PETER F. SCHABARUM
LOS ANGELES COUNTY SUPERVISOR, FIRST DISTRICT
HALL OF ADMINISTRATION, SUITE 856
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA 90012
(213) 954-4111

CURRICULUM VITAE

Supervisor Pete Schabarum born on January 9, 1929, resides in Covina, California, with his wife Gerry. They have three children. He is a tennis enthusiast and an accomplished equestrian. In 1975, he was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Law Degree from Pepperdine University. Schabarum belongs to the Harrison Gray Otis Post of the American in Los Angeles and to other civic and fraternal organizations.

1972 - Present

As a member of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, Schabarum represents the one and one-half million citizens of the San Gabriel Valley and Southeastern Los Angeles County. He was first appointed to this position in 1972, while a State Assemblyman, by then Governor Ronald Reagan, and was returned to this office by the voters in 1974 and 1978. Following the 1980 General Election, Schabarum became the senior ranking member of the new conservative majority on the Board. Among other assignments, he serves on the Air Quality Management District, the Los Angeles County Transportation Commission, the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission and is a member of the Executive Committee of the California Supervisors' Association. 12/81 - Chairman of the Board

1967 - 1972

Elected for three terms, Schabarum served the people of the 19th District in the California Assembly. He earned prestigious assignments including the Transportation Committee, the Ways and Means Committee, the Revenue and Taxation Committee, the Governmental Organization Committee, and he served as Chairman of the Air Quality Subcommittee.

1966

Peter Schabarum was the youngest person ever elected Foreman of the Los Angeles County Grand Jury. Under his direction, that panel began on-going reforms of what had been an ever-spending County bureaucracy. Schabarum steered the Grand Jury into a position of watchdog over both the size and effectiveness of County Government.

1965 - 66

It was his success in private enterprise which led to his being urged to begin a public service career. As founder and President of Schabarum Companies, he built a highly competitive independent development firm specializing in the construction and operation of commercial properties.

1952 - 53

Schabarum served in the United States Air Force during the Korean War.

Criminal Justice System

Long before many government leaders began responding to the public outrage over escalating crime rates, Schabarum was working to increase protection of the people. He is responsible for the placement of additional law enforcement officers in the eastern end of the County. He has worked to create an expanded system of facilities in which to house criminals. As part of his overall approach to the attack on crime, Schabarum has raised public awareness of the necessity to require accountability from every segment of our criminal justice system. In an attempt to halt the great increase in gang violence in Los Angeles County, he established Operation Get Tough, a program designed to track and monitor the activity of selected street gangs. There is a consensus among law enforcement that this hard-hitting program is one of the most effective methods of reducing gang violence.

Juvenile Justice System

Schabarum is dedicated to the idea that every effort should be directed at the rehabilitation of youthful offenders before they evolve into hard-core adult criminals. As a result, he drafted the Norwalk Pilot Project, a plan designed for the swift and sure treatment of youthful offenders. The project attacks the "revolving door" syndrome so prevalent within the juvenile justice system. Elements of Schabarum's program have been incorporated into State legislation, and the Norwalk Pilot Project has become a model of juvenile justice revision for local governments throughout California.

Public Health

Upholding the principles of quality health care for the indigent, Schabarum has greatly improved comprehensive medical services for the poor of Los Angeles County. All local health centers have been remodeled to increase efficiency. Under his stewardship, public health programs have been strengthened or redesigned to become more responsive to community needs. Schabarum has developed First District health clinics to the point where they offer a variety of specialized acute care services for both children and adults.

Pornography

Schabarum responded to his constituents' growing concern over the unchecked proliferation of so-called adult businesses by devising a multi-tiered legislative program. Through a continuation of modifications in existing zoning ordinances and business licensing procedures, he has been the local leader in efforts to eliminate this unwanted element in the community.

1951 - 1954

As a result of his collegiate football career with the Berkeley Golden Bears where he played on three Rose Bowl teams, Schabarum was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers. He played professional football for three seasons in 1951, 1953 and 1954 as both halfback and fullback. In 1972 he received the Distinguished American Award from the National Football League's Hall of Fame.

1947 - 1951

Pete Schabarum attended the University of California at Berkeley and was graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration. He pursued postgraduate work through the University of California Extension Program at both the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Southern California. This educational endeavor earned him designation as a Certified Property Manager, and membership in the Institute of Real Estate Management.

