WASHINGTON

September 13, 1982

MEETING WITH BILL MURPHY

DATE:	Wednesday, September	15,	1982
TIME:	10:50 - 10:55 a.m.
LOCATION:	Oval Office

FROM: RICHARD S. WILLIAMSON

I. PURPOSE

This is an opportunity for you to meet and get acquainted with Bill Murphy (R-Rensselaer County, New York) who is the new President of the National Association of Counties (NACo).

II. BACKGROUND

Murphy was elected President of NACo in July, 1982, at the NACo annual meeting in Baltimore. Murphy is in Washington, D.C., for. "Murphy Day" when he is scheduled to meet with several Cabinet Secretaries and members of Congress.

Murphy is a Republican and has been very supportive of the Administration. In addition, NACo has been generally supportive of the Administration's key initiatives (Economic Recovery Program, Federalism). You telephoned Murphy on August 6, 1982, to let him know that while discussions on the Federalism Initiative would continue, the Administration would not be sending a proposal to Congress until early in 1983.

Murphy will most likely tell you that he and NACo support the principles of federalism and want to work with you on developing a package to go to Congress. However, he will warn you that the Administration will lose a great deal of support if we miss another deadline in sending a federalism proposal to Congress. In addition, Murphy will tell you about the effects of the recession on counties in New York.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Wm.J. Murphy, Pres. N.H.O ; County Exec., Rensseleer County Ton, NY

Bill Murphy Richard S. Williamson Coleman Young is the new president of the United States Conference of Mayors (USCM), and has pledged his desire to work constructively with the Administration. Margaret Hance is president of the National Conference of Republican Mayors, and has been one of your most outspoken supporters. In Minneapolis, at the USCM meeting after you had denounced the draft report from HUD, Steve Rhodes and I talked with Mayor Lee Alexander, president of the National Conference of Democratic Mayors who expressed his desire to meet with you to constructively discuss issues of importance regarding the state of America's cities. The mayors will be discussing the problems of unemployment, and federal programs of critical importance such as General Revenue Sharing, Community Development Block Grants, Urban Development Action Grants, and job training programs.

MEETING WITH REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL LEADERSHIP

DATE: Wednesday, September 15, 1982 LOCATION: Cabinet Room TIME: 9:30 a.m. (45 minutes)

FROM: KENNETH M. DUBERSTEIN

I. PURPOSE

To review the remaining priority items on the Congressional agenda prior to the adjournment of the 97th Congress in early October.

II. BACKGROUND

Less than a month remains on the Congressional calendar before adjournment (target date is between October 2 and 8). Much remains on the agenda of priority importance to the Administration. The floor schedule will be extremely hectic and it is crucial that the Republican Leadership be alerted to those items which the President feels should be set for votes. While spending issues will continue to dominate, we want to insure completion of legislation ranging from regulatory reform to the Caribbean Basin Initiative.

The last meeting of the Republican Leadership took place on August 10, a week before the votes on the tax bill.

TALKING POINTS

- --- As we head into the homestretch of the 97th Congress, I want to review the remaining legislative priorities before adjournment (which I understand to be set tentatively for either October 2 or 8).
- --- The earlier you all get out of town the more time I'll have to campaign! But several agenda items must be completed.
- --- Certainly, spending issues will continue to dominate. I know our team will not retreat one iota from curtailing the growth of Federal spending and getting the budget under control. The debt ceiling extension, already passed by the House, must be passed, no matter how distasteful it is. A satisfactory continuing resolution to fund the government must also be adopted. I remember well last year's veto of the continuing resolution and hope a similar exercise won't be necessary this time.
- --- I am working hard as I know Bob, Trent and Barber are to get 218 signatures on the discharge petition so that the House can vote on the Balanced Budget Constitutional Amendment.
- --- The Caribbean Basin Initiative is my major foreign policy legislative initiative and I would hope the trade provisions will be enacted this session. I recognize time is running short but this initiative should not be delayed.

