TALKING POINTS: EXPORT COUNCIL
OCTOBER 15, 1981

- I am pleased to greet you this morning as members of the Export Council. There is much to be done and each of you have been selected because you have a contribution to make.

- In a message to the Congress in 1957 President Eisenhower said, "International commerce is beneficial to the community of nations and conducive to the establishment of a just and lasting peace in the world."

- What he said is even more true today. We seek free and expanded trade between people and nations because this form of human activity is beneficial to everyone. It solidifies bonds of friendship and increases the standard of living of those on both sides of any transaction.

- The America of the 1980's is far more dependent on exports than during Eisenhower's time. Since 1960 our exports business has grown from $19.6 billion per year to $220.6 billion in 1980. More than 5 million jobs in the United States are now directly tied to our thriving export industry. Furthermore, our exports have played a key role in off-setting this Nation's increased import of foreign oil.

- As a group, you possess a wealth of experience and knowledge; under the leadership of Paul Lyet and Anna Chennault we plan to tap this resource, by asking you to help direct your country's policies in this vital area.

- We are relying on you to help improve America's competitive position in international trade. The previous council did an excellent job in identifying regulations that impede the export industry; we're counting on you to expand upon this and further reduce such disincentives.

- Competition is good. You may have heard that somewhere before. Seriously, whether it is domestic or international, competition provides better quality and lower priced products. Nevertheless, we must insure that our businessmen are not unintentionally hobbled by Government. You will be of invaluable service if you help us identify and correct Government related problems that hamper our exporters.

- This is a great example of how the private sector and Government can work together -- and when they do: Everyone is a winner. Thanks to all of you, in advance, for the time and effort you will put into this. It is well appreciated, I can assure you of that.

NEW JERSEY FUNDRAISER, OCTOBER 15, 1981
FIRST RECEPTION -- 6:40 p.m.

Good evening. It's great to be back in New Jersey. What you are doing is a shining example to Republicans around the country of what can be accomplished when we work together. Our success in 1980 was only a hint of things to come.

Although they may still be overwhelmingly registered in the other party, the people of this State want to vote for candidates who offer positive programs and have faith that we can lick any problem. The other party gave us inflation, unemployment, sky-high interest rates and pessimism. Republicans offer monetary and fiscal integrity, lower taxes, more jobs, and hope for a better future. Nowhere in the country is the choice more clear than right here in New Jersey.

Our candidate for Governor, Tom Kean (pronounced Cane), is aggressively campaigning on a concrete and specific program. He is flying bold Republican colors and isn't afraid to detail this program. This is the kind of dedication that is ushering our Nation into a new political era. We couldn't ask for a better spokesman for our cause than Tom Kean.

I met Tom last year at a Ukranian festival during the campaign. Through some bureaucratic fluke, Nancy and I were not permitted on the platform; and Tom was courteous enough to introduce us in the audience.

I don't have to detail his background for you; it is enough to say that all of us are proud of the way he's handled himself during this campaign. What is important now is that we all work together.

We have more opportunity than ever before. Working people are waking up to the fact that it is the Republican Party that represents the things they believe in. It is no coincidence that another New Jerseyite is my Secretary of Labor, Ray Donovan. Ray is a major asset to our efforts in Washington, and we're proud to have him with us.

During the campaign Ray decided to offer me a chance to get direct feedback from some working people. One night he took me over to Barrett's Tavern. I'll have to admit, it was one of the more memorable moments in the campaign.

But Ray knows, and so do you, that working people are fed up with taxes and inflation that assault their take-home pay. And while the other party exploits the natural division between business and labor, Republicans try to bring all of our citizens together in a campaign for economic progress.

In Washington we are working closely with a small group of courageous Democrats who want to put America back on the right track. With their help, we've accomplished more than any of us thought possible only one year ago. But there is much more to do. Our economic problems have been building for years, and it will take time and hard work to set things straight. It will also require us to enlist others to help us in the struggle -- at the national and state levels.

