When the Library arranged this material, it was discovered that a portion of folders had been removed by David McIntosh at the White House in August of 1988. The Office of Records Management inserted out cards for the missing folders. They do not appear to have been returned. If they are discovered later, they will be integrated at that time. These folders are marked (White House Checkout Card Only).

Series List

SERIES I: SUBJECT FILE, 1987-1988

This series consists of material primarily on domestic issues. The majority of the material is related to civil rights, constitutional law, fair housing and sentencing guidelines. In August, 1988, McIntosh removed a group of folders from his stored collections at the White House and so there are a number of folders titles within this series that consist of White House out cards only. The Library has been unable to locate any of the removed material.

This subject file also contains a significant number of folders related to the Grove City College v. Bell case. In 1984, the United States Supreme Court ruled that Title IX (equal opportunity for women and girls participation in school activities) should be applied to private schools with students receiving federally funded scholarships even if the institution refused any direct federal funding. Prior to this ruling, Title IX had been applied only to colleges and universities receiving direct federal funding.

The material is arranged alphabetically by folder title.

SERIES II: JUDICIAL NOMINATION FILE

This series consists of material related to the judicial nomination process. The majority of the material is related to the Bork, Ginsburg, and Kennedy judicial nominations. The series is arranged alphabetically by folder title.
