

Ronald Reagan Presidential Library
Digital Library Collections

---

This is a PDF of a folder from our textual collections.

---

Collection: Speechwriting, White House Office of: Speech Drafts: Records

Folder Title: State Visit: Jaime Lusinchi of Venezuela (Rohrabacher)(Cave) 12/04/1984 (2)

Box: 183

---

To see more digitized collections visit:

<https://reaganlibrary.gov/archives/digital-library>

To see all Ronald Reagan Presidential Library inventories visit:

<https://reaganlibrary.gov/document-collection>

Contact a reference archivist at: reagan.library@nara.gov

Citation Guidelines: <https://reaganlibrary.gov/citing>

National Archives Catalogue: <https://catalog.archives.gov/>

(ROHRBACHER)

DECEMBER 4, 1984

STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA

GOOD EVENING AND WELCOME TO THE WHITE HOUSE. THIS HAS BEEN A SPECIAL TIME FOR US. TODAY WE'VE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO EXCHANGE VIEWS AND GET TO KNOW PRESIDENT LUSINCHI, AN INDIVIDUAL WHOSE STRENGTH OF CONVICTION AND PERSONAL BRAVERY HELPED GIVE BIRTH TO DEMOCRACY IN HIS COUNTRY. TONIGHT WE HONOR YOU, MR. PRESIDENT, FOR WHAT YOU HAVE DONE, FOR WHAT YOU ARE DOING, AND FOR THE KIND OF MAN YOU ARE.

IN THIS BEAUTIFUL SETTING, THE HARD SACRIFICES OF OUR OWN FOUNDING FATHERS SEEM SO LONG AGO. YET ALL OF WHAT WE HAVE HAS BEEN BUILT ON THE FOUNDATION THEY LAID.

PRESIDENT LUSINCHI REMEMBERS WELL VENEZUELA'S FIGHT FOR POLITICAL FREEDOM. HE WAS PART OF IT. AS A YOUNG MAN, HE COMMITTED HIMSELF TO THE CAUSE OF DEMOCRACY.

HE WAS ARRESTED AND TORTURED BY THE DICTATORSHIP. MR. PRESIDENT, I'M TOLD THE BEATINGS LEFT WELTS ON YOUR BACK SIMILAR TO THE STRIPES OF A TIGER. WELL YOU HAD THE SPIRIT OF A TIGER, AND YOU NEVER GAVE UP
YOUR IDEALS. VENEZUELA IS FREE TODAY,
BECAUSE IT HAS PEOPLE OF SUCH CHARACTER.

LAST YEAR, YOU CELEBRATED 25 YEARS OF CONTINUOUS DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT IN VENEZUELA. COMMEMORATING THAT, YOU SAID,
"WE HAVE DISCOVERED THAT DEMOCRACY AND
LIBERTY GO TOGETHER -- INEXTRICABLY
TOGETHER." IT WAS FITTING THAT LAST YEAR
WAS ALSO THE 200TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BIRTH OF SIMON BOLIVAR, A VENEZUELAN WHOSE STRUGGLE GAVE INDEPENDENCE TO THE HEMISPHERE. TODAY, YOU CARRY ON THE WORK OF THIS TRULY ALL-AMERICAN HERO.

AND WHEN WE SAY AMERICAN, WE MEAN EVERY ONE OF US FROM THE NORTH SLOPE OF ALASKA TO THE TIP OF TIERRA DEL FUEGO.

I'D LIKE TO THANK YOU, PRESIDENT LUSINCHI, FOR WHAT YOUR COUNTRY IS DOING FOR THE CAUSE OF DEMOCRACY IN THIS HEMISPHERE. YOUR SUPPORT DURING THE GRENADA CRISIS WAS MOST APPRECIATED. YOUR EFFORTS IN CENTRAL AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN ARE OF GREAT IMPORTANCE TO THE FUTURE OF FREEDOM THERE. YOUR PERSONAL GUIDANCE TO ME IN THE YEARS AHEAD WILL BE AS INVALUABLE AS IT WAS TODAY. WE ARE PROUD TO STAND WITH YOU AND TO HAVE YOU AND YOUR COUNTRYMEN AS OUR FRIENDS.

PRESIDENT LUSINCHI, YOU REPRESENT IN SO MANY WAYS THE DEEP TIES BETWEEN OUR TWO PEOPLES.

