Dear Malcolm:

I seem to be always regretting your kind invitations.

The President's schedule is quite full during the brief period he will be in Normandy participating in the ceremonies honoring the 40th Anniversary of the Allied Invasion. And, as you can imagine, the President has quite a bit to do in order to prepare for the Economic Summit and will be returning to London at the conclusion of the ceremonies in Normandy. Therefore, a visit to the Chateau and Musee is not possible.

Again, thank you for your kind invitations.

Sincerely,

Dear Mike:

Since the President will be visiting the D-Day Beaches and American Cemetery in Normandy on June 6th marking the 40th Anniversary of the Allied Invasion, the Forbes family ardently hopes he can include a brief visit to our Chateau de Balleroy--and our Musee des Ballons, the only museum in the world devoted to ballooning. We are fifteen to twenty miles from the beaches, a few minutes by helicopter and not too much more by car.

Two days after the President's Normandy visit we will be holding the Ninth International Invitational Balloon Meet, with 30 plus balloons from 20 countries--including China and Pakistan where we introduced the sport and presented them with hot air balloons.

I know thought was given to a possible visit by the First Lady to Chateau de Balleroy when she was previously in France, but as the itinerary developed it just didn't prove to be possible.

Enclosed, Mike, is a wee bit about the Chateau, as well as last year's Balloon Meet. Since we bought this Mansart gem many years ago, the restoration has been completed and its current fame as an international ballooning center has brought many additional visitors to the area. Because it has been an American family undertaking and it salutes the French achievement in making man's first flight 201 years ago, a visit by the President would be warmly received as an expression of appreciation for this ongoing contribution to Franco-American friendship.

Mr. Michael K. Deaver

We are understandably excited at the prospect of extending this invitation to the President if you feel the itinerary could include it.

As ever,

Dear Mr. Deaver:

At the turn of the year I sought on behalf of my paper an interview with the President to mark his anticipated decision to run for re-election. I was in touch first with David Gergen, and later Les Janka and others, finally being told that the President would be concentrating his attention on American publications, but that I should ask again on the eve of his visit to Europe. (My editor, Donald Trelford, also pursued the request at that time through the U. S. Embassy in London, from whom he received the same answer).

Since then, of course, both Mr. Gergen and Mr. Janka have left the White House, and I realise that you have taken on the responsibility for scheduling press interviews with the President. I was told that our request would be kept on a list, but that I should remind your office again in writing of our continuing interest in having an interview with Mr. Reagan, which is what I am now doing.

I enclose copies of two of my original letters, and one reply I received from Mr. Gergen at an early stage in the process - I later communicated by phone with his office. These give some background about our paper. At that time Mr. Trelford himself was interested in joining me in the interview, and would be again if you were willing and the timing could be worked out.

SUBJECT: Tribute Dinner for Senators Howard Baker and John Tower

The Senate Majority Whip, Ted Stevens, is planning a dinner in September to honor the Majority Leader and the Chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, both of whom retire at the end of this Congress. At this writing, the 98th Congress will adjourn sine die in early October.

out of JAB

Senator Stevens plans to hold the dinner in the Great Hall of the Library of Congress. (This is the same site Senator Baker has used for the Senate dinners he hosted at the beginning of each new Congress.)

Stevens has two requests:

- 1) Would the President accept an invitation to attend?
- 2) Would, if he accepts, he be available on one of four dates:
  - a) September 11, Tuesday
  - b) September 12, Wednesday
  - c) September 17, Monday
  - d) September 18, Tuesday

There are the only dates the Great Hall is available in September. The Senator would like to know as soon as possible, so the Hall could be secured. He would keep the President's participation confidential to the point you would counsel he could make it public.

FROM: MICHAEL A. McMANUS, Jr. manm

SUBJECT: McNeil-Lehrer Interview Request

You had asked for guidance on the attached request from Les Crystal for the President to appear on NewsHour for their first broadcast of the convention week.

As you may know, McNeil-Lehrer has had a longstanding request that was postponed due to Jim Lehrer's recent illness. In this light, I feel it might be a good time for the President to grant the interview.

I have also asked Larry Speakes for his comments on the request. He feels that NewsHour does not attract a large enough audience, and that the President could be granting a more effective and more widely viewed interview with his time. He recommends that the President not do the interview.

Would you like to accept or regret this request?

Dear Mike:

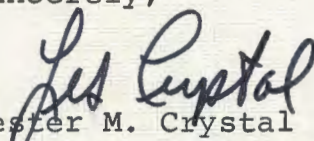

The NewsHour, representing Public Television's sole coverage of the 1984 nominating conventions, will be broadcasting from Dallas during the week of the Republican National Convention. Both Robin and Jim will be there, along with Judy Woodruff, to report in-depth on the events and issues surrounding the expected nomination of President Reagan to a second term. We will be anchoring from station KERA in Dallas, with a remote hookup to the convention hall. In addition to our two regular early evening feeds to the eastern and central time zones, we will produce a 6:00 p.m. PST Convention update for the west coast stations, which also will be suitable for re-broadcast to the other time zones. On Thursday night, we expect to extend that third broadcast so that the President's acceptance speech can be covered in its entirety.

We would like to interview Mr. Reagan for our first broadcast of the convention week. The focus would be on the past four years in office, critical issues facing a new administration, and his views on the Presidency.

This interview could be taped at the White House or in California on the weekend before the convention begins. We would like it to run a minimum of 30 minutes.

There have been several discussions over the past year about a Presidential interview on the NewsHour. This appears to us as an ideal opportunity for Mr. Reagan to appear on the program in its new format. I hope we can arrange this, and am ready to meet with you at any time to discuss it.

Dear Mr. Deaver:

Thank you for helping arrange to have a taped message by the President for the opening extravaganza at the National Association of Broadcasters Annual Convention last week. Clearly, it added a 'nice touch' to an outstanding patriotic production. Naturally, we would have also liked a live teleconference for our closing session but understand the conflicts posed by the President's trip to China.

As we discussed, the NAB Board will be meeting in Washington June 18 through 22 and would like to have a briefing by the President and/or a reception at The White House. We can make arrangements to be available anytime during that week but would prefer a mid-to-late afternoon meeting Monday through Thursday. Our Board consists of 53 members who are CEO's or top executives of radio and television stations and companies across the country and national radio/TV networks. With spouses and a small number of our senior staff we would anticipate no more than 125 people.

This would afford our Board a superb opportunity to hear the President's program firsthand. We greatly appreciate your assistance in this regard.

Kindest personal regards.

Thanks so much for forwarding the letter from Prime Minister Trudeau to President Reagan, recommending that we support the candidacy of Mr. Marc Lalonde as Secretary General of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. As you know, Jean-Claude Paye was selected as the new OECD Secretary General at the May 17 session. If he had not been named, we certainly would have given Mr. Lalonde every consideration.

I was interested to receive your thoughts regarding the possibilities of establishing an annual forum for Canadian-American meetings at the highest level. This idea appears to have some merit and I would ask that you raise this suggestion with George Shultz.
