Antonio did the same thing.

For your information, the owner of "La Opinion", the leading Spanish newspaper in Los Angeles now endorses you. This man employs over 300 people on his paper so this is no small one-man-desk operation. So congratulations. You see, like I said, everyone loves you. We're well on to and after the Hispanics and believe me when I say the best is yet to come.

Just a suggestion. When Mexico owes us so much, how can they afford to give (not sell or loan but give) oil to Castro and Nicaragua? When they borrow from us this should be pointed out to them. One can be our friend or our foe, one can't be both. Since the Mexican President will be visiting Antonio's home this week, I suggested he remind the man of this. Not that it will do any good but it should upset his stomach. I hope so.

Nice of the British to loan money to Russia, along with the West Germans. You keep the Russians on a short leash and they lend them needed cash. Maybe they should repay us too since they have so much to lend.

The reason I mention this, there are items that are discussed in the street. Perhaps the State Department and the banks should also help in reducing our national debt too. Where I come from, everyone helps mother when she's in trouble...and mother is in trouble...and everyone in the street knows that too.

If Cap (the Knife) wants his name to be what it once was, he can shake up the Pentagon and stop their wastefulness. If they can't put their house in order or be trusted to help mother, then private industry will. It can too. Competitive bids usually get everyone's attention. He should lay the law down to them. He's letting them give you a black eye here and in an election year too!

President Ronald Reagan

Also, if those who are loyal to your ideas and ideals in government are demoted, fired and chastized for cooperating with you regarding their belief in what you want...if this is allowed to continue...then, Amigo, it's business as usual and bring out the printing presses.

Knocking out that stupid MX Missile that is trucked around would show the people you are cooperating in reducing the debt...then the Democrats (liberals) would have to match it with something of their's.

A hand up is always better than a hand out.

If Hart (or whatever his name is) makes it, the Reverend will figure it was done to outsmart him and his deal will be voided. Then watch all blue blazes break out!

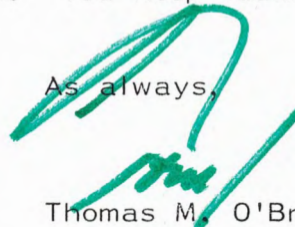

Let's see. The Democrats want you to be pals with a gang that killed a U.S. Congressman. No apology. Shot you and the Pope, no apology. Boy! and Golly! that's what I call P.R. Can we hire the firm that handles the U.S.S.R.?

How do you like the picture of my painting? Since everyone reads our mail, it's mine, mine, mine...that ends that topic. I liked it so well, and besides, you are so doggone handsome, I'm having a second one done for me, me, me. Also, I'll send you a copy of the one I'm having done for Antonio. It will be officially loaned to him at the Mexican Embassy in Los Angeles in June, just prior to his opening in El Paso in July. Officially he'll get it in November in San Diego.

✓ Called Kathy O. regarding Walter H. Annenberg. He is being made "Man of the Year in California" in the Riviera Hotel Grand Ballroom on March 23rd. Since Duke D., Bill Clark and Bill Wilson sent him letters of congratulations, I knew you would want to get your's (the most important one) in too. Not that you don't have enough to do. How you are able to do even a tenth of what you do is beyond me. I can see the day when Kathy reads your mail, dictates a letter to each of us and a rubber stamp goes where you once signed. When and if this happens, those that love you will understand. Those that don't -- to heck with 'em.

Happy St. Pat's Day from one Irishman to another! And may the good Lord hold you in the palm of His hand for at least a day before the devil knows you've gone. Love you, Amigs. You keep leading and I'll bring in the flock. All our best to Nancy.

As always,

its allies roughly 60 percent, NATO is the principal underwriter of the Soviet espionage operations conducted against NATO.

Four years ago, Irving Kristof wrote: "Why do we not have a foreign policy worthy of the name? The reason, put bluntly, is that for too long we have had a foreign policy unworthy of the name. That is to say, we have had - and on the whole still have - a foreign policy based on all sorts of illusions as to the kind of world we live in."

