Biography

Paul Shott Stevens is an attorney and a former government official.

Stevens was born November 19, 1952, in New Orleans, Louisiana. He graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. from Yale University in 1974 and received a J.D. from the University of Virginia in 1978.

Following his graduation, Stevens practiced law in Washington, DC, and was a partner in the firm of Dickstein, Shapiro and Morin. In 1984 he was part of a team representing President Reagan's Counsellor Edwin Meese during an investigation by the Independent Counsel prior to his confirmation as Attorney General. From 1980 to 1983, he was also an adjunct lecturer in law at the Washington College of Law at the American University.

From September 1985-July 1986, Stevens served as Deputy Director and General Counsel of President Reagan's Blue Ribbon Commission on Defense Management, also known as the Packard Commission. The Packard Commission was tasked to study and recommend changes in several areas of Department of Defense Management, especially procurement and procurement contracts.

In January 1987, President Reagan appointed Stevens as a Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs and the first Legal Adviser of National Security Council. He appointed Stevens Executive Secretary of the National Security Council in November of the same year, replacing Grant S. Green Jr., who assumed responsibilities at the Department of Defense.

In 1989, Stevens joined the transition team for Sen. John Tower, following his nomination for Secretary of Defense by President George H.W. Bush. After Tower's nomination was rejected, Stevens remained at the Pentagon, serving Dick Cheney as Executive Assistant to the Secretary of Defense. Upon leaving government service, he was awarded the Medal for Distinguished Service, the Defense Department's highest civilian decoration.

Stevens first joined the Investment Company Institute (ICI) in 1993, serving as the organization's general counsel until 1997. He was then general counsel for mutual funds and international enterprise at Charles Schwab & Co. in San Francisco from 1997 to 1999, and a partner in the Financial Services Group at the Washington D.C.

law firm of Dechert LLP from 1999 to 2004.

On June 1, 2004, Stevens rejoined the ICI as its president, replacing Matthew Fink, who retired after 33 years with the organization. During his tenure, he led ICI's efforts on a number of issues. He stressed ICI's role in promoting ethical behavior within the industry, testifying before the U.S. Senate that ICI has "said loudly and clearly from the very beginning, if any member, any participant in this industry has violated the law, they should have the book thrown at them."

Since the financial crisis of 2007-2008, he led ICI's work surrounding money market fund reform, as well as the passage and implementation on the 2010 Dodd-Frank Act, which was passed with the intent of making the U.S. financial system more transparent and accountable to avoid another economic crisis. He was a very vocal proponent of investment funds and defined contribution plans as a means for providing for retirement savings. As a part of this, he is an advocate of the 401(k).

He also directed the 2011 launch of ICI Global, an expansion that seeks to advance common interests and promote public understanding of issues related to international funds, managers and investors, including both regulated U.S. and non-U.S. based funds publicly offered to investors worldwide. He has been vocally critical of financial transaction taxes, both in the United States and abroad.

In November 2020, Stevens became President, Emeritus of ICI.

Stevens has maintained an interest in national security affairs, serving from 2002 to 2006, as a member of the Markle Task Force on National Security in the Information Age. Established by the Markle Foundation, the task force was a bipartisan collaboration of national security experts from six presidential administrations, as well as senior information technology executives and privacy and civil liberties advocates. In its reports, the task force recommended ways to use information and information technology to establish national information systems that would both protect privacy and prevent terror. Many of the task force's recommendations informed the 9/11 Commission Report and were later incorporated in executive orders and legislation.

Stevens is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. In the fall of 1990, he was resident in Tokyo as a US-Japan Leadership Fellow. From 1995 to 1998, he chaired the American Bar Association's Standing Committee on Law and National Security. He has been a member of the board of advisers at the Morin Center for Banking and Financial Law at Boston University Law School and was a member of Yale College's University Librarian's Development Council.

Stevens serves on the board of directors of ICI Mutual Insurance Co. He is a member of the executive board of the Boy Scouts of America's National Capital Area Council. He is also member of the financial committee of the Catholic Diocese of Arlington, VA. He is a member of the board of directors for the Franciscan Monastery of the Holy Land, as well as a member of the Life Guard Society of Historic Mount Vernon.

Stevens and his wife, Joyce Stevens (formerly Pilz), live in Alexandria, Virginia. They have four sons.