TODAY, INSTEAD OF "WELCOME," WE SHOULD HAVE SAID, "WELCOME BACK," FOR YOU LIVED WITH US DURING YOUR TIME OF EXILE, STUDYING MEDICINE AND WORKING IN BELLEVUE HOSPITAL IN NEW YORK.

AS A POLITICAL FIGURE, YOU'VE BEEN CONCERNED ABOUT THE FREEDOM AND PROGRESS OF YOUR PEOPLE. AS A PHYSICIAN, YOU UNDERSTAND HUMAN SUFFERING. THIS UNDERSTANDING IS REFLECTED IN THE ENERGETIC COMMITMENT YOU'VE MADE TO BATTLING THE FLOW OF NARCOTICS THROUGH VENEZUELA AND THE CARIBBEAN REGION. AS YOU ARE AWARE, THE DRUG-ABUSE PROBLEM IS SOMETHING NANCY AND I FEEL STRONGLY ABOUT. NANCY HAS SPENT MANY HOURS HERE TRYING TO HELP THE VICTIMS OF DRUG ADDICTION, ESPECIALLY YOUNG PEOPLE. FOR YOUR EFFORTS TO STOP ILLEGAL DRUGS BEFORE THEY REACH OUR SHORE, YOU HAVE OUR PERSONAL THANKS.

- 5 -

AMERICANS KNOW THERE IS A SPECIAL SPIRIT IN VENEZUELA. THAT SPIRIT IS HARD TO MISS WHEN YOU HAVE TONY ARMAS HITTING TOWERING HOME RUNS LIKE THEY WERE THE EASIEST THING TO DO. WELL, THE FREE PEOPLE OF VENEZUELA AND THE UNITED STATES ARE ON THE SAME TEAM. AND WE'RE UP TO BAT. SO, IN KEEPING WITH THE LESSONS TONY ARMAS HAS BEEN TEACHING US, LET'S SET OUR SIGHTS HIGH, WORK AS A TEAM, AND ASSURE DEMOCRACY AND IMPROVING ECONOMIC WELL-BEING FOR ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE AMERICAS.

WILL YOU ALL JOIN ME NOW IN A TOAST TO PRESIDENT LUSINCHI, THE PEOPLE OF VENEZUELA, AND THINGS WE CAN AND WILL ACCOMPLISH TOGETHER.

# #

(Rohrabacher/BE)
December 3, 1984
5:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAIME LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to democracy in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, the hard sacrifices of our own founding fathers seem so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for political freedom. He was part of it. As a young man, he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings ~~were so bad~~ they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. <sup>WELL</sup> But you had the spirit of a tiger, ~~as well~~, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year, you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inextricably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today, you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero. And when we say American, we mean every one of us from the North Slope of Alaska to the tip of Tierra del Fuego.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing for the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis was most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be as invaluable as it was today. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today, instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back," for you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure, you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician, you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug-abuse problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop illegal drugs before they reach our shore, you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you have Tony Armas hitting towering home runs like they were the easiest thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's set our sights high, work as a team, and assure democracy and improving economic well-being for all the people of the Americas.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher/BE)
December 3, 1984
5:00 p.m. RL

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAIME LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to democracy in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, the hard sacrifices of our own founding fathers seem so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for political freedom. He was part of it. As a young man, he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the spirit of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year, you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inextricably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today, you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero. And when we say American, we mean every one of us from the North Slope of Alaska to the tip of Tierra del Fuego.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing for the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis was most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be as invaluable as it was today. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today, instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back," for you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure, you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician, you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug-abuse problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop illegal drugs before they reach our shore, you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you have Tony Armas hitting towering home runs like they were the easiest thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's set our sights high, work as a team, and assure democracy and improving economic well-being for all the people of the Americas.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher/BE)
November 30, 1984
5:00 p.m. NBC

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAIME LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

up 8/28/84
OS Notes - p. 5
Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to ~~freedom~~ democracy in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

up 8/29/84
OS Notes - p. 3
Notes - 1820's
S-1770
In this beautiful setting, the hard sacrifices of our own founding fathers seem so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

PI - Personal with ch 2, 1984
President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for political freedom. He was part of it. As a young man, he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the spirit of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

OS Notes
P. 1, 4
Notes - p. 4
Jan 23, 1983
Internment
com. Emb.
12-12-83 0665
side - #6
Freudenberg
notes - Krenkler
Last year, you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose

OS Notes
1.4 - p 161 - (B 1763)

struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today, you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero. And when we say American, we mean every one of us from the North slope of Alaska to the tip of Terra del Fuego.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing for the cause of democracy in this hemisphere.

