Biography

Biography

The Office of Public Liaison was originally organized with Elizabeth Dole as the Director, Red Cavaney as her “number two” and with Diana Lozano and Jack Burgess responsible for groupings of staff and reporting to Cavaney. Diana Lozano oversaw the “human service portfolio” staff people in the Office of Public Liaison. This group focused on outreach to interest groups such as African-Americans, the Jewish community, and Hispanics. This chain of command was simplified in mid-1982. Lozano was taken out of her overseer role, and assigned to work with Hispanic and women’s groups.

Diana Lozano came to the White House on a two year leave of absence from IBM.

Some of Lozano’s work product can be found in the Henry Zuniga collection.
