CABINET COUNCIL ON ECONOMIC AFFAIRS

DATE: November 30, 1983
LOCATION: Cabinet Room
TIME: 1:45 pm (60 Minutes)
FROM: Craig L. Fuller CLF

I. PURPOSE

To meet with members of your Cabinet and Senior Staff for an open and candid discussion of the Federal Budget and options to address the current and projected deficits.

II. BACKGROUND

The Cabinet Council on Economic Affairs has devoted considerable time and study to questions that surround the debate on the Federal budget and projected deficits. Structural reform of the budget process and review of options to address the Federal deficits have been central to such CCEA discussions. The meetings have been frank, occasionally heated, and considered quite productive.

Options for structural reform of the budget include such issues as a two year budget cycle, Presidential line item veto, and a Constitutional Amendment requiring a balanced Federal budget.

Options to address Federal deficits have included such issues as the politics of greater spending cuts, the establishment of a bipartisan group to mobilize Congress to accept such cuts, and the efficacy of raising taxes under certain circumstances.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Members of the Cabinet and your Senior Staff.

IV. PRESS PLAN

None.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Secretary Regan is prepared to begin discussion by reviewing the budget policy issues that have been raised in CCEA meetings during the last several weeks. David Stockman is then prepared to make a brief corollary presentation with discussion to follow.

SUGGESTED PRESIDENTIAL TALKING POINTS for a meeting with the
CABINET COUNCIL ON ECONOMIC AFFAIRS

- o I know of the considerable time and study that you all have devoted to the questions that surround the Federal budget and projected deficits. You and your staffs are to be commended for your hard and very thorough work.
- o This is clearly one of the most difficult domestic issue that we will have to face as an Administration.
- o I am aware that there is disagreement on how best to address the issue of budget deficits. I suppose its almost natural. The world just wouldn't seem right if economists suddenly started to agree with each other.
- o The purpose of this meeting is to hear your ideas on the issue; in candor and with malice toward none.

BILL SIGNING CEREMONY FOR H.R. 2780,
STATE AND LOCAL FISCAL ASSISTANCE AMENDMENTS OF 1983

DATE: Wednesday, November 30, 1983
LOCATION: The State Dining Room
TIME: 3:00 p.m. (15 minutes)
FROM: Kenneth M. Duberstein to D.

I. PURPOSE

To demonstrate Presidential support for General Revenue Sharing by signing the legislation before an assembly of city and county officials.

II. BACKGROUND

Prior to adjournment, the House and Senate passed reauthorization legislation for General Revenue Sharing. H.R. 2780 reauthorizes the program for three years at a $4.6 billion annual funding level.

During consideration of the legislation the President's commitment to Revenue Sharing was questioned because of his insistence on level funding at $4.6 billion, and a three year rather than five year authorization. The President opposed expanding the program in light of the need to restrain Federal expenditures.

In the past, the President has stated that, "General Revenue Sharing is in accord with my belief that local governments know their needs best." This signing ceremony provides the President with an opportunity to make his position clear before Members of Congress and city and county officials.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: SIGNING CEREMONY FOR H.R. 2780 --
STATE AND LOCAL FISCAL ASSISTANCE
AMENDMENTS OF 1983
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1983

Good afternoon. I'm delighted to see Members of Congress, Mayors, and other local officials here in the White House this afternoon. It's good to have you in the house that belongs to all of us from every city, county and town.

Like millions of Americans, I grew up in a small town. Back in Dixon, Illinois, government officials and the citizens they were serving knew each other, because they were part of the same community. They lived next door, went to the same high school football games, and bumped into each other at the grocery. Dixon officials knew what the people of Dixon needed, and they were able to meet those needs with efficiency and imagination.

Local government meeting local needs -- that's a fundamental principle of good government. Many government workers here in Washington are dilligent and dedicated. But they just don't know the American people as well as you Congressmen, Mayors, county and local officials. If those at the grassroots are to get their jobs done, and get them done right, we must give them the resources they need. The General Revenue Sharing bill that I'm about to sign will help do just that.

This bill will send $4.6 billion from Washington back to our cities, counties, and towns. The money will not be spent as Washington dictates, but as local officials choose. It will support police and fire protection, libraries, street maintenance, and other basic local services. And since less than 1 percent of the total will be used for administration, the General Revenue Sharing program will set a superb example of Government efficiency for other Federal programs.

It took a lot of doing to hammer this bill together. But funding the program at this level will enable us to continue our partnership with local governments without fueling deficits. My heartfelt thanks to all who helped build the wide and bipartisan support the bill enjoyed.

For my part, signing this bill represents a great personal pleasure. I pledged my support for revenue sharing to the U.S. Conference of Mayors back in 1980, and since then I've restated my support before the National League of Cities, the National Association of Counties, the National Association of Towns and Townships, and many others. The Federal Government never spent money more wisely than by devoting it to General Revenue Sharing, and today I'm delighted to reaffirm my support with a pen.

Thank you and God bless you. And now let me sign the bill.