Your support during the Grenada crisis was most appreciated.

Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be as invaluable as it was today. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today, instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back," for you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure, you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician, you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug-abuse problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop illegal drugs before they reach our shore, you have our personal thanks.

re Amer -
4-p.161
N Slope
83 p.354
Wider Slope Wide
med star p. 59
Notes p 5

Constance
x 3552

I Personality
2, 1984

Lusinchi Bio from (en Embassy) p. 1
Bio (CIA)

memo to the P
p. 2

DK USC
Molinarine
x 3552

Constance

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you have Tony Armas hitting towering home runs like they were the easiest thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's set our sights high, work as a team, and assure democracy and improving economic well-being for all the people of the Americas.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

LPI
JAN. 14,
1984

XDS NOTES p 5

Ben

Ben

(Rohrabacher)
November 30, 1984
4:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

Hand In this beautiful setting, ~~with chandeliers and candles~~, the sacrifices of our own founding fathers seem so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man, he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had <sup>ferocious spirit</sup> ~~the soul~~ of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero. And when <sup>Jane</sup> I say American, <sup>we</sup> I mean every one of us from the North slope of Alaska to the tip of Terra del Fuego.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing <sup>for</sup> in the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis <sup>was</sup> is most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be <sup>as invaluable</sup> as it was today, invaluable. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today, instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back," <sup>for</sup> ~~Mr. President, we know that~~ you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure, you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician, you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug-abuse problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop illegal drugs before they reach our shore, you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you <sup>have</sup> ~~ve~~ got Tony Armas hitting <sup>home</sup> home runs like they were the <sup>casual</sup> ~~natural~~ thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's set our sights high, work as a team, and assure democracy and improving economic well-being for all the people of the Americans.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher)
November 30, 1984
4:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, with chandeliers and candles, the sacrifices of our own founding fathers seem so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the soul of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero. And when I say American, I mean every one of us from the North slope of Alaska to the tip of Terra del Fuego.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing in the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis is most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be, as it was today, invaluable. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back." Mr. President, we know that you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug-abuse problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop illegal drugs before they reach our shore you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you've got Tony Armas hitting home runs like they were the natural thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's set our sights high, work as a team, and assure democracy and improving economic well-being for all the people of the Americas.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher/BE)
November 30, 1984
5:00 p.m. NSC

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAIME LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, the hard sacrifices of our own founding fathers seem so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man, he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the spirit of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year, you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today, you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero. And when we say American, we mean every one of us from the North slope of Alaska to the tip of Terra del Fuego.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing for the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis was most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be as invaluable as it was today. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today, instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back," for you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure, you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician, you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug-abuse problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop illegal drugs before they reach our shore, you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you have Tony Armas hitting towering home runs like they were the easiest thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's set our sights high, work as a team, and assure democracy and improving economic well-being for all the people of the Americas.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher)
November 30, 1984
4:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, with chandeliers and candles, the sacrifices of our own founding fathers seem so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the soul of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero. And when I say American, I mean every one of us from the North slope of Alaska to the tip of Terra del Fuego.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing in the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis is most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be, as it was today, invaluable. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back." Mr. President, we know that you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug-abuse problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop illegal drugs before they reach our shore you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you've got Tony Armas hitting home runs like they were the natural thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's set our sights high, work as a team, and assure democracy and improving economic well-being for all the people of the Americas.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher)
November 30, 1984
2:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, with chandeliers and candles, the sacrifices of our own founding fathers seems so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the soul of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero, ~~for all the Americas.~~ And when I say American, I mean every one of us from the mountains of Alaska to the tip of Terra del Fuego. ✓

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing in the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis is most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be, as it was today, invaluable. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back." Mr. President, we know that you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in ~~the hospital~~ Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the ~~drug~~ <sup>drug</sup> problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop <sup>illicit</sup> drugs before they reach our shore you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you've got Tony Armas hitting home runs like they were the natural thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team.

And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, ~~let's set our sights high, let's work as a team, let's assure democracy~~ ~~let's hit some home runs.~~ AND IMPROVING ECONOMIC CONDITIONS FOR THE PEOPLE OF LATIN AMERICA. Well being for all the people of the Americas!

