OPL MEETING REPORT

GROUP: Oklahoma Cherokees

DATE: August 31, 1981 TIME: 12:15 PLACE: 193 EOB & White House Mess

PROJECT OFFICER: Morton Blackwell

NUMBER OF GUESTS:
(Attach list) 1 Chief Ross Swimmer

ADMINISTRATION PARTICIPANTS:
Blackwell

SUMMARY: Discussion of relations between the Federal Government and tribal leadership. A major topic of discussion was the Chilocco site, formerly Cherokee property bought in a forced sale by the government for a BIA Boarding School, now closed and the subject of a proposal by RCA for establishment of a center for training Indian people for employment in the energy industry. Chief Swimmer opposes the RCA proposal and suggests that the site should, one way or the other, revert back to the Cherokees from whom it was taken in the forced sale.

We arranged a three-way telephone conversation with Sandy Sanders, Associate General Deputy Assistant Secretary for Field Operations at HUD. Topic: The potential for elimination of reservation Indian housing authorities and replacement with a bloc grant system.

MEMORANDUM FOR: ELIZABETH H. DOLE

FROM: ~~Morton Blackwell~~
SUBJECT: WEEKLY SUMMARY REPORT August 29, 1981
Week Ending Saturday, _____

RED FLAGS: Conservative religious leaders who support the President are displaying increased concern over what they see as a disdain for them in the Administration. E. V. Hill, the black minister from Los Angeles who was recently offered the post of Chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, turned it down primarily on the grounds that he is fighting to get White House support for his efforts to encourage church-related coluntary activism to help the needy. Perhaps (over)

KUDOS:

Kudos to the National Right to Work Committee, the Senate Republican Conference, and the College Republican National Committee for their efforts to prevent the September 19th Solidarity Day from being a propaganda triumph for enemies of the Reagan Administration. This demonstration is largely funded by organized labor but is gathering momentum as it draws support from groups as diverse as the Democratic National Committee and the splinter groups of Marxist militants. Although organizaed labor purports to be pro-defense, the leftist protestors will skillfully attempt to capture the event for the "Ban the Bomb" cause. With the exception of the National Right to Work Committee, the Senate Republican Conference, and the College Republican National Committee, there appears to be no effort to counteract the intended effect of Solidarity Day like Thomas Sowell, the black economist who turned down the job of Secretary of Education, Hill saw himself taken away from his real area of interest for use as a token for public relations effect.

The Rally for Life on September 3rd in Dallas, which I have mentioned previously, seems virtually certain to increase unrest in the conservative religious community, as well as the explicitly pro-life organizations.

Our failure to be able to arrange meetings between the President and this segment of his winning coalition is a constant source of irritation and a frequent subject of conversation among the leaders of the respective groups. As a result, I have suggested that they lower their sights and request meetings, if appropriate, with Mr. Meese, Mr. Baker and Mr. Deaver.

ADMINISTRATION PARTICIPANTS:

Blackwell, Herb Ellingwood, Jim Rosebush

SUMMARY:

This meeting was held at the request of Herb Ellingwood and me. Jim Rosebush explained what he was doing in the area of encouraging voluntarism. His primary emphasis is on the business community. At one point, he went so far as to express the opinion that efforts to improve the economic condition of the needy ought to be the responsibility of the business community and that the religious community should concentrate on filling spiritual needs. He waffled a bit on this position upon being pressed by Herb Ellingwood and me regarding the importance of involving the religious community in voluntary action. When I described the decision on the part of many conservative religious leaders in recent years to emulate the practice of most liberal religious leaders by taking it as part of their role in life to activate their congregations in the public policy process, Rosebush said he regretted this trend among conservative church leaders. To that, I responded that in my judgement, he would not be sitting where he does today if conservative religious leaders had not made that decision because their support made them an essential element of the President's winning coalition. All in all, it was not an auspicious meeting.

MEMORANDUM FOR: ELIZABETH H. DOLE

VIA: Red Cavaney

FROM: Morton C. Blackwell

SUBJECT: WEEKLY SUMMARY REPORT
Week Ending Saturday, August 22, 1981

RED FLAGS: The O'Connor nomination continues to be a focal point of disappointment among conservative and pro family leaders. On Sept 3 there will be a rally at the Dallas Convention Center in which conservative organization leaders will attempt to focus public attention on this issue. See attached sheet.