Having been a Democrat for most of my adult life, I can vouch for the pain involved in changing registration. But now is the time for us to reach out, each of us. We know full well what we are doing is not for the Republican Party; it is for the United States of America. I firmly believe there are a host of Democrats out there ready to jump on board if we stand firm in our principles and offer them a chance to join us in putting America's house in order. You've got a tremendous potential here in New Jersey to build this new coalition. The whole country is watching so don't let us down.

Thank you and good luck.

(Rohrabacher/TD)

October 14, 1981

NEW JERSEY CAMPAIGN RECEPTION, OCTOBER 15, 1981
SECOND RECEPTION -- 7 p.m.

Good evening. New Jersey is known as the Garden State. And that's why, looking around me tonight, I am so happy to see the New Jersey Republican Party is about to blossom.

It is becoming ever more clear that 1980 was a watershed year for American politics. Historians will note that this was the year American working people finally realized that it is the Republican Party that advocates the things they believe in.

Nowhere is this political realignment more apparent than right here in New Jersey. It is no mistake that a man from New Jersey is now my Secretary of Labor. And I have to tell you, Ray Donovan has turned into a major asset for this Administration. We are proud to have him with us.

During the campaign Ray took me over to the Barrett's Tavern to meet some blue-collar workers. It was a memorable experience. Standing there talking with those men and women, some of them right off their work shift, convinced me that we are, indeed, the party of working people.

I ask you -- are the tax and tax, spend and spend policies of the other party really in the interest of working people?

Those folks at Barrett's Tavern agree with you about that.

Tonight we're here to help the Republican Party, but we are also here to get behind another citizen New Jersey can be proud of, Tom Kean (pronounced Cane). Tom exemplifies the optimism and common sense that is making the Republican Party the majority party.

I understand that one of Tom's heroes is Teddy Roosevelt. Teddy is one of my favorites too. There is a room named after him in the White House just opposite the Oval Office. There on the wall is a plaque with a quote from Theodore Roosevelt. It says: "Aggressive fighting for the right is the noblest sport the world affords."

That is exactly the kind of spirit I see in Tom Kean. Tom's not afraid to tell you what he stands for; he wants to cut taxes, trim excessive spending, create real jobs and encourage growth.

You may think this sounds a little familiar. Well it is. It's not some complicated formula; it's common sense.

This year New Jersey is being offered a clear-cut choice between those who think Government spending and taxes are the solution to our problems and those who understand Government spending and over taxation are the problem.

At the national level we're trying to do our part. Tom's courageous support of our economic recovery program is certainly appreciated. New Jerseyites should note that our tax cut will put $2 billion into the pockets of citizens of this State. But in the Congress, Tom's opponent voted no.

New Jersey has the opportunity to vote for someone offering a positive program, or they can vote more of the same thing that got us in a mess in the first place.

As for me, I hope they let Tom Kean have a chance to cut their taxes, trim the size and cost of their State government and bring jobs and economic prosperity to New Jersey.

A. ELECTED OFFICIALS:

GOVERNOR - Brendan T. Byrne - Democrat - Elected in 1973

SENATOR - Harrison A. Williams, Jr. - Democrat - Elected in 1958

SENATOR - Bill Bradley - Democrat - Elected in 1978

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES - 7 Republicans 8 Democrats

B. REPUBLICAN PARTY OFFICIALS:

REPUBLICAN STATE CHAIRMAN - Phillip Kaltenbacher

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN - Bernard M. Shanley

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEEWOMAN - Noel L. Gross

C. 1980 ELECTIONS:

In the Presidential Race, Reagan defeated Carter in New Jersey 52% to 39%, with a margin of more than 390,000 votes.

In the U.S. House Races, the Republicans made a net gain of two seats.