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher)
November 30, 1984
2:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, with chandeliers and candles, the sacrifices of our own founding fathers seems so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the soul of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing in the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis is most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be, as it was today, invaluable. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back." Mr. President, we know that you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop drugs before they reach our shore you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you've got Tony Armas hitting home runs like they were the natural thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's hit some home runs.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher)
November 30, 1984
2:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President, for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, with chandeliers and candles, the sacrifices of our own founding fathers seems so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the soul of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing in the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis is most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance to me in the years ahead will be, as it was today, invaluable. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back." Mr. President, we know that you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. For your efforts to stop drugs before they reach our shore you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you've got Tony Armas hitting home runs like they were the natural thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's hit some home runs.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(Rohrabacher)
November 30, 1984
1:30 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: STATE DINNER TOAST FOR
PRESIDENT JAMIE LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

Good evening and welcome to the White House. This has been a special time for us. Today we've had the opportunity to exchange views and get to know President Lusinchi, an individual whose strength of conviction and personal bravery helped give birth to freedom in his country. Tonight we honor you, Mr. President for what you have done, for what you are doing, and for the kind of man you are.

In this beautiful setting, with chandeliers and candles, the sacrifices of our own founding fathers seems so long ago. Yet all of what we have has been built on the foundation they laid.

President Lusinchi remembers well Venezuela's fight for freedom. He was part of it. As a young man he committed himself to the cause of democracy. He was arrested and tortured by the dictatorship. Mr. President, I'm told the beatings were so bad they left welts on your back similar to the stripes of a tiger. But you had the soul of a tiger as well, and you never gave up your ideals. Venezuela is free today, because it has people of such character.

Last year you celebrated 25 years of continuous democratic government in Venezuela. Commemorating that, you said, "We have discovered that democracy and liberty go together -- inexplicably together." It was fitting that last year was also the 200th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, a Venezuelan whose struggle gave independence to the hemisphere. Today you carry on the work of this truly all-American hero.

I'd like to thank you, President Lusinchi, for what your country is doing in the cause of democracy in this hemisphere. Your support during the Grenada crisis, ~~and your subsequent help to the people there,~~ is most appreciated. Your efforts in Central America and the Caribbean are of great importance to the future of freedom there. Your personal guidance ~~and advice~~ to me in the years ahead will be, as it was today, invaluable. We are proud to stand with you and to have you and your countrymen as our friends.

President Lusinchi, you represent in so many ways the deep ties between our two people. Today instead of "welcome," we should have said, "welcome back." Mr. President, we know that you lived with us during your time of exile, studying medicine and working in Bellevue Hospital in New York.

As a political figure you've been concerned about the freedom and progress of your people. As a physician you understand human suffering. This understanding is reflected in the energetic commitment you've made to battling the flow of narcotics through Venezuela and the Caribbean region. As you are aware, the drug problem is something Nancy and I feel strongly about. Nancy has spent many hours here trying to help the victims of drug addiction, especially young people. ~~So~~ ~~for~~ your efforts to stop drugs before they reach our shore you have our personal thanks.

Americans know there is a special spirit in Venezuela. That spirit is hard to miss when you've got Tony Armas hitting home runs like they were the natural thing to do. Well, the free people of Venezuela and the United States are on the same team. And we're up to bat. So, in keeping with the lessons Tony Armas has been teaching us, let's hit some home runs.

Will you all join me now in a toast to President Lusinchi, the people of Venezuela, and things we can and will accomplish together.

(ROHRBACHER)

DECEMBER 4, 1984

ENTERTAINMENT THANK YOU
PRESIDENT LUSINCHI OF VENEZUELA

I'D LIKE TO THANK ANDY WILLIAMS. ANDY IS AN IOWA BOY WHO ENDED UP IN CALIFORNIA PLAYING GOLF. IN BETWEEN, HE HAS HAD A PHENOMENAL CAREER AS A SINGER, COMPLETE WITH BEST-SELLING RECORDS AND A HIT TELEVISION SHOW. YESTERDAY, IT WAS ANDY'S BIRTHDAY. ANDY, I KNOW I SPEAK FOR EVERYONE HERE WHEN I SAY HAPPY BIRTHDAY, AND THANK YOU FOR BEING WITH US.

# #

(Rohrabacher/BE)

December 3, 1984

5:00 p.m.

