PRESIDENT'S ROUNDTABLE:
INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC SYSTEM

July 15, 1983
Noon to 1:00 p.m.
CABINET ROOM

From: Edwin L. Harper

I. PURPOSE

To meet with a group of distinguished businessmen, bankers, and academicians to discuss the international economic system.

II. BACKGROUND, PARTICIPANTS, AND PRESS PLAN

A. Background

This meeting is the second in a series of luncheons with distinguished leaders from outside the government. The first one last month focused on capital formation. This luncheon will focus on three aspects of the international economic system:

1. The ability of present international financial institutions and arrangements to deal with the challenges of the 1980's;
2. The effect that global debt and liquidity will have on international economic growth; and
3. The appropriate role for the U.S. Government in exchange rate policy.

Those who have been invited have been told that these sessions are designed to address longer-term problems and issues and not to focus on immediate problems and near-term events. Questions for discussion are at Tab A.

B. Participants

A list of participants and their affiliations is attached at Tab B.

C. Press Plan

White House Photographer.

III. Sequence of Events

After you make some brief opening remarks (Talking points are attached at Tab C), each participant will briefly outline his views for 2-3 minutes. Following the individual remarks, there will be a general discussion for 15-20 minutes.

Presidential Roundtable
International Economic System
July 15, 1983

Questions for Discussion

International Financial Institutions

1. Are the present international financial institutions and arrangements adequate to deal with the challenges of the 1980's?
2. What changes if any would you propose to strengthen the system?
3. Specifically, should the United States support a movement toward a new Bretton-Woods type agreement?

Global Debt and Liquidity

1. Can we be confident that global liquidity over the next several years will be sufficient to manage debtor country problems successfully?
2. Are there adequate safeguards to prevent a too rapid expansion in global liquidity leading to a new round of global inflation?

Exchange Rate Policy

1. Should the United States abandon its current exchange rate intervention under certain carefully defined circumstances?
2. Specifically, should the United States intervene in foreign exchange markets to correct adverse trends in the value of the dollar?
3. Could intervention ever be successful in this regard?

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: LUNCHEON WITH BIPARTISAN ROUNDTABLE
FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1983

Well I'm delighted to welcome all of you and I want to thank you for giving up your valuable time to meet with us. As you know, I've come here not to speak but to listen. I'd like to get your views on three issues of great significance: the nature of our international trade situation; the problem of global debt; and the best way to reduce protectionism -- a goal we agreed on at the economic summit at Williamsburg.

So, if you're ready why don't you go ahead and begin.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

MEETING WITH HOUSE MAJORITY LEADER
JIM WRIGHT (D-TEXAS)

Date: Friday, July 15, 1983
Location: The Oval Office
Time: 10:00 a.m. (30 Minutes)

From: Kenneth M. Duberstein

I. PURPOSE

To express appreciation to the Majority Leader of the House for his leadership role in House passage of the Caribbean Basin Initiative and to discuss other issues that may be considered prior to the August recess.

II. BACKGROUND

After approving, by a vote of 212-204, the rule which precluded the consideration of several detrimental labor-backed amendments, the House passed the CBI by a vote of 289-129.

Jim Wright's support was essential to our success in the House. The Majority Leader has been very visible - and somewhat vulnerable to criticism from Members of his own party - in support of certain Administration foreign policy and defense positions. He has been a central player on CBI, MX and Central America. Wright has expressed concern to the President and others that the bipartisanship has not been enough of a two-way street.

Wright is wavering on the upcoming MX vote. If he switches and opposes the authorization of the MX production money, an already close vote would probably be lost. Wright has also been willing to work with the Administration to develop an acceptable compromise on the Boland-Zablocki Resolution and has been criticized by many Democrats for his efforts to avoid a partisan floor fight.

Tuesday the House will hold a secret session regarding Central America and Wednesday the House will vote on the MX authorization. This meeting will provide an opportunity to discuss both issues.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The President
Majority Leader Jim Wright (D-Texas)
Jim Baker

IV. PRESS PLAN

No press coverage.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

No specific agenda.

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING WITH
HOUSE MAJORITY LEADER JIM WRIGHT (D-TEXAS)

- Jim, I want to thank you for your help in getting the Caribbean Basin Initiative through the House.

