Dear Mr. Reagan,

In my own simple way I am very concerned about our country. Just now I am concerned about the lockage of Mrs. Helen Taylor serving on the board of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. I firmly support this fine Christian lady and request that petty politics be removed from the process of placing her on the board of CPB.

Sending my prayers, I am

President Ronald Reagan,

Dear Mr. President,

The Make up of the board of the Public Broadcasting System should surely reflect a cross-section of the American people. At the present, it most obviously does not. I wholeheartedly support your recommendation of Helen Marie to said board.

Sincerely,

Robert F. Carlson

Dear Mr. President:

It is most discouraging to think that, for political purposes, there is some opposition in the selection of Helen Marie Taylor - to serve on the board of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Please use every means at your disposal - to make her a permanent member of this committee.

I thank you most kindly.

I am taking this time to write you a short letter to let you know that I support the nomination of Helen Marie Taylor to serve on the board of our Public T. V.

With the almost total bias on the part of our commercial T. V. stations I would like to be sure that the public T. V. has someone to speak up for the views the majority of the people in the country value. Mrs. Taylor is well qualified to represent us and help to continue keeping our T. V. clean & wholesome.

Dear Mr. Blackwell:

Helen Marie Taylor was recommended by President Reagen to serve on the board of the corporation for Public Broadcasting.

I have learned her nomination has been blocked because of politics. Understand she has all the necessary qualifications and I would hope petty politics be removed from this nomination.

She has supported the traditional family oriented causes. And unless there is some one like her on the Board the Public Broadcasting System will become a repeat of the slanted, biased views offered by the networks.

The President wants more women in Washington and so does the general public.

I trust you will give her your support. Thank you.

Very truly

Dear President Reagan:

I am writing this brief note to express my support for your nomination of Helen Marie Taylor to serve on the board of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

I understand that Mrs Taylor has long been a supporter of traditional family values in broadcasting and I believe her service on the board of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting will be a tremendous benefit to all American families.

I also understand that, to date, political infighting has prevented her nomination from being acted upon. I would like to ask that you personally become involved in this nomination process and do what you can to expedite her approval for this position.

Gentlemen:

Some time around the first of this year I was watching a PBS program on T.V. A nude woman walked across the stage and was frontally exposed, genitals and all in front of my family. I was so disgusted that I have since removed the T.V. altogether from my home.

It is difficult for me to imagine my government sponsoring with tax money so degrading a spectacle. In view of this I am wondering why Helen Marie Taylor's appointment to the P.B.S. Board is being held up? Why can we not get at least one voice on this board that does not have pig sty morals.

Attention: Morton Blackwell

Dear Mr. Blackwell:

It has come to my attention that President Reagan's nomination of Mrs. Helen Marie Taylor to the Board of Directors of the Corporation of Public Broadcasting has been delayed and possibly jeopardized. I strongly believe that, as a longtime and enthusiastic supporter of traditional, conservative values, Mrs. Taylor would greatly benefit the organization. Her FBI record has been scrutinized by Republican supporters, such as Senators John Warner and Paul Trible, and found to contain nothing derogatory that would warrant apprehension over her appointment.

With deep concern for the preservation of the Judeo-Christian values upon which the United States was founded, I urge you to aggressively champion Mrs. Taylor's consideration for the Board of Directors of the Corporation of Public Broadcasting. I am convinced that now, more than ever, our nation craves leaders who advocate a return to moral decency. The survival of America depends on it!

I appreciate your taking the time to consider this appeal. May God bless you in your vital work, and give you wisdom and direction in the days ahead.

The Honorable Paul Tribble
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator Tribble:

As you know, Senator Barry Goldwater is presently blocking the appointment of Mrs. Helen Marie Taylor of Orange, Virginia, who has been nominated by President Reagan to the Board of Directors of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Because you are not only the junior Senator from Virginia, but are also a member of the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, which has jurisdiction over this nomination, you are in a unique and powerful position to clear the way for committee and floor consideration of Mrs. Taylor's nomination. My purpose in writing is to urge you to exercise the powers and influence of your office and membership on the Commerce Committee to see that both the Committee and the full Senate have an opportunity to consider this nomination.

The Senate, of course, is a democratic body, governed by the principle of majority rule. An individual Senator can delay a nomination, but he cannot prevent it if a determined majority of the Members wish to exercise their advise and consent powers. Senator Goldwater, in other words, does not have a veto over nominations of President Reagan. Established rules of Senate procedure present a number of alternatives that are available to you in moving this nomination forward.

First, you have the right, as a member of the Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation, to move for the consideration of this nomination at any executive meeting of the Committee. This is a common practice that is used for nominations and legislation when the subcommittee of a standing committee, as in the present case, has refused to report to the full committee.

Second, I am advised by the Senate Parliamentarian that Senate rules also provide a procedure to discharge a nomination from committee, should your effort to move the nomination out of the Commerce Committee prove unsuccessful.

Hon. Paul Trible

That procedure is as follows:

- (1) A motion to discharge the nomination is made in Executive Session. If an objection is heard, the motion goes over one calendar day.
- (2) On the next calendar day, a motion may be made to proceed to executive session to discharge the nomination. The motion to proceed is not debatable.
- (3) If the motion to proceed is accepted, then the motion to discharge is debatable, and cloture would have to be invoked to get to a final vote.
- (4) If the motion to discharge is accepted, then the item is on the calendar, and must remain on the calendar one day.
- (5) On the next calendar day, a motion is in order to proceed to executive session to debate the nomination. The motion to proceed is not debatable.
- (6) If the motion to proceed is accepted, then the nomination is open for debate. Cloture would have to be invoked, if necessary, to get a final vote.

In short, if no obstacles arise, the procedure would take two calendar days. If Senator Goldwater were to filibuster, which does not seem likely, it would take a minimum of two cloture petitions and votes to approve the nomination. But whatever develops, the fact remains that you have the right, and the Senate recognizes that right, to get a vote on this nomination in the Committee and on the Senate floor.

Moreover, it seems to me that you also have a duty to President Reagan, to Mrs. Taylor, and to the people of Virginia to protect their rights and interests. Mrs. Taylor is one of our most distinguished citizens, who has generously supported the Republican Party and the conservative cause for more than twenty years. She is eminently well-qualified for the position to which she has been nominated. Your intervention on her behalf would secure the appointment, and at the same time would afford you an opportunity to speak publicly and forcefully in support of Mrs. Taylor, whose name and reputation have already been unjustly and viciously impugned in the public press.

Hon.. Paul Tribble

I am in favor of your appointing Mrs. Helen Marie Taylor
to serve on board of Corporation
Public Broadcasting

We need wholesome, traditional
- value oriented television.

Dear President Reagan,

I am requesting that the nomination of Helen Marie Taylor to the board of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting be advanced with haste.

Without representation of those who support the traditional value system the Public Broadcasting System will become essentially a repeat of the slanted, biased views offered by the networks.

Thank you very much.