LEGISLATIVE INTERESTS

Government Efficiency

Beginning with his tenure on the Los Angeles County Grand Jury, Schabarum has been an architect in reducing self-perpetuating local and state governments. Under his leadership, Los Angeles County has seen the development of programs creating a partnership between government and free enterprise through private contracting. Local taxpayers have saved millions of dollars by this new linkage with the private sector. Schabarum was also instrumental in establishing the goal of a reduction of 10,000 public employees through a combination of a hiring freeze and increased utilization of private contracts. Schabarum has engineered a major reformation project of the County's Civil Service System. While preserving important employee protections, the 75,000 member County work force has been placed more directly under the management of the Board of Supervisors. In addition, he has focused on efforts to improve productivity and professionalism within the County work force by advocating management incentive programs, by a reduction of the duplication of services provided by the County and other units of local government, and by the application of a meaningful merit system.

Taxpayer Equity

As one of the first elected officials in California to support Proposition 13, Pete Schabarum was merely continuing his longstanding advocacy of tax reductions. He was the author of two significant and successful tax ballot measures. These resulted in the removal from the County Charter of the requirement for paying the prevailing wage, and authority for the Board of Supervisors to contract with the private sector for the delivery of public services. In return the taxpayers were guaranteed that both public employee contracts and the method of the delivery of services would be more reflective of current economic conditions. Schabarum is also an advocate of the extensive use of computer hardware as a more cost-effective means of providing public services.

Environmental Standards

Schabarum's imprint may be seen on much of the air quality legislation in California. He was the author of legislation which allowed the creation of the first air basin-wide Air Quality Management District, and was instrumental in its implementation at the local level. His dedication to, and efforts towards, maintaining environmental standards have resulted in State emission regulations more strict than Federal requirements, emission standards and test procedures for assembly lines, noise standards for automobiles and motorcycles, the requirement of air pollution control equipment on motor vehicles, $6,000 per day fines for violations of Air Pollution Control District regulations, the creation of a California Environmental Program Fund to collect air quality data and to maintain monitoring systems, the creation of vehicle emission inspection stations, and a methanol test fleet of County cars.

Transportation

Working to improve California's immense transportation problems, Schabarum designed a complex program, "Moving People" which now encompasses numerous elements of the County's transportation network. This transportation plan unifies a formerly random system by involving the utilization of exclusive lanes on surface streets and freeways, a modern, more efficient fleet of buses, and vans and carpools. Schabarum's broad-based master plan has the flexibility of being able to work in conjunction with future plans for commuter trains, subways, feeder systems and a people mover.

Housing

Schabarum, a practitioner of supply-side economics, was the architect of a phase-out plan for the County's Rent Control Ordinance. In tandem, he developed a detailed plan to reduce the red tape involved in the present process for the construction industry. These were two of the major elements in Schabarum's comprehensive program to increase the number of available housing and rental units. He has also sought and utilized alternative methods of financing to escalate the private construction of housing projects.

Parks and Recreation

Through his position in government, Schabarum has asserted an unwavering commitment to the development and expansion of parks and recreational opportunities for the people of Los Angeles County. He has secured expenditures of more than $50,000,000 for the establishment of a network of neighborhood and regional parks within the First Supervisorial District. Schabarum's use of State and Federal grant assistance programs has become so sophisticated that less than two percent of the First District's park acquisition and development budget now comes from the County's general fund; the remainder is from a variety of grants. Schabarum has consistently produced the highest level of park improvements among the County's Five Supervisorial Districts. With each designed to meet local needs, he has added or developed a total of 16 recreational centers, including the 1,100-acre Whittier Narrows Recreation Area, the 600-acre Santa Fe Dam Recreation Area, and the 2,000-acre Frank C. Bonelli Regional County Park. Schabarum has made the seven golf courses within his District part of the largest public golf system in the world, providing a significant recreational opportunity for Los Angeles County residents. He has also sparked the creation of hundreds of miles of riding, biking and hiking trails. His dedication to parks and recreation provides a legacy to the people of Los Angeles County for countless future generations.

