Biography

Biography

Anne V. Higgins was a well-known pro-life activist who served in the correspondence office for Presidents Nixon, Ford and Reagan.

Anne Elizabeth Volz was born in the Bronx, New York City. She attended George Washington University, and received a bachelor's degree in 1974.

In the mid-1960s she worked as a receptionist for Richard Nixon at his law office in New York until 1967, when she was given the assignment to handle his increasing flow of correspondence. Higgins eventually followed President Nixon to the White House to serve as an Assistant Director of Correspondence and continued in that capacity to the end of the Ford administration.

In 1981 President Reagan appointed her Special Assistant to the President and Director of Correspondence where she remained through 1988. In this position she brought selected correspondence to President Reagan, often including those which advanced pro-life causes. She openly spoke about her willingness to take her pro-life advocacy directly to the president, and her efforts are often cited in books and articles. From 1977-1980 she worked for the Ad Hoc Committee for the Defense of Life.

In 1988 she and her husband George Higgins formed Higgins & Associates to manage real estate properties. They owned properties in Washington; New York; Ocean City, NJ; and Westhampton, NY. She retired in 2001.

She was a member of the St. Stephen Martyr Catholic Church in Washington and the Foggy Bottom Association, a community organization in Washington.

Anne Higgins died on August 12, 2010 of breast cancer. She was 71.

Scope and Content Note

As Director of Correspondence, Anne Higgins had oversight of all Correspondence Office operating units. Her office primarily prepared and/or processed presidential replies, with additional responsibilities that included: creating the Anne Higgins form language; creating publications, fact sheets, and enclosures used by other Correspondence operating units; handling replies to President Reagan's personal friends; preparing letters requested by White House staff and providing guidance to all Correspondence units regarding overall policy on the handling of incoming mail.

A large part of the collection consists of the outgoing letters, telegrams and messages from both President Reagan and Higgins. Of primary importance was the weekly mail sample that she forwarded to President Reagan for his response. Higgins frequently included letters about the abortion issue in the sample, as a way of quietly forwarding pro-life causes.

The collection holds a file of internal memoranda from 1981-1985, which houses materials concerning policy and guidance for handling the mail. Of particular note is a 1984 draft overview of the entire Correspondence Office, including the responsibilities of each division. In 1984, the Office of Correspondence combined with the Office of Special Presidential Messages, which was responsible for preparing official Presidential Proclamations. These files became part of Anne Higgins' Office files as SERIES V: Proclamations and Working Papers, and include research material, drafts and clearances (for policy content).

From 1981 to 1988 Higgins and her staff maintained reference copies of "classic" letters, White House success letters, mail samples and Mail Volume Reports. There are incomplete file sets of Mail Volume reports (November 1985 - December 1988) and Comments Office reports (October 1985 - August 1988). Many of the Mail Volume reports in this copy set resemble the Mail Samples which were sent to President Reagan, and bear an original stamp "The President Has Seen." There is a small Subject file housing material on issues and projects relating to correspondence that spans all eight years. Finally, Higgins' Office maintained a file on the 1983 White House visit of students rescued from Grenada, which includes correspondence, information on invitees, and gate lists from the event.

The Office of Correspondence creation of standardized response letters to various issues, events, and occasions were given alpha-numeric codes such as AVH-1, etc. This material is contained in Series I of the Office of Correspondence records collection. Higgins or more likely an auto-pen of Higgins signature usually signed these outgoing form letters.

The Anne Higgins collection is composed of 13 Series: SERIES I: Ronald Reagan Correspondence, SERIES II: Ronald Reagan Photos with Personal Inscriptions, SERIES III: Telegrams, SERIES IV: Anne Higgins Correspondence, SERIES V: Proclamations and Working Papers, SERIES VI: Mail Samples, SERIES VII: Classic Letters, SERIES VIII: Success Letters and Messages, SERIES IX: Memoranda, SERIES X: Comments Office, SERIES XI: Mail Volume Reports, SERIES XII: Subject File, SERIES XIII: Grenada Students Visit to the White House.

Series List

SERIES I: Ronald Reagan Correspondence

This series consists of carbon copies of outgoing letters from President Reagan. While President Reagan did not author every single letter that went out over his signature, all were intended to represent his personal communication to the recipient. Most were authored by the staff of professional writers in Anne Higgins' office. Every week, however, President Reagan was given a small number of letters to answer directly, chosen by Anne Higgins from the approximately 20,000 that reached the White House daily. Throughout his presidency he referenced these letters in speeches and interviews.