The World Bank and the UN date to the Second World War and our illusions about the wartime alliance with Stalin, about the Brave New World we would together build, when the Soviet finally got over their paranoia. The San Francisco spy center and commodity credit to the Warsaw Pact date to the decade of detente, the illusion of how with a golden web of aid, trade and technology transfers, we would bind the Soviet empire to the West, "moderate" Soviet behavior, usher in a generational peace. As the Berlin blockade and Czechoslovakian coup were us up to the illusions of the 40s, Angola, Afghanistan and the crushing of Solidarity should have awakened us to the illusions of the '70s.

Apparently, they did not. Even under Ronald Reagan, foreign policy appears to be steered in critical areas by illusion, inertia, nostalgia. A nationalist foreign policy, grounded in the security interests of the United States, would, three years ago, have shut down the San Francisco consulate, evicted the U.N. spy center from New York to the Third World, terminated contributions to the IDA, demanded and gotten more power over all loans from the World Bank, put Jaruzelski in default, cut the contingent of Soviet bloc diplomats in Washington to numbers comparable to those of the United States in communist Europe. Without lenience, but without apology.

Soviet bloc gets credit, we get the bills

WASHINGTON — At long last the overdue grocery bills of the Warsaw Pact are being paid. The bad news, friends, is that you and I are paying them — with the Reagan administration acting as agent in our behalf. So it came to light this weekend.

Here is how the transaction went, from start to finish.

During the decade of detente, communist Poland and Stalinist Romania expressed a desire to purchase vast amounts of American grain and food. Having, however, no hard Western currency, they asked to buy on credit. The American Big Banks agreed to lend the money — if the Commodity Credit Corporation, a federal agency, would guarantee 98 percent of the principal of the loan, and an 8 percent profit. It's called no-fault banking.

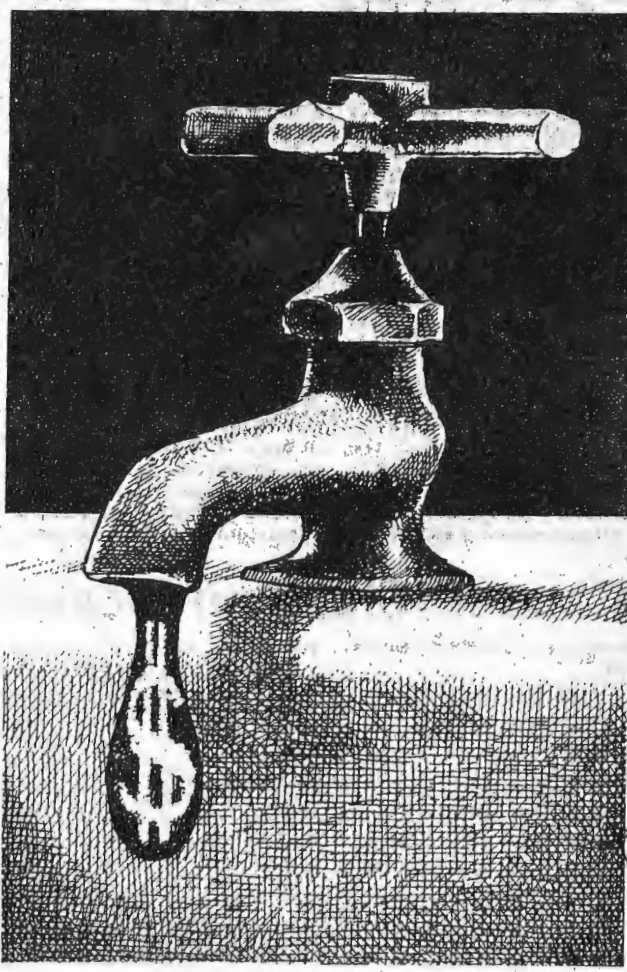

Having consumed the grain, Warsaw and Bucharest walked away from the loans. With neither principal nor interest coming in, the Big Banks went to the CCC to get paid off. For two years, they have been paid off with the tax dollars of the American people.

So the grocery bill of the Warsaw Pact, from the decade of detente, is being handed by the Communist capitals of Eastern Europe to the American people. In addition, so as not to harm the future credit rating of the communist deadbeats, the Reagan administration has deliberately evaded the legal requirement of putting Poland and Romania into formal default. Detente Lives!