MEETING WITH THE CABINET

DATE: JANUARY 7, 1982

TIME: 2:00 PM (60 MINUTES)

LOCATION: CABINET ROOM

FROM: CRAIG L. FULLER

CLF

I. PURPOSE

This is the first meeting of your cabinet in a few weeks. It has been called to brief cabinet members on budget decisions and other administrative matters affecting the departments.

II. AGENDA

1. 1982 Overview

It would be desirable for you to welcome the members of your cabinet back for the beginning of a new year. It is also thought that you should stress several points with regard to 1982. The following points are offered to you as suggested topics for a discussion which you should lead-off with at the beginning of the cabinet meeting.

- the accomplishments of 1981 represent remarkable success
- 1982 will be a more difficult year for us
- additional budget savings may be more difficult to achieve and the tax program may be threatened on the Hill
- despite difficulties, however, 1982 can be a year of real opportunity, a time when we push forward the basic elements of our program to cut spending, reduce taxes, relieve business and individuals from burdensome regulations and generally bring the federal government under control
- to succeed, we need the same kind of dedication and team work that characterized the first year
- we need the right people in the right jobs...and Pen will speak about that later

- we need to place high priority on finding additional management savings which can be found
- stress your belief in the Economic Recovery Program and its ability to turn around the economy in 1982 and your belief that the economy will improve if we stay on course

2. Budget for FY 1983

Dave Stockman will brief the Cabinet on our progress to date on budget decisions and the schedule for the next 30 days until final budget submission. While revenue options must still be reviewed with you, other elements of the economic program can be discussed with the Cabinet.

3. Disposition of Excess Federal Lands

This project has been under review by a working group within a cabinet council. Ed Meese would like to comment on it.

4. Personnel Update

Pen James has a brief presentation concerning personnel matters and a plan to review individuals throughout the administration early in the year.

5. Update on the situation in Poland.

This situation touches several cabinet departments. Al Haig will lead a brief discussion to provide the cabinet with an update.

6. Communications

This item will be discussed with you prior to the cabinet meeting.

7. Consent Items.

There is only one consent item for the meeting. (This is an item on which your decision is required and there is no known opposition from within the administration. Placing it on the agenda allows anyone who might have a concern let us know before action is taken. If there is an objection, it will be scheduled for review at a later date.)

Item: Perishable Commodity Purchase Program

III. PARTICIPANTS

A participants list will be provided at the meeting. It will be principals only.

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House photographer only.

V. SEQUENCE

You should, as the agenda indicates, lead-off the meeting. Following your comments and discussion, the agenda can be used on for the remainder of the meeting. Dave Stockman's presentation will follow your comments.

- additional budget savings may be more difficult to achieve and the tax program may be threatened on the Hill
- despite difficulties, however, 1982 can be a year of real opportunity, a time when we push forward the basic elements of our program to cut spending, reduce taxes, relieve business and individuals from burdensome regulations and generally bring the federal government under control
- to succeed, we need the same kind of dedication and team work that characterized the first year
- we need the right people in the right jobs...and Pen will speak about that later

- we need to place high priority on finding additional management savings which can be found
- stress your belief in the Economic Recovery Program and its ability to turn around the economy in 1982 and your belief that the economy will improve if we stay on course

2. Budget for FY 1983

Dave Stockman will brief the Cabinet on our progress to date on budget decisions and the schedule for the next 30 days until final budget submission. While revenue options must still be reviewed with you, other elements of the economic program can be discussed with the Cabinet.

3. Disposition of Excess Federal Lands

This project has been under review by a working group within a cabinet council. Ed Meese would like to comment on it.

4. Personnel Update

Pen James has a brief presentation concerning personnel matters and a plan to review individuals throughout the administration early in the year.

5. Update on the situation in Poland.

This situation touches several cabinet departments. Al Haig will lead a brief discussion to provide the cabinet with an update.

6. Communications

This item will be discussed with you prior to the cabinet meeting.

7. Consent Items.

There is only one consent item for the meeting. (This is an item on which your decision is required and there is no known opposition from within the administration. Placing it on the agenda allows anyone who might have a concern let us know before action is taken. If there is an objection, it will be scheduled for review at a later date.)

Item: Perishable Commodity Purchase Program

III. PARTICIPANTS

A participants list will be provided at the meeting. It will be principals only.

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House photographer only.

