PRESIDENT'S
COMMISSION ON WHITE HOUSE FELLOWSHIPS
THE WHITE HOUSE

April 23, 1984

File

Dear Mr. Deaver:

On June 4, 1984, a new group of 13-18 White House Fellows will be announced by the President's Commission on White House Fellowships. The new class will report to Washington for the week of June 25-29 for job placement interviews. It is my hope that you will be interested in interviewing some of the new Fellows during the week of June 25 and that you will select one of the Fellows to work in your office beginning September 1.

The White House Fellowships program was founded in 1964 by President Lyndon Johnson to bring a select number of well qualified, highly motivated young leaders to Washington for one year and to give them the opportunity to work in the federal government at a high level and to gain firsthand knowledge of the governmental process.

Fellows are typically assigned as special assistants to the Vice President, to heads of agencies and Cabinet departments and to senior members of the White House staff. Since 1964 almost 300 Fellows have participated in this program. President Reagan is the fifth President to oversee the program and he is very supportive of it.

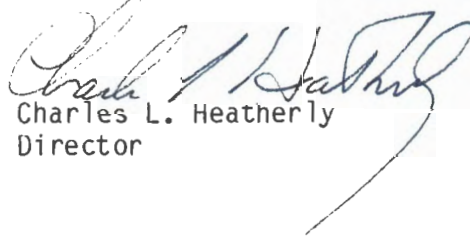

As I mentioned, the fellowship year begins the first of September. The Fellows are paid by the departments they work for, at levels not to exceed GS 15, step 3. In addition, it is expected that they will be permitted to participate in field trips, not to exceed 15 working days during the year and $4,000 in expenses (which the employing agencies are asked to cover).

If you would be interested in having a White House Fellow this fall, please advise me of the name of your staff assistant who would conduct the initial interviews. I will then give that individual a set of files on the new Fellows after the new class has been announced on June 4. I would be pleased to meet with you or your aide to discuss the candidates or any aspect of the program.

If you or your staff have any questions, please feel free to give me a call at 395-4522. I am enclosing a copy of our brochure for your information and a list of the current (1983-84) White House Fellows and their work assignments.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM FOR MIKE DEEVER

FROM: Bob BOB SIMS

SUBJECT: Your Meeting with Susan Page Group, April 6

You have agreed to meet Friday with Susan Page and a small group of journalists who will be among the travelling press on the President's China trip. They've already had a number of briefings on the trip.

Apart from the substantive issues, we expect this group will be interested in the planning and purposes of the trip. They've had no information on the Hawaii, Guam, and Fairbanks stops. You can expect questions on how the President is preparing for the overall trip. What arrangements are being made in China? How do the President and Mrs. Reagan feel about going to China? Has there been a change in the President's views on China over time, and if so, why? The group will also be interested in your own views based on your experience in advancing the trip. They will want to know how the communications planning is being done, and what messages we hope to send.

Bob Kimmitz attached

I think you should rely on the themes in ~~Bill Martin's~~ paper, and make these points:

- Both the United States and China are attaching great importance to this trip which should be considered as a culmination of a series of exchanges by high level U.S. and Chinese officials.
- The series began early in this administration and has increased in frequency and significance in the last year or so. In the last fifteen months, the U.S. Secretaries of State, Commerce, Defense and Treasury have all visited China. Last fall, the U.S. and China announced that Premier Zhao Ziyang and President Reagan would exchange visits in 1984.
- The President's trip symbolizes the importance he himself attaches to developing the relationship with China, a policy that has been consistent through four U.S. administrations. President Reagan will be, however, the first U.S. President to visit China since President Ford's visit in 1975, and the first since the establishment of full diplomatic relations in 1979.

It is important to stress that this is not just a trip to China. It is a trip to Asia, and the President's second trip to that area in the past year. It is also part of his global diplomacy, which will be continued with the Economic Summit. The China trip is a dramatic demonstration of U.S. interest in strengthening relations with the Pacific community of nations, opening new avenues of cooperation with the new center of global economic activity, and enhancing the prospects for peace and prosperity in the region.

George Beasley (Chinese-speaking USIA officer who was on the preadvance and is helping with press on the trip), and I plan to sit in with this group. If you are willing, we think similar small sessions with key reporters before we reach the PRC would be helpful. We would be please to help arrange them.