- --- I anticipate good news from the Finance Committee today on Tuition Tax Credits and hope that this then will be scheduled for prompt floor action. This would certainly bring pressure to bear on Tip and Danny to move it in the House.
- --- Votes on abortion and school prayer are critical before the session ends.
- --- Regulatory Reform, which passed the Senate so long ago and has been bottled up by Tip, is certainly a top priority. I understand Tip may finally be scheduling it next week, but I don't want to leave anything to chance.
- --- We would hope that satisfactory conference reports would be adopted on job training and export trading companies and that there would be time for votes on the anti-crime package, nuclear waste disposal and the banking deregulation bill (if Jake Garn finalizes it).
- --- There are other priorities which I know the staff will be discussing with you but I'll pause now to give Howard and Bob a chance to respond. Howard, would you report to us on the Senate now?

MEETING WITH SEVEN BIG-CITY MAYORS

DATE: Wednesday, September 15, 1982 TIME: 11:00 a.m. to 11:20 a.m. LOCATION: Oval Office

FROM: RICHARD S. WILLIAMSON

I. PURPOSE

This is an opportunity for you to meet with seven mayors from large urban areas and hear first hand about some of the major problems facing America's cities.

II. BACKGROUND

As you know, a high percentage of big-city mayors are liberal Democrats who have been dependent on federal spending programs. Nonetheless, the Administration has kept a cordial relationship with these mayors. But now, as they face particularly severe economic problems coupled with Administration missteps, they feel a need to tell you first hand about the problems they face.

As you may recall, in September, 1981, there was a leak that the Office of Management and Budget was planning to cut General Revenue Sharing in addition to combining and cutting Urban Development Action Grants and the Community Development Block Grant. Mayors across the country, both Democrat and Republican, vehemently opposed this OMB proposal. We received over 3500 telephone calls and telegrams objecting to the proposal.

This past summer a draft of the Urban Policy Report prepared by Bob Carleson, Office of Policy Development, and and Steve Savas, Department of Housing and Urban Development, was leaked to the press. The draft report referred to mayors as "wily stalkers" of federal grants and said that federal aid had contributed to the decline of most urban areas. The mayors strongly objected to the draft. This incident only further aggravated the tenuous relationship between mayors and the Administration. Coleman Young is the new president of the United States Conference of Mayors (USCM), and has pledged his desire to work constructively with the Administration. Margaret Hance is president of the National Conference of Republican Mayors, and has been one of your most outspoken supporters. In Minneapolis, at the USCM meeting after you had denounced the draft report from HUD, Steve Rhodes and I talked with Mayor Lee Alexander, president of the National Conference of Democratic Mayors who expressed his desire to meet with you to constructively discuss issues of importance regarding the state of America's cities. 11:15 a.m 11:20 a.m.	Meeting opened for general discussion.
11:20 a.m.	Meeting adjourned

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS

- -- I am happy to have the opportunity to be with you today to hear first hand about some of the problems that you face daily in your cities.
- -- I understand that there are many problems that will be resolved when the economy is revived, and I also understand there are structural problems that an improved economy cannot resolve.
- -- Since January of 1981, I have become increasingly aware of the many struggles that you have with state governments, and with their lack of sensitivity regarding urban problems.
- -- Being a local elected official puts you on the front line with the American people, and at times I must believe you have the second most difficult job in the country.
- -- Now I would like to hear from you, and I will start with my dear friend Margaret Hance.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: RECEPTION CELEBRATING HISPANIC HERITAGE WEEK, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1982

Thank you very much for coming and buenos tardes. It's a real pleasure to welcome you to the White House -- mi casa es su casa; and this was always su casa. I'm just a tenant here.

We're delighted to celebrate with you National Hispanic Heritage Week, honoring the many contributions Hispanic men and women have made to American history. One hundred and seventy-two years ago tomorrow, a brave Mexican priest, named Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla, rang the bells in his village church to announce the people's desire for freedom. We are told that he did not live to see his victory. But the sound of those bells still rings today in the hearts of all freedom-loving people around the world.

I know it rings in your hearts. American Hispanics are bound by strong ties of language, religion, family, and culture. In your lives, you demonstrate the importance of real work, producing things of value, building communities of shared values that enrich America and keep us strong and free. You work long and hard to own your homes, your farms and business enterprises -- your piece of America.