V. SEQUENCE

You should, as the agenda indicates, lead-off the meeting. Following your comments and discussion, the agenda can be used on for the remainder of the meeting. Dave Stockman's presentation will follow your comments.

PETER F. SCHABARUM
LOS ANGELES COUNTY SUPERVISOR, FIRST DISTRICT
HALL OF ADMINISTRATION, SUITE 856
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA 90012
(213) 954-4111

CURRICULUM VITAE

Supervisor Pete Schabarum born on January 9, 1929, resides in Covina, California, with his wife Gerry. They have three children. He is a tennis enthusiast and an accomplished equestrian. In 1975, he was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Law Degree from Pepperdine University. Schabarum belongs to the Harrison Gray Otis Post of the American in Los Angeles and to other civic and fraternal organizations.

1972 - Present

As a member of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, Schabarum represents the one and one-half million citizens of the San Gabriel Valley and Southeastern Los Angeles County. He was first appointed to this position in 1972, while a State Assemblyman, by then Governor Ronald Reagan, and was returned to this office by the voters in 1974 and 1978. Following the 1980 General Election, Schabarum became the senior ranking member of the new conservative majority on the Board. Among other assignments, he serves on the Air Quality Management District, the Los Angeles County Transportation Commission, the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission and is a member of the Executive Committee of the California Supervisors' Association. 12/81 - Chairman of the Board

1967 - 1972

Elected for three terms, Schabarum served the people of the 19th District in the California Assembly. He earned prestigious assignments including the Transportation Committee, the Ways and Means Committee, the Revenue and Taxation Committee, the Governmental Organization Committee, and he served as Chairman of the Air Quality Subcommittee.

1966

Peter Schabarum was the youngest person ever elected Foreman of the Los Angeles County Grand Jury. Under his direction, that panel began on-going reforms of what had been an ever-spending County bureaucracy. Schabarum steered the Grand Jury into a position of watchdog over both the size and effectiveness of County Government.

1965 - 66

It was his success in private enterprise which led to his being urged to begin a public service career. As founder and President of Schabarum Companies, he built a highly competitive independent development firm specializing in the construction and operation of commercial properties.

1952 - 53

Schabarum served in the United States Air Force during the Korean War.

Criminal Justice System

Long before many government leaders began responding to the public outrage over escalating crime rates, Schabarum was working to increase protection of the people. He is responsible for the placement of additional law enforcement officers in the eastern end of the County. He has worked to create an expanded system of facilities in which to house criminals. As part of his overall approach to the attack on crime, Schabarum has raised public awareness of the necessity to require accountability from every segment of our criminal justice system. In an attempt to halt the great increase in gang violence in Los Angeles County, he established Operation Get Tough, a program designed to track and monitor the activity of selected street gangs. There is a consensus among law enforcement that this hard-hitting program is one of the most effective methods of reducing gang violence.

Juvenile Justice System

Schabarum is dedicated to the idea that every effort should be directed at the rehabilitation of youthful offenders before they evolve into hard-core adult criminals. As a result, he drafted the Norwalk Pilot Project, a plan designed for the swift and sure treatment of youthful offenders. The project attacks the "revolving door" syndrome so prevalent within the juvenile justice system. Elements of Schabarum's program have been incorporated into State legislation, and the Norwalk Pilot Project has become a model of juvenile justice revision for local governments throughout California.

Public Health

Upholding the principles of quality health care for the indigent, Schabarum has greatly improved comprehensive medical services for the poor of Los Angeles County. All local health centers have been remodeled to increase efficiency. Under his stewardship, public health programs have been strengthened or redesigned to become more responsive to community needs. Schabarum has developed First District health clinics to the point where they offer a variety of specialized acute care services for both children and adults.

Pornography

Schabarum responded to his constituents' growing concern over the unchecked proliferation of so-called adult businesses by devising a multi-tiered legislative program. Through a continuation of modifications in existing zoning ordinances and business licensing procedures, he has been the local leader in efforts to eliminate this unwanted element in the community.

1951 - 1954

As a result of his collegiate football career with the Berkeley Golden Bears where he played on three Rose Bowl teams, Schabarum was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers. He played professional football for three seasons in 1951, 1953 and 1954 as both halfback and fullback. In 1972 he received the Distinguished American Award from the National Football League's Hall of Fame.