RR

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: ENTERTAINMENT THANK YOU
STATE VISIT OF PRESIDENT LUSINCHI
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

I'd like to thank Andy Williams. Andy is an Iowa boy who ended up in California playing golf. In between, he has had a phenomenal career as a singer, complete with best-selling records and a hit television show. Yesterday, it was Andy's birthday. Andy, I know I speak for everyone here when I say happy birthday, and thank you for being with us.

Julie

(Rohrabacher)
December 3, 1984
12:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: ENTERTAINMENT THANK YOU
STATE VISIT OF PRESIDENT LUSINCHI
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

X I'd like to thank Andy Williams. Andy is an Iowa boy who ended up in California playing golf. In between, he has had a phenomenal career as a singer, complete with best-selling records and a hit television show.

~~Andy, I know I speak for everyone here this evening when I say thank you for being with us. And I'd just like add that yesterday was his birthday. So Andy, happy birtday.~~

Yesterday, it was Andy's birthday. Andy, I know I speak for everyone here when I say, happy ~~birth~~ birthday and thank you for being with us.

Ben

(Rohrabacher)
December 3, 1984
12:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: ENTERTAINMENT THANK YOU
STATE VISIT OF PRESIDENT LUSINCHI
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

I'd like to thank Andy Williams. Andy is an Iowa boy who ended up in California playing golf. In between, he has had a phenomenal career as a singer, complete with best-selling records and a hit television show. Andy, I know I speak for everyone here this evening when I say thank you for being with us.

(Rohrabacher)
December 3, 1984
12:00 p.m.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: ENTERTAINMENT THANK YOU
STATE VISIT OF PRESIDENT LUSINCHI
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1984

I'd like to thank Andy Williams. Andy is an Iowa boy who ended up in California playing golf. In between, he has had a phenomenal career as a singer, complete with best-selling records and a hit television show. Andy, I know I speak for everyone here this evening when I say thank you for being with us.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

November 13, 1984

TO: BEN ELLIOTT

FROM: Gahl L. Hodges Social Secretary to the White House
x7064

Information

Action

Attached is bio information on Andy Williams who will be the entertainer for the December 4
Venezuelan State Dinner.

---

BARNABY PRODUCTIONS

ANDY WILLIAMS

A Biography

Celebrating a career in musical-variety television spanning a period of some twenty-five years, Andy Williams has been described as a cross between "an American consensus in a cashmere pullover" and a "country slicker blending good sense and artful sophistication."

Andy Williams began his singing career with his brothers Bob, Don and Dick in the church choir in Wall Lake, Iowa. When the family moved to Des Moines, the brothers gained tremendous popularity with their own radio program on station WHO, then moved to WLS in Chicago and later to WLW in Cincinnati.

Encouraged by this early success, the entire family moved once again, this time west to California where they settled in Los Angeles. For the next several years the quartet performed on local radio stations throughout California and, in 1947, made their nightclub debut in Las Vegas appearing with Kay Thompson. The troupe, known as Kay Thompson and the Williams Brothers, travelled throughout the United States and Europe in an SRO tour, clearly establishing themselves as one of the most popular and successful nightclub acts in show business.

(more)

When the group disbanded in 1953, Andy continued his career beginning with a two-week commitment in New York with the Steve Allen "Tonight" show, which stretched into nearly three years. It was at this time that he signed with Cadence Records and during the six-year period extending from 1955 to 1961, he recorded such hits as "Hawaiian Wedding Song", "Lips of Wine", "Butterfly", and many, many others.

By 1962, Andy had developed his own enormously popular network television series appropriately titled "The Andy Williams Show". The show ran for ten years, earning three Emmy Awards, including Best Musical-Variety Series of 1966 and 1967 as well as numerous nominations in all production categories.

Andy Williams' name has also been associated with the Christmas season for many years. "Andy Williams' Early New England Christmas", a TV special, was one of the highlights of the '82 season.

December 1983 was a busy month for Andy. He starred in "Christmas in Washington", an NBC-TV special, and hosted CBS-TV's "Happy New Year America" live from the Plaza Hotel in New York.

The very popular, highly rated "The People's Choice Awards", which aired on CBS in Spring 1984, was ably hosted by Williams.

