DECLASSIFIED

White House Guidelines, August 28, 1997 February 25, 1981

By 603 NARA, Date 7/24/07

Your Holiness:

I join all of my countrymen in extending to you, personally and as a representative of millions of Catholics around the world, a warm welcome to the United States. Americans of every faith treasure the memory of your historic visit to our shores in October, 1979. We are indeed delighted at this chance to have you among us again. We only regret that your stay must be so brief that you will be unable to visit parts of the country that you have yet to see. Pride in my home state forces me to recommend that someday you should visit California. But all of the people of this country, today, with open hearts, bid you welcome.

As you know, I have asked a trusted friend, Mr. William Wilson, to serve as my Personal Envoy to the Holy See. When Mr. Wilson calls at the Vatican in the very near future he will seek an appropriate opportunity to present to you a formal letter of introduction and credence. Mr. Wilson has my complete confidence, and I hope you will not hesitate to use him as the channel for any sensitive matters you or your associates may wish to communicate to me.

Sincerely,

Ronald Reagan

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. RICHARD V. ALLEN
THE WHITE HOUSE

Subject: Naming William Wilson as Presidential Representative to Greet the Pope in Guam and Anchorage

The Department recommended on February 6 (Memo at Tab 1) that the President consider designating a Personal Representative to welcome Pope John Paul II on his arrival in Guam (February 22) and Anchorage (February 26). We proposed that if possible the President choose for this mission the person he intended to name as his Personal Envoy to the Holy See.

Now that the President has proposed, and the Vatican has accepted, Mr. William A. Wilson as Personal Envoy, we suggest that the President ask Mr. Wilson to go to Guam and Anchorage. Our Vatican Office has discussed the matter informally with Vatican officials who say the Pope would be pleased to meet Mr. Wilson at one or both of his U.S. stops.

Mr. Wilson might further be asked to carry with him a short message of welcome from the President to the Pope. A proposed draft is attached at Tab 2.

We request an early decision to allow time for the necessary arrangements to be made.

Subject: The Pope's Visit to Guam and Anchorage

Pope John Paul II will travel to the Far East in February to visit the Philippines and Japan. He will stop briefly on U.S. soil: in Guam (February 22-23) and in Anchorage, Alaska (February 26). The Department recommends that the President consider designating a Personal Representative to represent him at the welcoming ceremonies in Guam, in Anchorage, or possibly both.

Vatican officials have told us that the Pope does not expect any U.S. Government officials to be on hand in Guam. Nevertheless we believe it would be a fitting gesture of hospitality and respect if the President did in fact name someone. The Department of Interior, which has primary responsibility for Guamanian affairs, may wish of course to make its own recommendation. The Republican Governor of Guam, Paul M. Calvo, would be on hand in any case.

The papal stop in Alaska--primarily for refueling--will last only about three hours. Even so, public interest in the visit is running very high among Alaskans. We believe that the absence of some sign of the President's personal interest would surely draw public notice in Alaska.

Either papal stop provides an excellent opportunity for the Administration to establish an early, personal relationship with the Pope. Participation by the Vice President would lend a touch of drama and would greatly please both the Pope and his hosts. But a lower level of representation would be entirely adequate.

We believe the best choice would be the person the President intends to name as his Personal Envoy to the Vatican, if this person has been designated by that time. (Personal Envoys have not been subject to confirmation in the past.) A senior Administration official or a close associate of the President from private life would be other possibilities.

MEMORANDUM FOR: THE PRESIDENT

THRU: MICHAEL DEEVER

FROM: RICHARD V. ALLEN

SUBJECT: Pope John Paul II's Presence in Anchorage (U)

The Pontiff's return home from his Far East pilgrimage later this month will include a three-hour refueling stop in Anchorage, Alaska (February 26). Both our Deputy Vatican Envoy and the State Department believe some Presidential acknowledgement/participation would be very appropriate while the Pope is on North American soil. (U)

I concur with that view and favor a phone call to His Holiness (recommended talking points are at Tab A.) In addition, I believe it would be a gracious gesture on your part to have a White House-connected personality on hand to welcome the Pope and to transmit a personal letter from you. This will help establish a cordial and productive relationship between you and the Pontiff early in your Administration and appeal to the many millions of Americans who avidly followed his triumphal tour of the U.S. in October, 1979. Should you favor a personal representative greeting the Pope during his brief Anchorage layover, you might want to consider your choice of the Personal Envoy job in the Vatican for that purpose (State could ensure that he is accompanied by appropriate protocol people). ~~(C)~~

RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. That you approve a Presidential phone call to the Pope in Anchorage (for February 26). (U)

THE WHITE HOUSE

RECOMMENDED TELEPHONE CALL

TO: Pope John Paul II

DATE: February 26, 1981 during the Pope's three-hour refueling stop in Anchorage, Alaska

(call should occur between 3:40 and 6:40 in the afternoon, Washington time)

PURPOSE: To establish an early, personal relationship with the Pope while welcoming him back to North American soil.

BACKGROUND: The Pope will be en route home following a major pastoral trip to the Philippines and Japan, punctuated by a 24-hour stop in Guam. American, and especially Alaskan, interest in the Pope's return to the North American continent (a little over a year following his first triumphal visit to the U.S.) is likely to be high. A call from you, in conjunction with other courtesies (subject of separate memo), would be especially gracious in these circumstances.

TOPICS OF DISCUSSION:

1. Cordial welcome to U.S. soil.
2. U.S. appreciation for the Vatican's help to us during the hostage crisis.
3. His impressions of the Far East in general and of Guam in particular.
4. Your satisfaction that Archbishop Pio Laghi has newly arrived from Buenos Aires as Apostolic Delegate to the U.S.
5. Your full confidence in your Personal Envoy to the Holy See and your hope that the Vatican, and the Pope himself, will not hesitate to use him as the channel for any sensitive matters the Pope may wish to communicate to us.
6. Invite him to revisit the U.S. (the Pope has expressed great interest in covering the Western part of the U.S., which he did not have time to do during his October, 1979 travels here).

THE WHITE HOUSE

Subject: Request for Appointment with the Vice President: Vatican Secretary of State Casaroli.

Agostino Cardinal Casaroli, the Vatican Secretary of State, will be in Washington May 15. The Department recommends that if possible Vice President Bush meet with him briefly on that day, preferably in the afternoon.

Casaroli serves as Pope John Paul II's "Prime Minister" and principal adviser on international affairs. He is thoroughly conversant with the major issues, including Lebanon, El Salvador, and Poland. We believe it is important to our Vatican relations that Casaroli receive high-level attention while he is here in Washington. A biographic sketch is attached.