With last week's mail came some related anecdotes and facts.

From an excellent speech from Jack F. Kemp's office, one learns, for example, that:

The World Bank plans to "contribute $1 billion to the PRC (People's Republic of China) in 1984, four hundred million dollars of this will be from the International Development Association — no interest, 50 years to repay." Such largesse, for one of the most repressive regimes on earth, which is sitting on reserves of $11.2 billion, and which itself last year gave Yugoslavia $120 million in foreign aid. (Of last year's international lending, subsidized primarily by Americans, $3.2 billion went to communist regimes.)

From Reader's Digest, comes an article titled, "The Great Russian Raid on U.S. Technology," documenting the bleeding of American security secrets. Contained within is this nugget: A Russian defector contends that 75 percent of the 100 or more Soviet "diplomats" attached to the San Francisco consulate are either KGB or GRU (military intelligence). Their primary target: Silicon Valley.

From the Heritage Foundation comes a paper, analyzing the greatest espionage center in history: The United Nations. Writes analyst Robert Brooks, there are "some 680 Soviets and approximately 2000 Eastern bloc 'diplomats' in New York alone, and as many as a third are thought by Western intelligence sources to be operating as agents of their nation's intelligence services."

Considering that the Soviets, with three votes in the General Assembly and three delegations at the U.N., still pay only 4 percent of the cost, that the United States pays 25 percent, and with its allies roughly 60 percent, NATO is the principal underwriter of the Soviet espionage operations conducted against NATO.

Four years ago, Irving Kristol wrote: "Why do we not have a foreign policy worthy of the name? The reason, put bluntly, is that for too long we have had a foreign policy unworthy of the name. That is to say, we have had — and on the whole still have — a foreign policy based on all sorts of illusions as to the kind of world we live in."

The World Bank and the U.N. date to the Second World War, and our illusions about the wartime alliance with Stalin, about the Brave New World we would together build, when the Soviets finally got over their paranoia. The San Francisco spy center and commodity credit to the Warsaw Pact date to the decade of detente, the illusion of how, with a golden web of aid, trade and technology transfers, we would bind the Soviet empire to the West, "moderate" Soviet behavior, usher in a generation of peace. Dear Mr. Deaver:

For the past two years I have sought unsuccessfully to perform my magic show at the annual White House Easter Egg Hunt. I am fully aware that the committee which selects the performers for this event has a difficult task. However, I cannot comprehend why I have not been afforded fair opportunity for selection to perform.

My denial for permission to perform is the result of the fact that the Director of the Visitor's Office, Mrs. Carol McCain, has, in a rude fashion, refused to return my telephone calls, acknowledge receipt of any of my publicity materials, or to ever allow me a full telephone conversation with her without hanging up on me. Naturally, I feel that I have been dealt with in a most unfair manner, and I am appealing to you to either provide me with the opportunity to perform for the selection committee or explain why I am not receiving a fair chance to perform. Your prompt attention to this matter would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM FOR MICHAEL DEAVER

FROM: LEE L. VERSTANDIG lee

SUBJECT: FUNERAL FOR CLARENCE MITCHELL, JR.

The funeral for civil rights leader Clarence Mitchell, Jr. will be this Friday at noon in Baltimore. Mitchell was the older brother of Congressman Parren Mitchell (D-MD), who has introduced enterprise zone legislation, as well as the father of Maryland State Senator Clarence Mitchell, III, who has been very helpful to me in working with black elected officials.

I understand that a condolence letter to the family as well as a statement by the President are in the works. I wanted to bring to your attention the question of how to coordinate the Administration's representation at the funeral. There will be quite a bit of attention given to the funeral and I expect that the Reverend Jesse Jackson, among other political leaders, will attend.

I am planning to attend and I know that Jack Svahn, who has good relationships with the Maryland black community, is also planning to attend.

Bill:

Higher-level representation is probably not necessary. We've arranged a letter of condolences signed by RR which Verstandig will present to the family when he attends today's services. Larry released the letter at 10:00, and noted that Lee was attending and would deliver it.
