VIDEO TAPING FOR U.S. ICA JULY 8, 1981 OVAL OFFICE 10:00 A.M.

I. PURPOSE

To video tape a portion of a meeting involving the President and a group of his highest level staff members.

II. BACKGROUND

The United States International Communication Agency is producing a television program on the workings of the Reagan White House. It will be distributed worldwide, and will focus on the manner in which the President uses his White House team to assist in the achievement of the goals he has set forth for the nation. Following this meeting, individual interviews will be conducted with the participants, to discuss their functions and methods of operation within their individual staffs.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The President, the Vice President, Ed Meese, Jim Baker, Mike Deaver and Dick Allen.

IV. PRESS PLAN

No press coverage...ICA camera crews and White House still photographer only.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Crews will arrive at 8:00 a.m. to set up and light in the Oval Office. The President and all other participants are scheduled to arrive at 10:00 a.m. Taping will last for approximately 10-15 minutes at the beginning of the meeting.

This meeting should be conducted as usual, but it is important that all present are heard from during the period being recorded.

SWEARING-IN CEREMONY FOR CHARLES DEAN,

CHAIRMAN, TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY (TVA)

DATE:

Wednesday, July 8, 1981

LOCATION:

Oval Office

TIME:

11:30 am

DURATION: 10

10 minutes

THRU:

Max L. Friedersdorf W

FROM:

Powell A. Moore AM

Sherrie M. Cookseysm

I. PURPOSE

To comply with the personal request of Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker that his life-long friend and choice for Chairman of the TVA be sworn into office by the President.

II. BACKGROUND

Senator Baker and Charles (Chili) Dean have been close friends since their early school days. The appointment of Dean to be Chairman of the TVA was one of the most important appointments by this Administration for Senator Baker, personally.

The Tennessee Valley Authority is the world's largest power utility operation, generating electricity for a seven state region. Its headquarters are in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Mr. Dean has been officially sworn into office by a federal judge in Tennessee. Federal law precludes you from officially administering the oath of office to Mr. Dean. (Such law authorizes only notary publics, federal judges, the Vice President, and individuals designated by the states to administer these oaths.) Accordingly, Bob Linder will administer the oath to Mr. Dean.

12:00 4012:10

FROM:

ELIZABETH H. DOLE

To give special recognition to the eleven disabled Mt. Rainier climbers, their team leaders, and the six sponsoring corporations. You will receive the American flag planted atop Mt. Rainier, which was earlier presented on your behalf to the climbers by White House Fellow, Hal Krentz.

BACKGROUND: Led by Jim Whittaker, the first American to top Mt. Everest, and a team of five experienced mountain climbers, 11 disabled persons climbed Mt. Rainier in observance of Independence Day and the International Year of Disabled Persons. After a four-day ascent, nine reached the 14,410 foot summit of the Washington mountain on July 4. Two others climbed most of the way. The climbers included seven blind, two deaf, one epileptic, and one amputee. Western Airlines provided the transportation; Eddie Bauer, Inc. the equipment; General Mills the food; Philadelphia Life Insurance Company (Tenneco) and Inter-Regional Financial Group the operational funding; and Motorola Corporation the communications equip-The climbers have received significant public support and press coverage for the event. One of the disabled climbers, Chuck O'Brien, received word on the climb that he was the father of twins.

PARTICIPANTS: See Attached List

PRESS COVERAGE: Press Photo Coverage

SEQUENCE OF EVENTS:

11:55 AM You will join the disabled climbers, their families, > the team leaders, and the sponsoring corporate executives in the Rose Garden. After meeting the climbers, Phillip Bartow, organizer of the expedition, will present you with the flag planted on the summit.

With brief remarks, you acknowledge the presentation 12:00 PM

TALKING POINTS: MT. RAINIER DISABLED CLIMBERS AND SPONSORING CORPORATE EXECUTIVES -- JULY 8, 1981

- The poet William Blake once wrote "Great things are done when men and mountains meet." I would add women to that statement and say you certainly proved him correct.
- -- So it is with great pride that I accept this flag. By carrying it each step of your climb and planting it on top of Mt. Rainier, you also planted the courage and capabilities of disabled people firmly in the minds of all Americans.
- Your triumph on Independence Day during this International Year of Disabled Persons clearly illustrated the independence disabled people can achieve when given the opportunity.
- -- I take particular pride in the fact that we have on our White House staff someone who also serves as an example of the independence and self-confidence disabled people can attain. I am talking about Hal Krents, who carried this flag to you on our behalf and who I know would like to have been on that mountain with you.
- -- Your 11-hour battle with snow, ice and altitude while carrying 40-pound backpacks demonstrated to us all that with spirit and determination, challenges are made to

- be met. We sometimes hear of the faith to move mountains. You have the faith to climb mountains and that faith is in yourselves.
- -- When you came down that mountain, it wasn't the experienced leading the disabled, but rather those who could see leading those who could not; and those who could hear helping those who were deaf. The tremendous bond that was forged by this experience where you complemented each other and joined together to accomplish a great goal is a significant lesson on what all of us as Americans can accomplish if we work together.
- The top, we, along with the rest of America, shared your joy and were inspired by your courage. We must also acknowledge the courage of your families. I know there must have been some tense moments during the climb and that the support you received from your families was an important element in your success.

 And, I'm sure Chuck O'Brien's twins will celebrate their birthdays with more than the usual sense of pride.
- -- The corporations which sponsored this event believed in you. We all must work toward seeing that all businesses appreciate the possibilities of the disabled as fully as those gathered here today.

-- As I stated in my February 6 proclamation of the International Year of Disabled Persons, disabled Americans represent one of our most underutilized resources. Your successful Mt. Rainier ascent speaks more about the capabilities of our disabled citizens than any words can possibly state. Congratulations and thanks to you all.