D. THE GUBERNATORIAL RACE - 1981:

On November 3 New Jersey Voters will elect a new Governor. Although the New Jersey Governor's Mansion has been occupied by a Democrat for 24 of the past 28 years, the Republican, Thomas H. Kean, former Speaker of the State Assembly, stands a good chance of defeating Democrat James Florio, a four-term U.S. Representative from Camden. Kean, a wealthy businessman from the northern part of the state, has deep roots in New Jersey politics as he is a descendant of the state's first governor, and his father was a member of the U.S. Congress. Florio has strong ties to the large Italian community in the Camden area, and throughout most of South Jersey. The two candidates' sharply differing views regarding the President's Economic Recovery Program has become one of the main issues of the campaign. While Florio is very critical of the President's Program, Kean has been running on a platform strongly supportive of the President's Economic Plan.

E. REAPPORTIONMENT:

Because of New Jersey's slow population growth, the state will lose one seat in the U.S. House.

F. THE SENATORIAL RACE - 1982:

The 1982 New Jersey U.S. Senate race depends largely on the fate of the current incumbent, Harrison Williams. The ABSCAM-convicted Senator could be expelled shortly, leaving the seat open to a gubernatorial appointee. Depending on the time sequence and the outcome of next month's Gubernatorial Race, a possible Williams replacement could be a Democrat or Republican. Regardless of who the incumbent is at the time of the election, it seems that a likely contender for the Republican nomination will be former Reagan aide Jeffrey Bell who lost a Senate race by 13% to Bill Bradley in 1978. Additionally, several Republican Congressmen could decide to make the run; of these, the strongest candidate would probably be 71 year-old four-term Congresswoman Millicent Fenwick.

D. REPRESENTATIVE EUGENE V. ATKINSON:

Representative Eugene V. Atkinson who was elected to the U.S. Congress from Pennsylvania's 25th District (Suburban Pittsburgh) in 1978, as a Democrat, officially changed his party registration to Republican, Wednesday, October 14, 1981. Upon announcing his change in registration, Atkinson commented, "It wasn't necessary to do this, but I really believe in him (President Reagan) and it's time to stand up for what you believe in."

E. REAPPORTIONMENT:

Pennsylvania will lose two seats in the U.S. Congress as a result of reapportionment. This process will be under Republican control and it is likely that one seat will be eliminated from the Philadelphia area, and the other one from the Pittsburgh area.

F. THE SENATORIAL ELECTION - 1982:

Republican Senator H. John Heinz, III will be running for reelection to a second term in 1982. Heinz was Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Committee during the 1980 Campaign. Jim Edgar, a U.S. Representative from suburban Philadelphia, whose district could be adversely affected by redistricting, is seen as a possible Democrat opponent to Heinz.

G. GUBERNATORIAL ELECTION - 1982:

Republican Governor Richard Thornburgh will face reelection in 1982. Thornburgh has remained a relatively popular figure during his first term in office. He is widely perceived as an honest and effective leader. It is possible that Thornburgh could win reelection without any serious opposition.

MEETING WITH GOVERNOR DICK THORNBURGH (R-PENNSYLVANIA)

DATE: October 15, 1981
LOCATION: Bellevue Stratford Hotel,
Presidential Suite
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
TIME: 2:30 p.m. to 2:50 p.m.
FROM: Richard S. Williamson Rich

I. PURPOSE

This is a courtesy visit with Governor Thornburgh.

II. BACKGROUND

The following are issues of great concern to Governor Thornburgh and may be mentioned in your meeting:

- 1) The Governor has made a proposal for the clean up of the damaged nuclear reactor at Three Mile Island. As you recall you discussed this proposal with the Governor by telephone last Friday and indicated your general support for his efforts. We are presently working to arrange an agreement between the Office of Management and Budget and the Department of Energy on the details of federal financial support for the clean up proposal.
- 2) The Governor has made significant cuts in his State budget in response to Federal budget cuts of over $300 million for Pennsylvania. Nevertheless, Governor Thornburgh has been a strong supporter of your Economic Recovery Plan. He has defended the need for federal budget cuts and related state budget cuts on numerous occasions. His continued support is important since he is the only Republican Governor of a Northeast industrial state. He faces reelection in 1982.
