Dear Carlton and Dan:

Recently Marilee Melvin sent me the September issue of "Government Executive" with its cover story "The White House War on Drugs". This article represents the third instance in as many weeks in which I have seen the Media spotlight on OPD's efforts. As I am sure you know, ABC News covered the Task Force on South Florida and The First Lady's program in a telecast not long ago. I hope that this, and future exposure, will serve you well. It sounds as though your shop is maintaining its frenetic pace.

The article reminds me that I have been negligent in keeping in touch, and I would like to bring you up to speed on my recent activities. Shortly after departing Washington I flew to California for a summer of classes at Stanford and pilot training -- I do not think I am quite ready for E-2C interdiction flights! Presently I am well settled in for my final year at Dartmouth as I complete my degree in Economics.

I would be interested to hear of any progress towards co-ordinating the various agency drug data. I recall your great headaches with data verification and hope that your efforts with EPIC have proven successful.

Best of luck as you continue the battle, and I hope to see you in Washington soon.

Sincerely,

Chris