TAPING OF MESSAGE TO NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF COUNTIES

nate:

Wednesday, July 8, 1981

Time:

12:15 p.m.

Location: Map Room

I. PURPOSE

To reaffirm county officials' support of the Administration and the Economic Recovery Program.

II. BACKGROUND

The National Association of counties (NACo) has generally been supportive of you and the program for Economic Recovery. NACo is holding its 46th Annual Meeting in Louisville, Kentucky on July 11-15, 1981. The taping of the message will give you an opportunity to reach out to this grass-roots organization which will be represented by approximately 4000 county officials nationwide.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The President

IV. PRESS PLAN

No press at taping session.

v. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

12:15 p.m.

You will arrive at Map Room and read message (see Attachment I) from teleprompter. Message lasts approximately 5 minutes.

Entire taping session should take 10-15 minutes.

TAPING: MESSAGE TO NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF COUNTIES July 8, 1981

Greetings to all of you at the 46th Annual Conference of the National Association of Counties. You represent an important part of the American system of Government.

County government lately has borne much of the burden of Federal economic folly. You know better than most the serious consequences of high inflation and unemployment. Those twin maladies have dried up local sources of tax revenue, as businesses close their doors, and the demand for county services heighten. Even worse, they have increased the cost of those services.

The four thousand delegates attending your meeting are well aware of this destructive syndrome. The early support your organization gave the economic recovery program is much appreciated -- especially your policy statement of March 9.

That statement underlined your conviction that our country could not keep moving in the same dire direction, headed for ever increasing Federal power and economic catastrophe.

Thanks to the support of Roy Orr and other county officials, as well as the efforts of other elected representatives, we've enjoyed some major victories in Washington.

We've taken the first steps toward America's new era of progress and prosperity.

Most gratifying has been the support of many Democrats, testimony to the fact that Americans, whatever their political affiliation, can still work together when they know that it is in the national interest to do so. With this kind of bipartisan support, we are going to lick inflation and bring runaway Federal spending under control; of this you can be certain.

Our next step, of course, is to muster support for the tax portion of the economic program. If we are to have a vibrant expanding economy, we cannot permit the Federal Government to continue taking an ever-increasing share of everyone's pay check. We propose cutting the marginal tax rates by 25 percent, thus encouraging investment and savings, and unleashing the creative energies that have been smothered by excessive taxation.

I hope I have your support for this vital part of the recovery program. No one needs to tell you just how much new investment and increased employment will do for the counties of America. And it is not going to happen unless our oppressive tax system is changed.

Something else we're going to do is return some of the power ursurped by the Federal government back to levels of government closer to the people -- and that means you.

As you are aware, we have proposed a block grant program that will give state and local officials the authority and the resources to run programs that should never have been Federal business in the first place. We are confident that you are every bit as caring, compassionate and efficient as the bureaucracy in Washington, D.C. Moreover, you are closer to the people and better aware of their needs.

Finally, I want to tell you how much I enjoyed meeting with your Board of Directors in March. They were most supportive. We should pledge, today, to work closely together in these next three and a half years. I've asked Rich Williamson to maintain a working relationship with you and with other state and local representatives. You can be assured of our full and genuine consultation with you; not only because it is your right to influence Federal policy, but because we respect your opinion and consciously seek your advice.

Thanks again for all your support. Together we will determine America's future, this is our mutual responsibility; it is our God-given opportunity.

TALKING POINTS: MOSTLY MOZART RECEPTION JULY 8, 1981

- -- Wasn't that lovely?
- -- Well, good afternoon and welcome to you all. I know I speak for Nancy, and I'm sure for everyone, when I say what a thrill this was to hear the American premier of this long-lost Mozart symphony, performed right on the South Lawn of the White House . . . and performed so beautifully by you, the Mostly Mozart Festival Orchestra of Lincoln Center.
- Thank you Leonard Slatkin, conductor, and all of you fine musicians for bringing this traditional New York City Mostly Mozart Festival to Washington. And thank you for allowing us to hear what Mozart meant when he said music "should never be painful to the ear but should flatter and charm it . . . " You certainly did that.
- -- Someone once wrote that whether the angels play only Bach while praising God, we can't be sure. But we do know that when they play for themselves, they play Mozart. And, now we know why.
- -- But you know, when we talk about this incredible genius -- and Hayden, Mozart's instructor, called him the greatest composer ever -- we sometimes forget an important point: Mozart was really a child prodigy. He played the clavier when he was three. And he composed the symphony you just heard when he was only nine.

- -- Now, personally, I never forget little facts like that, because no one appreciates youth more than I do.
- -- But I mention this because, in a sense, this afternoon is our way of saluting youth in the arts. You see, in addition to Mozart, we're doubly honored today to be able to pay tribute to another young prodigy -- one of our own.
- On June 25, 17-year-old Amanda McKerrow, from Rockville, Maryland, made ballet history by winning the gold medal at the Moscow International Ballet Competition. No American has ever won this award before. And just to give you an idea how sensational she was, one of Amanda's performances drew eight curtain calls from one of the world's most partisan and knowledgeable audiences.
- -- Now Amanda, I hope you won't mind if we ask you, and your parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan McKerrow, to all stand for a moment so we can let you know how proud of you we are, and how happy for you we are, too.

- -- So today we honor history and those who make it. And come to think of it, I've almost made a little history here myself. I've nearly completed an entire public appearance without even once mentioning our tax proposal -- and why we need a 25 percent personal rate reduction . . . across-the-board . . . for three years . . . and why we need it now.
- -- Well, we do, but before I get going any further on that, and take the spotlight off where it belongs, let me just invite all of you to escape this summer heat by coming up to the State rooms in the residence for some nice cool refreshments. Thank you all again.