And when America has been threatened by dark clouds of war, Hispanics defended our Nation with pride and courage. Thirty-seven of them have received the Congressional Medal of Honor, America's highest military decoration. This is a greater proportion of such heroes than in any other group. Just last year, I had an unforgettable experience. I presented Roy Benavidez, former farmboy from Texas, with the Medal of Honor for his exceptional valor and courage in the Vietnam War.

Hispanics bring honor to their country; their country should honor them. In my 8 years as Governor of California, I appointed more Hispanics to high positions than any previous Governor. We are trying to maintain that tradition in Washington, with Hispanics playing a major role in our Administration since day one. We've already appointed more Hispanic men and women to top-level, executive positions -- more than 50 -- than any previous administration.

With good people, we can have better policies. We can strengthen those shared values of family, neighborhood, work, peace and freedom and help you make America great again. Your families feel strongly about the moral values maintained by our country's religious school systems. Our tuition tax credit plan will provide relief to the many Hispanic families who send their children to independent schools, while supporting public schools with their taxes.

Speaking of those moral values, we think it's about time that all American children have the right to begin their days the same way the Members of the U.S. Congress do -- with prayer. So we're pushing for a constitutional amendment that would permit voluntary prayer in our children's classrooms.

By extending the Voting Rights Act, we have locked in guarantees of full Constitutional and political equality for Hispanic Americans.

Page 3

And getting control of runaway Government means hard-working Hispanic families can keep more of the money they earn, and the rate of inflation and interest rates can keep heading in the right direction -- they're going down, and they're going to stay down.

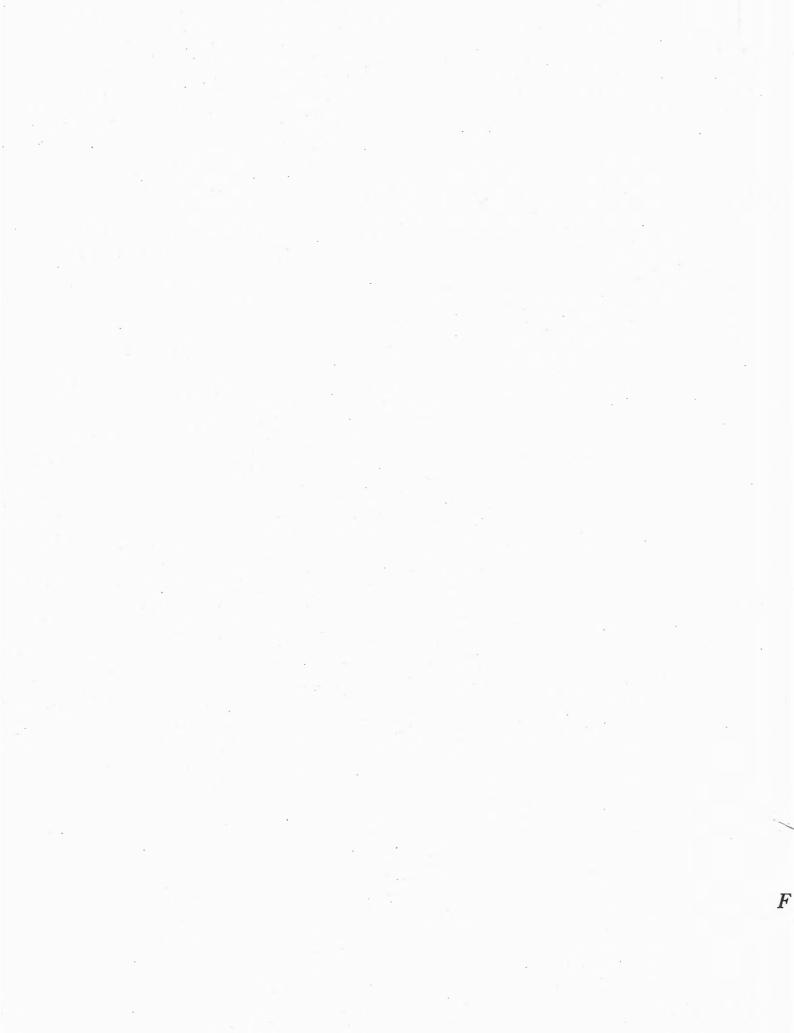

Finally, a stronger and more stable economy will permit us to be a better neighbor with Mexico and our other friends to the South. I think we've developed a new rapport with Mexico, based on mutual respect; that is, better than at any time in the history of our two proud nations.