KUDOS: Ron Andrade, Executive Director of the National Congress of American Indians, who has been notable in his praise of the process by which the Administration is developing its policy toward issues of importance to Indian people.

CHANGES IN ISSUE FORECAST: Conservative and Republican organizations are gearing up in anticipation of the Sept. 19th "Solidarity Day", which is being organized by the AFL-CIO and co sponsored by a growing coalition of AFL-CIO fronts and other liberal and left wing organizations. Marxist groups such as the Socialist Workers party are fully endorsing this protest, march and rally and can be expected to make a prominent display then of very extreme posters etc. Conservative Senators are expected to organize events which will call public attention to the use of compulsory union dues to fund this demonstration which will promote public policy positions exactly the opposite of many if not most of the union membership. The College Republican activists intend to circulate among demonstrators thousands of "polls" asking the demonstrators if they agree with certain AFL-CIO policy positions, such as:

1. support for the Panama Canal give away
2. support for Jimmy Carter's SALT II Treaty with the Soviets
3. opposition to voluntary prayer in schools
4. support for forced school busing
5. support for increased gun control

If this massive demonstration proves a public relations success, we are virtually certain to experience mass demonstrations organized by (or on behalf of) black civil rights organizations, welfare recipients foes of increased defense spending etc. Therefore, the Administration should take reasonable steps to encourage rain on this parade.

SUMMARY:

A discussion of a detailed plan to create with mixed private and government funds a financial institution which would concentrate solely on funding investments in the private sector on Indian reservations. The presentation was exceptionally good because it recognized the fact that current government spending programs are only deepening the dependency of Indian people on federal handouts. The economists and consultants who made the presentation recognized that only the building of entrepreneurial activity can create a productive middle class on reservations and make progress toward economic self sufficiency for Indian people at large. Ken Smith, who was present throughout the meeting, expressed his strong support of this concept.

MEMORANDUM FOR: ELIZABETH H. DOLE

VIA: Red Cavaney

FROM: Morton Blackwell

SUBJECT: WEEKLY SUMMARY REPORT
Week Ending Saturday, Aug 15, 1981

RED FLAGS: The repeated news stories regarding the contents of a forthcoming report by a Justice Department Commission relating to gun control has our pro-gun allies in an agitated state that is reminiscent of the pro-life groups' initial reaction to Sandra O'Connor. According to press reports, this commission will recommend stiffer gun controls, including a provision requiring citizens to report the loss or theft of handguns. This is a big red flag for the pro-gun groups who see this as another move toward an eventual policy of gun confiscation. The pro-life groups and the pro-gun groups are two of the most highly organized (cont)

KUDOS:

Kudos to John Fales of the Blinded Veterans Association who arranged a meeting with Ed Meese and Robert Nimmo and presented excellent documentation of reasons why Dave Christian should not be appointed Deputy Administrator of Veterans Affairs. Until this meeting, Christian was the leading candidate for the job, but the depth of feeling among the major veterans groups (American Legion, VFW, DAV) was not known until Fales spoke up. (Sensitive to their difficulties in the selection process for Administrator, the leaders of veterans organizations were uncharacteristically reluctant to express their strong feelings against Christian.)

CHANGES IN ISSUE FORECAST:

Our relationships with Indian organizations have been steadily improving. With the largest group, the National Congress of American Indians, they are good. With the third largest group, the Council of Energy Resource Tribes, they are excellent. Our problem has been with the National Tribal Chairmen's Association, which has operated on a confrontation basis with us, calling for the resignation of Secretary Watt. The designation of Ken Smith, Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Indian Affairs, as the head of a Cabinet Council level working group on Indian policy has had a good effect on Indian leadership across the country. We worked this concept out with Bob Charleson of the Office of Policy Development. Ken Smith's announcement of this new policy working group at the meeting of the NTCA in Billings, Montana this week had a calming effect on this group. The hotheaded executive director, Elmer Savilla, is not mollified, but he is now operating under the constraint of a much warmer feeling to the Administration on the part of his own constituency.

conservative lobbies. One conservative leader said that if the Justice Department would now only raise questions about the constitutionality of section 14(b) of Taft-Hartley, the Administration (via the Justice Department) will have managed to excite bitter anger from all three of the best organized conservative movement lobbies.
