Eugenia Arensburger herself called, with 4 questions/requests:

- the time of the luncheon on Friday
- which door should she use
- she'd really appreciate a set of talkers for the meeting/luncheon
- will the President make a toast? If so, she would definitely appreciate the text in advance

She is the interpreter covering the President's luncheon w/Shevardnadze (and, in addition, she'll be the only U.S. interpreter at Sec. Shultz's BBQ Friday eve.)

Please call her as soon as possible, through Kathleen Murphy, 632-2137 or

PRESIDENTIAL RADIO TALK: REPORT ON TALKS WITH SHEVARDNADZE SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1985

(1820

My fellow Americans, during the past week, we've been working hard to advance the Middle East peace process and to try to improve U.S.-Soviet relations.

In regard to the Middle East, I met with our good friend President Mubarak of Egypt, and I'll be holding discussions this coming week with another long-time friend of the U.S. in that area -- King Hussein of Jordan. I hope to talk to you more about the Middle East next week, but today, let me speak to you about our efforts to build a more constructive and stable long-term relationship with the Soviet Union.

Both Secretary Shultz and I met with the new Soviet Foreign Minister, Eduard Shevardnadze, this past week. These meetings with the Soviet Foreign Minister covered a broad, global agenda, including the four major areas of the U.S.-Soviet dialogue: human rights, regional and bilateral issues, and security and arms control matters. They enabled us to discuss at the most senior levels the key issues facing these two great powers, and to hear out each other's concerns. For our part, the U.S. side had an opportunity to put forward some new ideas.

I told Foreign Minister Shevardnadze that I am hopeful about my upcoming meeting with General Secretary Gorbachev, and I put forward some of my plans and expectations for that meeting. The Soviet Foreign Minister indicated that Mr. Gorbachev also is looking forward to these discussions. Furthermore, we agreed to set up a series of senior level discussions between our experts in preparation for the Geneva meeting.

I intend to keep you informed about expectations for each of these four areas of the U.S.-Soviet relationship as these for the November meeting preparations proceed. I will be doing all I can to achieve some real improvements in this relationship.

Let's be clear, however, that success will not come from one meeting; it must come from a genuine, long-term effort by the assumption of the Soviet Union, The differences between us are fundamental and profound, in political systems, values, and the way we conduct ideology, as well as in our relations with other countries, and the way we conduct ourselves in the world. The U.S. must and will be forthright and firm in explaining and defending our interests and those of our allies.

You the people, have a very important role to play in this process. You have the patience and the understanding to sort out what is concrete diplomatic progress from what is mere propaganda designed to influence public opinion in the democracies. We are counting on your judgement. All too often in the past, political and public opinion -- and sometimes government policy as well -- have taken on extreme views of the U.S.-Soviet relationship. We have witnessed both extremes, sometimes a near euphoria over a supposed coming-together of our two societies; at other times a feeling of depression that the U.S. and USSR may somehow be at the brink of conflict.

What we're seeking is a long-term and lasting improvement in the U.S.-Soviet relationship. By holding to the firm and steady longer any reason for such abrupt swings in assessing this with the Soviet Union relationship. Our differences are, indeed, profound, and it is have viewed many important issues inevitable that our two countries will opposed each other. But we are not at the brink of conflict; we have intensified our bilateral dialogue and taken measures -- such as the recent upgrading of the crisis "Hotline" -- to ensure fast and reliable communications between our leaders at all times.

Above all, I emphasized to the Foreign Minister, and will do so with Mr. Gorbachev as well, that I view it as the overriding responsibility of the leaders of our two countries to work for peaceful relations between us. Based on my discussion with the Foreign Minister, I believe that the Soviet leadership too recognized the importance of this fundamental objective.

Thus, what we are engaged in is neither cold war nor detente, but a careful, long-term diplomatic process in which we seek to solve problems where they are solvable, to bridge differences where they can be bridged, and to recognize those areas where there are no realistic solutions. And, where solutions are lacking, we must manage our differences in a way that protects Western freedoms and preserves the peace.

With your continued understanding and support, the United States stands ready to accomplish this. Much more must be done, of course, but based on this week's meetings, I am pleased to say that at least the process is underway. And we ourselves will continue take some further bilateral steps to move things along and to show our readiness to do our part.

With equal determination on the Soviet part, much can be accomplished. We will judge the results over the long torm as Soviet actions unfold in each of the four key areas of our relations. And I will be reporting to you further on each area as preparations for my November meeting proceed.

Until next week, thanks for listening and God bless you.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: FAREWELL CEREMONY FOR GENERAL VESSEY MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1985

Jack, I hope you weren't embarrassed by that uniform with the World War I helmet.

The way I look at it: You're almost old enough now to run for President.

I really do approach this get-together today with very mixed feelings; I want to pay tribute to Jack Vessey but it's also hard to lose a friend: I've found you need all the friends you can get in Washington. Of course, there is some consolation in knowing that Jack is going back to Minnesota; I discovered last year I needed friends there even more than I did in Washington.