I'm also very enthusiastic about our Caribbean initiative, which will break down trade barriers and provide new incentives for commerce and economic growth.

At the root of everything we're trying to accomplish is the belief that America has a mission: We are a Nation of freedom, living under God, believing all citizens must have the opportunity to grow, create wealth, and build a better life for those who follow. If we live up to those noble values, we can keep the American Dream alive for our children and our grandchildren, and America will remain mankind's best hope.

With your help, I know we can, and we will.

Muchas gracias and Que Dios los bendiga [K Dee-os Los Ben-dee-ga] (God bless you).

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING WITH CONGRESSMAN JIM COLLINS

- -- Congressman Jim Collins is the Republican candidate facing Incumbent Democrat Senator Lloyd Bentsen in November.
- -- In July, a Finkelstein survey showed Jim Collins within 9 points of Bentsen. While Texas campaigns are very expensive, Collins has thus far raised $1.2 million. In comparison Senator Tower spent $4.3 million to get re-elected in 1978.
- -- Collins' 13 years experience in Congress provide him with campaign and legislative experience.
- -- Collins is finally convincing Texans that Bentsen isn't as conservative as he claims; if he continues this message and his campaign avoids self-destructing, he could stun Bentsen in November.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: RECEPTION FOR USA TODAY WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1982

It's wonderful to be here today with all of you -- and with the distinguished Senate Majority Leader and my other good friends and my fellow Irishman, Speaker O'Neill.

And no matter what Al Neuharth or Ann Devroy say, Howard, you were not asked here today to act as referee.

This is an unusual event -- marked not only by the launching of your great new enterprise but by the appearance of so many prominent politicians in the same room with nothing but good things to say about the press.

I understand that many of the reporters and editors of USA Today are from out of town and still adjusting to Washington. One of my favorite stories about the capital bureaucracy involves a man here whose job was sitting at a desk in a particular department, initialing papers and deciding where to direct them through the rest of the labyrinth. One day he received a classified paper, read it, figured out where it should go, initialed it and sent it on. And a couple of days later it came back with the notation: "You were not supposed to read this. Erase your initials and initial the erasure."

To tell you the truth though, I hope you will never completely adjust to Washington. A short time here -- say four to eight years -- can be very educational and even inspiring. It can stir your feelings for this great country of ours. It's after that you have to be careful -- careful that you don't Page 2 forget the idealism that brought you here -- careful you aren't too willing to accept things as they are instead of as they should be.

When I saw the logo on the paper USA Today it occurred to me that some of the hard-boiled types around this town might think it a little too nationalistic or even patriotic. Well, I've been accused of having that problem during my own career. The best answer I know is the one attributed to George M. Cohan. He was asked why there was so much flag-waving in his plays. "Well," he said, "can you think of a better flag to wave?"

And that came home to me a few minutes ago, standing here thinking about the reports I've gotten across my desk about the recent crackdown on dissidents in the Soviet Union, repression in Poland, the attack on press freedom in Nicaragua.

Yet, here you are, with all the wizardry of American technology and in the robust tradition of American journalism about to bring something new to the world of communication -- a potentially great national newspaper. Forgive me, but I can't help but feel this is a testimony to the kind of dreams free men and woman can dream and turn into reality here in America.

A few months ago, I said at a Captive Nations ceremony in the Rose Garden that the systematic and growing repression of freedom under Marxist/Leninist regimes was the most important news story of our time. I still think that's true. I also think that USA Today is an exciting and important commercial and journalistic enterprise -- but even more than that it's another distant light, another glimmer of hope on the horizons of a world Page 3 where too often the avid pursuit of the truth is discouraged or suppressed.

I speak for everyone in the Administration when I say you have our best wishes. We'll be rooting for you.