- We have some differences every now and then but I really appreciate your willingness to take the lead on these very important foreign policy matters.

- Your help on the MX and Central America issues has been in the best interests of the nation. I know that some Members in your party have given you a hard time over your MX vote - but you and I both know how important MX is to our national security and to our arms negotiations efforts.

- The House will consider these MX and Central America issues before the recess. We need your help and I wanted to get your ideas and hear any suggestions you might have.

MEETING WITH SENATOR STROM THURMOND (R-SOUTH CAROLINA),
SENATOR ORRIN HATCH (R-UTAH), AND SENATOR PAUL LAXALT
(R-NEVADA)

DATE: Friday, July 15, 1983
LOCATION: The Oval Office
TIME: 10:30 a.m. (30 minutes)

FROM: Kenneth M. Duberstein K.D.

I. PURPOSE

To discuss with Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Thurmond, Senator Hatch and Senator Laxalt (Members of the Judiciary Committee) your nominations to the Civil Rights Commission.

II. BACKGROUND

Yesterday, July 14, in executive session, the Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee managed to have a motion passed postponing markup on your four nominees to the Civil Rights Commission until the first scheduled executive session after the August recess. This motion was allowed because Senator Metzenbaum advised the Chairman when the meeting began that unless such a motion were accepted, he would filibuster the entire meeting. Senator Metzenbaum also requested and was promised an additional day of hearings. (Senate rules provide that such additional hearing time shall be provided if requested by the minority.) They were tentatively scheduled for Thursday, July 21. Senator Metzenbaum, among others, wants to bring in the two former Chairmen of the Civil Rights Commission, Father Hesberg and Dr. Flemming to testify. We are working on getting friendly witnesses to counter their testimony.

The Committee agreed that a vote will be taken on the nominations at the first business meeting after the August recess. The nominations will not be returned to the White House during this recess period. Senator Metzenbaum also attempted to get a commitment from Senator Hatch, Chairman of the Subcommittee on the Constitution, to guarantee that the reauthorization for the Civil Rights Commission would be put forward in full Committee for consideration. Senator Hatch said he would not make that commitment but have his word that the reauthorization would be out of Committee and passed by the full Senate before the September 30 expiration date.

In your meeting today with these three Republican Members of the Judiciary Committee, you should ask them if they will reconsider Senator Metzenbaum's motion and try to report the nominations out of Committee as soon as possible. At this moment, there are eight Republicans who will vote for your nominees, five Democrats and one Republican who will vote no, one Democrat and one Republican leaning yes, and two Democrats undecided (the breakdown is attached at Tab A).

ADDENDUM REGARDING CIVIL RIGHTS COMMISSION REAUTHORIZATION
LEGISLATION

Senator Thurmond introduced by request S. 1189, the Administration's legislation to extend the authority of the Civil Rights Commission. The authorization which expires September 30 of this year would be extended for an additional 30 years under S. 1189. The legislation also provides for staggered terms of six years for members of the Commission appointed upon vacancies occurring after enactment. The six appointments after the effective date would be made in three pairs of two-year, four-year and six-year terms. Each pair of appointments would be persons not affiliated with the same political party. Thereafter, all appointments would be two six-year terms.

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING WITH SENATORS THURMOND, HATCH, AND LAXALT

- I appreciate your coming down here on such short notice to meet with me this morning. I am anxious to talk with you about our Civil Rights Commission nominations -- a subject which is of great importance to me personally.

- I am extremely concerned about the Judiciary Committee's action yesterday which will delay the vote on these nominees until September. I would like to see the Senate act on these nominations as soon as possible, and I would like to discuss with you the possibility of reconsidering the Committee's action at some point prior to the August recess. I understand that the vote count on these nominees is extremely close and that there are at least two Democrats who remain undecided.

- I understand that Senator Baucus may be willing to support the nominees, although I expect he is still subject to a good deal of pressure from his fellow Democrats.

- As you know, I think we have put forward some very qualified individuals in this case, and I have not heard of anyone taking issue with my nominations in that respect. The Democrats and the press are having a heyday with this, and I think we are taking a bum rap. I would like to hear your candid thoughts and suggestions as to where we can go from here. I would like to work this thing out right away, and I am willing to help personally in any way I can.