The letters cover a wide range of routine topics, including birthday greetings, congratulatory messages, condolences, words of encouragement or wisdom, get-well wishes and laudatory messages for acts of bravery. Along with issues of the day, like the air traffic controllers strike and the White House china controversy, the correspondence addresses some topics throughout the administration, including the economy, taxes, unemployment, social security and foreign policy. In some cases the letters address the personal concerns of citizens experiencing problems with government agencies or administration policies. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES II: Ronald Reagan Photos with Personal Inscriptions

, Boxes 25-36)

This series consist of photocopies of photos that Ronald Reagan personally inscribed and is arranged by recipient name.

SERIES III: Telegrams

This series consists of copies of telegrams from President Reagan. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES IV: Anne Higgins Correspondence

This series consists of carbon copies of outgoing letters from Anne Higgins. In most cases, these letters respond to individuals who had written to President Reagan, and include courtesy letters to requests that President Reagan could not accommodate, transmittals forwarding cash donations to the Treasury, and substantive responses concerning administration policies. Higgins also signed many of the responses sent to individuals who had complaints or problems with federal agencies, such as loss or denial of benefits (e.g. Social Security, disabled Veterans) or property seized through eminent domain. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES V: Proclamations and Working Papers

(7.2 l. ft., Boxes 51-68)

This series consists of material related to the drafts, background information and final copies of proclamations. These files are administrative in nature and document the logistical process of producing official proclamations. The material is arranged by year, and alphabetically there under.

SERIES VI: Mail Samples

This series consists of the material sent to President Reagan on a weekly basis. It was sampled and sent to the President at his request so he could have a “feel” for citizen’s concerns and comments. The samples include holiday greetings, requests for assistance, children’s letters, and often, pro-life material included by Anne Higgins. The staff appears to select this sample to entertain and enlighten the President. The President was also given mail reports summarizing the pro/con comments from the public received weekly. These materials were sent to President Reagan on a weekly basis. PLEASE NOTE: The 1988 Mail Samples housed in Box 92, labeled “Mail Volume Reports.” This material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES VII: CLASSIC LETTERS

This series consists of photocopies of incoming letters to the White House, collected by the correspondence office staff. Written by people of all ages, the letters vary a great deal in content, style and tone. Almost all are universally amusing, oftentimes unintentionally. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES VIII: SUCCESS LETTERS AND MESSAGES

This series consist of material collected by Anne Higgins' Office to show how the White House was able to successfully assist citizens in hardship situations, frequently caused by government agencies. These "success stories" were often shared with President Reagan via the weekly mail sample. It includes photocopies of both incoming and outgoing correspondence. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES IX: MEMORANDA

This series consists of material relating to the operational concerns of the Correspondence Office, including the policies for handling mail. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES X: COMMENTS OFFICE

This series consists of statistical reporting material from the Comments Office, summarizing the number and nature of telephone calls to the White House from the general public. The material includes monthly reports, and tally calls after a major address or press conference. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES XI: MAIL VOLUME REPORTS

This series consists of material relating to the volume, content and analysis of incoming mail to the White House. Included here are what appear to be copies of mail samples, labeled Mail Volume Reports. In fact this set completes the 1988 mail samples missing from that series (SERIES VI). It is unknown at the time of processing why this material was labeled and housed here. The material is arranged chronologically.

SERIES XII: SUBJECT FILE

, Boxes 92-94)

This series consists of material relating to administrative functions of the Office of Correspondence and the Director of the Office; various issues and projects. The material is arranged alphabetically.

SERIES XIII: GRENADA STUDENTS VISIT TO THE WHITE HOUSE

(1.2 l. ft., Boxes 95-98)

This series consists of material relating to the 1983 visit to the White House by Grenada students. These students were attending St. George's Medical School in Grenada at the time of the U.S. invasion of the island. They were rescued and transported back to the U.S. by the U.S. military. The material is arranged by year, and alphabetically there under.

SERIES VI: Mail Samples

This series consists of the material sent to President Reagan on a weekly basis. It was sampled and sent to the President at his request so he could have a “feel” for citizen’s concerns and comments. The samples include holiday greetings, requests for assistance, children’s letters, and often, pro-life material included by Anne Higgins. The staff appears to select this sample to entertain and enlighten the President. The President was also given mail reports summarizing the pro/con comments from the public received weekly. These materials were sent to President Reagan on a weekly basis. PLEASE NOTE: The 1988 Mail Samples housed in Box 92, labeled “Mail Volume Reports.” This material is arranged chronologically.