But, as I say, Jack, don't let the uniform upset you.

Because, you know, we enlisted in the reserves about the same time and believe me you should have seen my uniform: I was in the horse cavalry.

Which brings up an important point. You know, ladies and gentlemen, I recently disclosed that the real reason I ran for President was to bring back the horse cavalry. And when I took office some people told me I was now the most powerful man in the world. So now that you're retiring, Jack, maybe you can tell me why everytime I brought up the horse cavalry in the Oval Office you and Cap would just smile and nod and say, "yes Mr. President." And nothing would happen.

Ladies and gentlemen, we are here today to honor and thank

Jack Vessey for his years of service and devotion to America. As you've heard, Jack Vessey's military career has taken him right to the top: Four Star General, Vice Chief of Staff of the United States Army and ultimately Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff -- and all of this after receiving a battlefield commission. I know Jack was proud of every rank and command he held; in each, he performed with skill, competence, and devotion to duty.

And yet for Jack Vessey I suspect the title of which he was proudest was the first one he ever held during his 46 -- count 'em 46 -- years of military service. The one he earned the day he joined the Minnesota National Guard; the title that said:

"Jack Vessey G.I."

General Vessey will be remembered for many things. As a battlefield hero -- you've heard today about North Africa, Monte Cassino, Anzio and that grim night with the 2nd battalion in Vietnam. He will be remembered as a man of patriotism and deep religious belief, an officer who brought character and credit to every billet he ever held. As a military leader who always spoke his mind to civilian authority -- respectfully but candidly. As the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff who presided over the restoration of America's military strength and power at a moment critical to the fate of freedom and his country's security. In all these things, he bore the marks of greatness.

But there is one accomplishment that is not there in Jack Vessey's 101 file. Yet it's an accomplishment that made the difference in the lives of so many G.I.'s over so many years in so many places around the globe. Jack Vessey always remembered the soldiers in the ranks; he understood those soldiers are the backbone of any Army. He noticed them, spoke to them, looked out for them. Jack Vessey never forgot what it was like to be an enlisted man, to be just a G.I.

Mark J. Neal of Las Cruces, New Mexico remembers. In January of 1975, he was a private at Ft. Carson, a member of the drill team there. He said recently that after one drill team event, he was in his residence "doing dishes" -- before the volunteer Army, way back when Jack and I enlisted, it seems to me they had another name for "doing dishes" -- anyway, Mark Neal was told the commanding General wanted to see him.

He was scared, of course, but he found his meeting and friendly chat with the General something he would always remember. After that, Mark Neal followed General Vessey's career. Hearing about his retirement, he wrote to him recently, "This short meeting made a lasting impression on me. It was amazing to me that you even knew I was on the premises...even more amazing that you would want to meet me...that moment of thoughtfulness for a lowly enlisted man back at Fort Carson proved the truth of your reputation as a real soldier's General."

There were many Mark Neals in Jack Vessey's career; and Jack Vessey made their lives a little easier, a little less lonely; and he made them a little prouder to wear their country's uniform and defend freedom.

Jack, in the five years or so I've been doing events like this I've learned something about people like you; a career like yours combining as it does heroism, patriotism, competence, wisdom, and kindness doesn't need elaboration from commanders in chief or presidents; it speaks enough all by itself; today I'll let history be your valedictorian, not me.

But what I can do today is thank you. On behalf of your friends here today who have had the honor of working with you; and on behalf of some others who couldn't be here -- all your fellow Americans. If they had the chance to be here, they would express their gratitude to you for making their lives and the lives of their children safer and more secure. And then there is that other group I'm standing in for today. I know all of them would want to be remembered to you. I'm talking, of course, about those young people who wore the uniform for Jack Vessey, had the privilege of having their own G.I. General. So, from all of us, Jack, your friends, your fellow Americans, but especially the soldiers who stood a little taller because of you: Thanks. Thanks from a grateful Nation. And may God bless you and give you and Avis many more rich, fruitful and happy years together.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

JOSEPH R. WRIGHT, JR.

ACTING DIRECTOR

SUBJECT:

PROPOSED EXECUTIVE ORDER ENTITLED

"CONTINUANCE OF CERTAIN FEDERAL ADVISORY

COMMITTEES"

SUMMARY. This memorandum forwards for your consideration a proposed Executive order, submitted by the Administrator of General Services, that would extend the existence of eleven federal advisory committees which otherwise would expire on September 30, 1985. The proposed order also would revoke the Executive Orders which created 15 other advisory committees whose work has been completed.

BACKGROUND. The proposed Executive order would continue in existence various federal advisory committees which, pursuant to various Executive Orders, are due to expire on September 30, 1985. Pursuant to Section 14 of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App. I), these committees must be renewed by the President before that date in order to continue functioning.

The proposed order also would revoke Executive Orders that established various advisory committees which, according to the sponsoring agencies, have terminated, been abolished by statute or finished their work.

None of the affected agencies objects to the proposed Executive order.

RECOMMENDATION. I recommend that you sign the proposed Executive order.