(more)

In addition to his extensive television credits, Andy Williams' now legendary status in the entertainment community is reflected in his twenty-plus-year association with Columbia Records. During this period, he earned seventeen RIAA-certified gold record albums and five NARAS Grammy nominations. He won the Best Male Vocalist Poll for Billboard Magazine three times and has been cited twice by the National Association of Recording Merchandisers as Best-Selling Male Vocalist. His "Days of Wine and Roses" album for Columbia Records was certified by Billboard as the Best Vocal Album of the Year and earned him the Music Vendor LP Hit Award. Eleven Andy Williams singles have been designated by CBS as Columbia Hall of Fame Standards.

The "man in the cashmere pullover" also cuts a considerable figure in the world of sports. The Isuzu Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament, first played in 1969, is a major annual PGA-approved event. Participants include virtually every major touring professional; proceeds from the tournament are donated to the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Andy is currently National Honorary Chairman of the American Lung Association. Through his efforts, which included a trip to the White House, Christmas Seals has reached its annual goal of over one million dollars.

Andy is also an ardent supporter of both the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital (CARIH) in Denver, Colorado, where a research laboratory was built and named in his honor, and the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Foundation.

RECORDINGS

Recordings for Cadence Records include:

- "Canadian Sunset" (1956)
- "Butterfly" (1957)
- "Lips of Wine" (1957)
- "Are You Sincere" (1958)
- "Hawaiian Wedding Song" - nominated for NARAS Grammy Award (1959)
- "Lonely Street" (1959)
- "The Village of St. Bernadette" (1960)
- "Do You Mind" (1960)
- "In The Summertime" (1961)
- "The Bilbao Song" (1961)

Recordings for the Columbia label include:

- "Moon River" (1962)
- "Days of Wine and Roses" (1963)
- "Can't Get Used To Losing You" (1963)
- "May Each Day" (1963)
- "Almost There" (1964)
- "Charade" (1964)
- "More" (1964)
- "Dear Heart" (1965)
- "The Shadow of Your Smile" (1966)
- "In The Arms of Love" (1966)
- "Born Free" (1967)
- "Music to Watch Girls By" (1967)
- "Happy Heart" (1969)
- "Love Story" (1971)
- "Love Theme from 'The Godfather'" ("Speak Softly Love") (1972)

TELEVISION CREDITS

- "The Andy Williams and June Valli Show", 1957 (NBC)
- "The Chevy Showroom Starring Andy Williams", 1958 (ABC)
- "The Andy Williams Show", July 1959-September 1959 (CBS)
September 1962-June 1963 (NBC)
- "Andy Williams in Music From Shubert Alley", 1962 (NBC)
- "The Andy Williams Show", September 1963-May 1964 (NBC)
September 1966-May 1967 (NBC)
- "Andy Williams Presents Ray Stevens", 1970 (NBC)
- "The Andy Williams Show", September 1969-July 1971 (NBC)
- "Andy Williams Family Christmas Show", 1966-1971 (NBC)
- "Andy Williams' Early New England Christmas", 1982 (CBS)
- "Christmas in Washington", 1983 (NBC)
- "Happy New Year America", 1983 (CBS)
- "People's Choice Awards", 1984 (CBS)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

8/28/84

MEMORANDUM

TO: ROBERT MCFARLANE

FROM: FREDERICK J. RYAN, JR. FJR

SUBJ: APPROVED PRESIDENTIAL ACTIVITY

MEETING: Time reserved for State Visit of President Jaime
Lusinchi of Venezuela:
9:30 am - 30 min - Briefing for Visit - Oval Office
10:00 am - 30 min - Arrival Ceremony - South Lawn
DATE: 10:30 am - 60 min - Meeting - Oval Office/Cabinet Room
7:15 pm - State Dinner - Residence BLACK TIE

TIME: December 4, 1984
As shown

DURATION: As shown

LOCATION: As shown

REMARKS REQUIRED: Yes

MEDIA COVERAGE: Coordinate with Press Office

FIRST LADY
PARTICIPATION: Yes, for Arrival Ceremony and State Dinner

NOTE: PROJECT OFFICER, SEE ATTACHED CHECKLIST

cc: R. Darman J. Rosebush R. Kimmitt
R. Deprospero R. Scouten
B. Elliott B. Shaddix
D. Fischer W. Sittmann
C. Fuller L. Speakes
W. Henkel WHCA Audio/Visual
E. Hickey WHCA Operations
G. Hodges A. Wrobleski
C. McCain Nell Yates
B. Oglesby