1947 - 1951

Pete Schabarum attended the University of California at Berkeley and was graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration. He pursued postgraduate work through the University of California Extension Program at both the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Southern California. This educational endeavor earned him designation as a Certified Property Manager, and membership in the Institute of Real Estate Management.

Government Efficiency

Beginning with his tenure on the Los Angeles County Grand Jury, Schabarum has been an architect in reducing self-perpetuating local and state governments. Under his leadership, Los Angeles County has seen the development of programs creating a partnership between government and free enterprise through private contracting. Local taxpayers have saved millions of dollars by this new linkage with the private sector. Schabarum was also instrumental in establishing the goal of a reduction of 10,000 public employees through a combination of a hiring freeze and increased utilization of private contracts. Schabarum has engineered a major reformation project of the County's Civil Service System. While preserving important employee protections, the 75,000 member County work force has been placed more directly under the management of the Board of Supervisors. In addition, he has focused on efforts to improve productivity and professionalism within the County work force by advocating management incentive programs, by a reduction of the duplication of services provided by the County and other units of local government, and by the application of a meaningful merit system.

Taxpayer Equity

As one of the first elected officials in California to support Proposition 13, Pete Schabarum was merely continuing his longstanding advocacy of tax reductions. He was the author of two significant and successful tax ballot measures. These resulted in the removal from the County Charter of the requirement for paying the prevailing wage, and authority for the Board of Supervisors to contract with the private sector for the delivery of public services. In return the taxpayers were guaranteed that both public employee contracts and the method of the delivery of services would be more reflective of current economic conditions. Schabarum is also an advocate of the extensive use of computer hardware as a more cost-effective means of providing public services.

Environmental Standards

Schabarum's imprint may be seen on much of the air quality legislation in California. He was the author of legislation which allowed the creation of the first air basin-wide Air Quality Management District, and was instrumental in its implementation at the local level. His dedication to, and efforts towards, maintaining environmental standards have resulted in State emission regulations more strict than Federal requirements, emission standards and test procedures for assembly lines, noise standards for automobiles and motorcycles, the requirement of air pollution control equipment on motor vehicles, $6,000 per day fines for violations of Air Pollution Control District regulations, the creation of a California Environmental Program Fund to collect air quality data and to maintain monitoring systems, the creation of vehicle emission inspection stations, and a methanol test fleet of County cars.

Transportation

Working to improve California's immense transportation problems, Schabarum designed a complex program, "Moving People" which now encompasses numerous elements of the County's transportation network. This transportation plan unifies a formerly random system by involving the utilization of exclusive lanes on surface streets and freeways, a modern, more efficient fleet of buses, and vans and carpools. Schabarum's broad-based master plan has the flexibility of being able to work in conjunction with future plans for commuter trains, subways, feeder systems and a people mover.

Housing

Schabarum, a practitioner of supply-side economics, was the architect of a phase-out plan for the County's Rent Control Ordinance. In tandem, he developed a detailed plan to reduce the red tape involved in the present process for the construction industry. These were two of the major elements in Schabarum's comprehensive program to increase the number of available housing and rental units. He has also sought and utilized alternative methods of financing to escalate the private construction of housing projects.

Parks and Recreation

Through his position in government, Schabarum has asserted an unwavering commitment to the development and expansion of parks and recreational opportunities for the people of Los Angeles County. He has secured expenditures of more than $50,000,000 for the establishment of a network of neighborhood and regional parks within the First Supervisorial District. Schabarum's use of State and Federal grant assistance programs has become so sophisticated that less than two percent of the First District's park acquisition and development budget now comes from the County's general fund; the remainder is from a variety of grants. Schabarum has consistently produced the highest level of park improvements among the County's Five Supervisorial Districts. With each designed to meet local needs, he has added or developed a total of 16 recreational centers, including the 1,100-acre Whittier Narrows Recreation Area, the 600-acre Santa Fe Dam Recreation Area, and the 2,000-acre Frank C. Bonelli Regional County Park. Schabarum has made the seven golf courses within his District part of the largest public golf system in the world, providing a significant recreational opportunity for Los Angeles County residents. He has also sparked the creation of hundreds of miles of riding, biking and hiking trails. His dedication to parks and recreation provides a legacy to the people of Los Angeles County for countless future generations.
